SNOWSLIDES AND FLOODS KILL 13 THRUOUT NATION

Dozen States Are Threatened By High Water

Kansas City, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Snowslides, floods and grinding ice floes—loosed by warming winds that swept a major part of the nation—took a reported toll of at least 13 lives today.

The same winds, rushing in to fill low pressure areas over western Nebraska and northern Wisconsin, scooped up soil from bare fields in the southwest, creating scenes reminiscent of last year's blighting series of dust storms.

Swift melting rvier ice and headwater snows combined with forecasts of watershed rains to carry flood threats to a dozen states. Ice gorges were blasted and blasting preparations made throughout the middle west.

The historic camp bird mining property eight miles from Curay, Colo., was the scene of the greatest reported disaster. Fragmentary accounts told of a giant snowslide that roared down a mountainside, engulfing the plant where 45 men were at work and killing nine. Many more were reported injured. A rescue party of 30 on horseback fought ten-foot snowdrifts toward the scene.

Four were reported drowned and many driven from their homes by high water in the Stockton and Oaklade District of California. This region bore the brunt of early flood troubles with 35,000 acres under water and agricultural damage estimated near $1,000,000. The Sacramento river started falling today.

Farmers in rich lowlands in other sections were warned to be prepared to evacuate. Reading, Pa., made plans to care for 1,200 refugees in anticipation of floods along the Schuykill.

Danger was averted in the Ohio river valley near Evansville, Ind., where even more serious difficulty had been feared. Giant ice gorges above and below Evansville, broke—freeing many miles of the river and virtually removing serious flood threats.

Spanish Churches Slightly Damaged

Madrid, Feb. 24—(AP)—Two churches were slightly damaged by fire and 27 persons were injured in sporadic outbursts in some provinces of Spain tonight.

At Corunna, a group of Leftists attempted to burn the San Roque church, but the fire was quickly extinguished. Extremists at Betanzos set fire to doors and windows of a church after sprinkling them with gasoline, but residents put out the blazes.

Two Rightists were seriously wounded at the town of El Pedroso in the province of Seville when Leftists attacked their headquarters.

Huge Refinancing Program Planned By Morgenthau

Will Borrow In March To Retire Securities Month Later

By Richard L. Turner
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—A billion-dollar refinancing program for March was announced today by Secretary Morgenthau, including the new departure of borrowing then to retire securities maturing a month later.

At the same time, the treasury head said etsimates of federal income pointed to receipts next month of approximately the same amount as March 1935, indicating an official expectation that the loss in processing taxes will be about offset by increases in other items.

In other quarters it was learned the factor of revising revenue estimates has entered prominently into a fairly general revision of the budget undertaken by President Roosevelt, following the invalidation of the processing tax and congregessional action ordering payment of the bonds.

From this is expected to flow a recommendation for taxes to provide funds for paying benefits under the revamped farm program. Predictions at the Capital have been that the tax program would be submitted either late this week, or early next, after Mr. Roosevelt returns from Hyde Park and discusses the situation with congressional leaders.

Proposed Naval Treaty Is Given Stunning Blow

By Harold P. Braman
Associated Press Foreign Staff

London, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Hopes for a projected naval agreement to replace expiring treaties faded tonight as authoritative sources said Premier Mussolini refused to sign as long as sanctions are in force and the British fleet in the Mediterranean.

The attitude of the Fascist leader was disclosed by members of the Italian delegation, these sources declared and confirmed previous unofficial predictions.

Naval conference circles interpreted the expression as a stunning blow to the proposed treaty.

The Italian delegates explained that the premier sent them to sit in the conference originally "just to please the British."

However, since Great Britain took the lead against Italy in sanction discussions at Geneva and further sent the fleet in the Mediterranean, the Italian said Mussolini has regretted he did not recall the delegation.

The British also have made no headway with the French in discussions of ways to get around the French objections to German participation in the conference.

Their position, the delegates said, had not changed because their government had not advised them of the recent failure of French efforts to negotiate directly with Washington to change the American attitude for large ships.

Three Mile Wide Snow Avalanche Kills Woman, Men

Two Score Miners In Old Camp Bird Gold Mine Are Imprisoned

Ouray, Colo., Feb. 24.—(AP)—A three-mile wide snow avalanche killed a woman and two men today and imprisoned two score miners in the famous old Camp Bird gold mine for several hours before they could be released.

The snow pack roared down before noon from the Devil's slide of Chicago Cliff upon workings of the properties eight miles from here—the source of the bonanza fortune of the late Thomas Walsh, father of Evalyn Walsh McLean, Washington socialite.

The body of Mrs. Rose Israel, camp cook, was dug from the snow near where she was thrown from the front porch of the cook shack. The bodies of Cappy Wood, mill foreman of Denver, and Ralph Klinger, blacksmith, still were buried beneath the slide.

The avalanche piled a barricade of snow, rock, ice and debris at the mine entrance. Crews worked throughout the afternoon to bore through the packed slide.

They forced an entrance tonight. None of the entombed miners was reported hurt, but two other members of the camp suffered injuries. Richard Dunn, superintendent, was buried under snow for about three hours. An unidentified woman was thrown across the cook shack when the slide struck. Dunn's condition was reported serious from cold and exposure.

AGRICULTURAL SUPPLY BILL IN CONGRESS

The Measure Carries $161,863,147 For 1936–37

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—A bill carrying a near-record appropriation of $161,863,147 for ordinary agricultural activities of the government today started through a farm-conscious congress.

Before opening debate, the House appointed conferees to seek final agreement with the Senate on legislation carrying an additional $500,000,000 for subsidies to farmers for soil conservation.

The 1936-37 supply bill for the agriculture department proper proposed spending $21,635,563 more than in the current fiscal year. In addition, some $18,000,000 was re-appropriated out of unexpended funds in the treasury.

A reduction of $28,625,857 under the president's budget estimate was claimed by the appropriations committee, but this did not take into account the $18,000,000 re-appropriated. Among the eliminated items was $1,000,000 for continuing the shelter-belt tree-planting project in Plains States.

These other developments marked an agriculturally-important day in the capital which started off with publication of testimony at sub-committee hearings on the supply bill:

1. Senator Robinson, the majority leader, reported he would seek to have the $50,000,000 congress authorized for seed loans to farmers cut to $30,000,000 because of President Roosevelt's objection to the larger sum.

2. Farm administration officials, anxious to get the AAA-substitute program into operation in time to influence this year's crop-planting, announced plans for regional meetings of farmers next week to discuss details.

3. The census bureau reported a 10,000,000 acre reduction in the 1934 corn harvest compared with 1929.

4. Weather bureau officials testified they were unable to render efficient airway and other service under current appropriations.

5. Testimony was given congress that nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals had been made obsolete by improved methods of manufacture.

6. The supply bill carried $60,000,000 for previously-contracted federal aid road-building, and continued an authorization to contract for an additional $125,000,000 road program.

Boston Police Are Looking For Girl In Robbery Case

Telephones She Can "Clear Up" Holdup; Officers Cannot Locate Her

Boston, Feb. 24.—(AP)—A girl who volunteered to aid Boston police "clear up" a $12,800 robbery at the Keith Boston theatre, vanished tonight while detectives sped to keep an appointment with her.

Charles Malkewicz, 22, confessed, Deputy Superintendent William Livingston said, that he and two others committed the robbery last night.

Lieutenant Frank McNabb of the detective bureau, said he received a telephone call from a girl who did not give her name.

McNabb quoted her as saying: "If you send an officer to 151 H St. South Boston I'll give you full details that will clear up the RKO (Keith Boston Theatre) holdup."

Detectives found the address given by the girl was in a small store owned by Jacob Weinstein. A telephone receiver hung by the cord. The girl was gone.

Weinstein told the officer, McNabb said, that a girl about 19 years old, had made the call.

"While she was talking," Weinstein was quoted as saying, "she looked out and saw a man looking at her from the sidewalk. She dropped the receiver and rushed out of the store.

"The last I saw of her she was walking away as fast as she could. The man walked along behind her. She seemed badly frightened."

Several detectives searched the district for some trace of the girl and the man, without avail.

Weinstein said the girl wore a fur coat and appeared to be very attractive.

WOMEN ROB LUMBERMAN

Danville, Ill., Feb. 24.—(AP)—First they wanted to buy charcoal, then they wanted to tell his fortune and finally two women dressed in Gypsy costumes robbed C. B. Hooton, manager of a (the Hooton) lumber company here of $82 today.

The pair entered the office while a third woman waited in a sedan outside, police said Hooton told them.

When he couldn't gratify their requests for charcoal and to tell his fortune, Hooton said, the women produced guns and looted the cash register.

He said the women entered the waiting car and drove north.

Chicago Plans To Change To Eastern Time Next Sunday

President Of Chicago Motor Club Believes Accidents Will Be Reduced

Chicago, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Testimony favoring Chicago's inclusion in the eastern standard time zone got underway today before an interstate commerce commission after corporation counsel Barnet Hodes declared the change would be made from central standard time next Sunday, regardless of the commission's ruling.

Hodes told Clyde B. Attchison, veteran member of the I. C. C. that the council's petition which brought about the hearing was merely intended to bring the railroads in line with Chicago's new time. The council last Nov. 4 adopted a resolution making eastern standard time effective here at 2 a. m. Sunday, March 1.

E. A. Bilitzke, assistant attorney general of Michigan, filed a written appearance on behalf of that state, joining in the plea of Chicago for an extension of the eastern time belt. The commission's order for the hearing here directed that the feasibility of eastern time for all of Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin be considered along with Chicago's plea.

Hodes ended his appearance as a witness for the requested change by quoting from statements of a number of leaders advocating it.

Charles N. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, was quoted as stating the change "would lower evening automobile accidents thirty-five per cent" here.

City Water Supply At Kankakee, Ill., Is Contaminated

Kankakee, Ill., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The city's water supply was blamed today by Dr. C. K. Smith, health commissioner, for an outbreak of diarrhoea.

Aid of the state health department was sought to stem spread of the malady, which Dr. Smith said had afflicted at least 200 persons. Most of the cases were reported, he said, from the south eastern section of the city, which has a population of about 20,000.

"We have taken samples of the water—which I am certain is the source of the trouble—for chemical analysis," Dr. Smith said. "Tests have shown there are no typhoid or other disease germs in the water, so it must be due to mineral content. When the state health officials arrive, we shall determine the exact cause and seek a remedy."

There was a possibility, Dr. Smith said, that electrolysis might be the cause of the epidemic. The long seige of sub-zero weather sank frost deep in the ground and caused widespread freezing of pipes, which were thawed with electric current.

The theory that excesive minerals in the water was the cause was based on a large increase in the number of leaks in the system. So many pipes burst that the daily pumpage has increased from 1,500,000 gallons to 7,000,000.

The additional flow, Dr. Smith said, might not allow the water sufficient time in passing through the filtration plant and settling basin.

Boiling the water, Dr. Smith said, had not ended the spread of the epidemic.

The state health department at Springfield ordered Dr. W. C. Van Wormer of Homewood, district health superintendent, to go to Kankakee to assist in the investigation.

Ethiopians Claim Fresh Victories

Addis Ababa, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The Ethiopian government, through an official communique, today claimed fresh victories on the northern front in a spirited engagement with Fascist invaders.

Ras Imru, cousin of Emperor Haile Selassie and governor of Gojjam province, commanded the defending forces which the government said killed 412 Italians, destroyed 15 bomb depots and captured 30 tanks near the Holy City of Aksum.

In addition, the government's communique reported, an unspecified number of trucks and artillery pieces were seized by the Ethiopians. Rifles, quantities of ammunition and provisions added to the victory of the native soldiers.

Details of the battle were not immediately available although military sources said the engagement was the first in which the Negus' forces had been led by Ras Imru.

HAUPTMANN'S PROSECUTORS GET ACTIVE

Reply To Governor's Accusation That Witness Lied

By Samuel G. Blackman,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Governor Harold G. Hoffman's charge that important information in the Bruno Richard Hauptmann case was being suppressed and that one of the chief state witnesses was "lying" stung prosecution officials into action today.

Replying to the governor's accusation that Millard Whited, one of the witnesses who placed Hauptmann near the Lindbergh estate about the time of the kidnaping, had not told the truth, Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., of Hunterdon county, charged the governor himself with withholding facts.

C. Lloyd Fisher, chief defense counsel, joining the fight, said "there is sufficient evidence to warrant perjury proceedings" against Whited. He said that "failure of the state authorities to act in Whited's case is a clear violation of the New Jersey criminal statutes."

In his cell in state prison, Hauptmann, convicted of the Lindbergh kidnap-murder and doomed to die the week of March 30, took hope from the latest developments.

Fisher said the condemned man was "greatly encouraged," though the governor reiterated today he has no intention of granting a second reprieve unless circumstances warrant.

Hauck and other prosecution officials will muster forces to answer the governor's allegation when Attorney General David T. Wilentz returns from a Florida vacation tomorrow night.

Whited, in a statement to two detectives in 1932, said he had seen no suspicious cars or persons near the Lindbergh estate before March 1, 1932, the day of the kidnaping.

Two and a half years later, in the Bronx, he swore he had twice seen Hauptmann strowling near the flier's home.

A. F. O. L. Rejects $500,000 Offer From John Lewis

Contend There Is "String Attached" To The Proposal

By Joseph L. Miller
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Contending there was "strings attached" to the proposal, the American Federation of Labor's high command decided today to disregard for the present an offer of $500,000 by the industrial union faction to help finance a campaign to organize steel workers.

William Green, A. F. o L. president, said he would refer the cash offer from eight unions represented on the committee for industrial organization to the May meeting of the executive council.

"I am now working out a budget for the steel campaign directed by the last convention," Green told reporters. "That campaign will start this spring."

"As soon as I complete the budget, I will ask every union in the federation —including those in the industrial union committee—to contribute money and organizers, with no string attached."

In offering the $500,000, the industrial unionists specified "some of the main conditions which we consider necessary to the launching of a campaign." Among them was the proposal that "organization must be along industrial lines."

Families Moving Out Of Lowlands

Kawanee, Ill., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Families moved out of the lowlands near Annawan tonight as ice gorges threatened to flood the terrain drained by ditches connecting with the Illinois-Mississippi canal.

Concern was felt for the bridge on highway 6 and the Rock Island railroad's span over which its trains reach the Tri-Cities.

CCC workers from the Annawan camp were prepared to dynamite the ice to relieve the pressure of dammed up water. Annawan is 13 miles north of here.

About 10 families evacuated their homes tonight, to take shelter with relations and friends living on higher land. Extensive property damage was caused by the floods of last spring in the area.

MAN DROWNED

Wood River, Ill., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Ice across the Mississippi river broke today under Wesley Brown, 37, and he disappeared in view of his wife and two others who followed cautiously 200 feet behind, trying to dissuade him from crossing. The body was not recovered. He had gone about three-fourths of the way to the Missouri side, where he expected to visit relatives.

Discharged Guard Tells Committee Three Escaping Convicts Shot From Ambush

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Arthur Weiss, a discharged guard, told a citizens committee investigating Illinois prisons today that three escaping convicts were shot to death from ambush in 1931 on an official order.

He testified he was sent to Collins street, adjoining the old Joliet penitentiary, on Feb. 22, that year, to "shoot three men who were going to come over the wall."

The fleeing felons were killed by a band of guards armed with rifles.

Weiss charged he was dismissed last May after 15 years of service because he said he insisted on "frisking a state representative named Ryan when he visited the prison."

Warden Joseph E. Ragen told the committee he understood Weiss' dismissal was preceded by several complaints of discourteous conduct—one from Ryan. He related conditions were "bad" when he took charge of the two penitentiaries last October but outlined steps he had taken to restore discipline.

The warden was questioned after several former guards had made charges of specific irregularities after the investigating body resumed session following an adjournment last week.

Weiss said on two occasions he saw James "Gyppo" Nolan, convicted murderer, acting as chauffeur for Deputy Warden George F. Sehring, making bets at a Joliet bookmaking establishment.

Albert Stelling, a guard who resigned last year, testified he saw Nolan coming out of a saloon in Joliet last summer. He subsequently learned he added, that Nolan was bringing a bottle of beer to Sehring in a nearby restaurant.

Stelling declared he had twice seen Hale O'Reilly, prisoner serving as Ragen's chauffeur, talking with an ex-convict outside the prison grounds. He made reports on both instances, he added, but nothing was done about it.

John Plarske, who was dismissed from his post as assistant chief mechanic at the old prison last May, asserted he had been unjustly fired.

But Ragen contended Plarske had been classed as an "agitator" and Stelling had refused to work in the yard with convicts.

The warden said he found too many passes were being issued when he assumed command so he halted the practice. He told how he had sent 250 inmates accustomed to dining in the hospital and officers' kitchens back to the mess hall.

Ragen said he placed all narcotics in the hands of a hospital pharmacist to keep them away from inmate nurses.

"The prison farm was dirty and there was no discipline," he related. "The convicts wore civilian clothes and you couldn't tell them from visitors. Rabbit hunting with clubs was in vogue. I halted all that."

The warden informed the committee he learned a captain since discharged had given a prisoner a permit to carry a razor and blades.

GRAND JURY RETURNS EIGHT INDICTMENTS

Chicago, Feb. 24.—(AP)—True bills charging armed robbery were reported voted by the county grand jury today against eight men alleged to have obtained more than $75,000 in merchandise in the hijacking of trucks in the last year.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty said five of the men were in custody and that the arrest of the others was expected soon. He said those held were:

Peter Panzeca, 25; his brother, Dominick, 28; Rocco De Stefano, 22; Charles Corona, 30, and Joseph Lascola, 30, all of Chicago.

Dougherty claimed their arrests Jan. 24 broke up a hi-jacking band which had terrorized city and county shippers for a year. Included among the victims,, he said, was the Union Transfer Company of Omaha, which lost two $7,000 shipments of liquor, one last Jan. 20.

McAdoo Condemns Excessive Fees In Receiverships

By D. Harold Oliver
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Condemning what he termed "abuses" in the allowance of receivership fees by federal courts, Senator McAdoo (D-Calif) today uncovered a proposal to create a special court to try federal judges accused of wrongdoing.

As chairman of the special committee which has been investigating administration of justice in the federal courts for nearly two years, McAdoo said he would put the special tribunal idea before the group when it meets soon to write its report on a second inquiry into the California district courts.

The plan he has in mind, he added, was on authorizing the chief justice of the supreme court to set up a court of three members, composed of circuit judges, to try accused judges.

The Californian contended the present system of impeachment by congress was cumbersome and impracticable and that some more efficient method must be provided.

The court plan would apply only to district and circuit judges. If charges should arise against a member of the supreme court he would be impeached and tried under the existing system, under which the house impeaches and the Senate acts as the trial court.

McAdoo made his statement to newspapermen after he had asserted in the Senate that his committee had found "serious abuses" still existed in the California courts even after an open investigation. The committee had found it necessary to make another inquiry in Los Angeles, he said.

Previously, Senator Ashurst (D-Ariz), first chairman of the committee, had told the Senate that "enormous fees" were being allowed by the courts to attorneys and trustees in bankruptcy, receivership and reorganization proceedings despite the evidence thus far turned up by the committee.

ICE GORGE BREAKS

Chester, Ill., Feb. 24.—On ice gorge which has locked the Mississippi river here from bank to bank since January 30 began to break up slowly tonight.

Japs Ready For Big Economic Exploitation

Japanese Capitalists Are Laying Ground For Heavy Investments

By A. T. Steele,
Associated Press Foreign Staff.

While American and British interests stand cautiously aloof, Japanese captalists are laying the ground for heavy investments in mines, industries, railways and agricultural projects throughout China.

In the rich and teeming Yangtze valley—once recognized by the powers as a sphere of British influence—Japanese capital plans to entrench newly-organized Sino-Japanese trade itself through the medium of the council, a group of Chinese and Japanese bankers, business men and officials.

Simultaneously, in North China, a broad program for the development of "basic industries" is getting under way, under the aegis of the Japanese army and the South Manchuria Railway, chief instruments of Japanese military and economic penetration in continental Asia.

Organization of the Sino-Japanese Trade Council was the outcome of a goodwill visit by Chinese business leaders and officials to Japan.

In general, says its organizers, the Sino-Japanese Trade Council will promote the investment of Japanese capital in projects aimed at the development of China's raw materials.

Because of the prominent and influence of its members, the council expects to demand and receive full co-operation and assistance from the Chinese and Japanese governments.

Claims Agreement Can Be Reached

Dublin, Irish Free State, Feb. 24.—(AP)—President Eamon De Valera expressed belief today it would not be difficult for the Irish Free State to reach an agreement on defense with the British government.

"An independent Ireland will never allow itself to be used as a base for an attack against the United Kingdom if the major Anglo-Irish questions are settled," he asserted.

The British, De Valera added, must recognize the right of the Irish not only to determine their form of government but also their relations with the United Kingdom.

"If the land annuities dispute is settled we are preparing to make comprehensive trade agreements provided they do not interfere with the industrial development of Ireland.

"One of the tasks of the near future will be to make the constitution conform to the wishes of the Irish.

HELD TO GRAND JURY

Chicago, Feb. 24.—(AP)—William Dolan, 32, who gave his address as Jerseyville, Ill., was held to the federal grand jury under $1,000 bond today when he appeared before U. S. Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on a charge of possessing and passing counterfeit money. Policemen who seized Dolan in a tavern Sunday said he had attempted to pass a spurious $10 bill.

9 REPUBLICANS FILE PETITIONS FOR GOVERNOR

Secretary Of State's Office Active On Final Day

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 24.—(AP)—With nine candidates for governor, a last-day rush of Illinois Republicans to get their names on the April 14 primary ballots today promised a free-for-all fight for the major nominations.

There are factional slates and independent entries for every office in the Republican primary, with more than two score candidates having filed nomination petitions with the secretary of state before the late afternoon deadline.

H. Wallace Caldwell of Oak Park, Cook county commissioner and former head of the Chicago school system, officially became one of the Republican candidates for governor, heading a partial ticket for state offices.

Last day activity was not confined to the Republicans.

Petitions for two candidates for auditor were being circulated by managers of Governor Horner's campaign for a second term against the opposition of the Democratic organization headed by Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago.

The Horner men last week picked Homer Mat Adams, Jr., of Urbana, a 26-year-old finance department investigator, to run for auditor.

The plan was to enter both men as administration candidates for auditor and have one of them drop out before the deadline for withdrawals on Saturday afternoon.

The number of G O P aspirants for senator was increased to six with a "dark horse" filing by Willis A. Overholser of Mundelein. Senator James Hamilton Lewis is unopposed for another term in the Democratic primary.

Chauncey McCormick of Chicago unexpectedly entered as G O P aspirant for one of the two seats as congressman-at-large, announcing that he is not allied with other candidates.

Four men filed for state treasurer on the last day, two of them having won the nomination in past campaigns. Edward E. Miller of East St. Louis, elected treasurer in 1920, sent in his petitions without preliminary announcement. Clarence F. Buck of Monmouth, who was nominated in 1930 but defeated in the first of the Democratic landslides, also filed. Others out for treasurer were Joseph L. Moore of Champaign and Springfield, defeated in the 1934 primary, and Francis A. Horrigan of Chicago.

World Security Plan Urged By Anthony Eden

Plan Laid Down In His Maiden Speech In House Commons

By Charles P. Nutter

London, Feb. 24. —(AP)— Anthony Eden laid down a plan today for a universal system of 'collective security" in his maiden speech as foreign secretary to the house of commons, but failed to satisfy government opponents on the more immediate question of an oil embargo against Italy.

Before packed galleries, including European diplomats, the erstwhile "White Knight of Geneva" staunchly defended rearmament and emphasized that Great Britain must be strong and fearless in taking the leadership to prevent a world war.

"Our final objective," he told the tense house, "must be a world wide system of collective security which embraces all nations in an authority which is unchallenged and unchallengable."

In what was interpreted as an effort to reassure Germany, Eden declared "the British government will have no lot or part in encirclement."

Eden sidestepped a definite commitment on an oil sanction, which caused immediate criticism of his speech as vague. His address was the subject of frequent interruptions.

The United States' policy toward an oil embargo was frequently mentioned by government opponents, who argued that Great Britain and the league must first set an example of they wanted support from across the Atlantic.

Seattle, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Fred Daniers, a hobo, had a job today because the freight train he hopped was derailed in a snowslide.

Near Bandera, a slide yesterday shoved the huge electric locomotive and three cars 15 feet down U ravine.

The Queerest Case

The case of Bruno Hauptmann will surely go down as the queerest and most inexplicable of any in American criminal annals. This man has spent a year in the death house. Three times he has been sentenced to die in the chair. He is now under sentence to die the week of Mar. 31. His conviction came about in the regular way after a most deliberate trial.

Yet today the Governor of New Jersey is making the most strenuous efforts to save this condemned kidnaper-slayer of the Lindbergh baby. The Governor has said that he will not grant another reprieve; yet he is breaking every legal precedent to find some excuse for doing so.

The latest move is a rigid examination of witnesses who testified for the state against Hauptmann, and an accusation by the executive that one of them has been "lying." The incident is one of the most remarkable in the history of American justice, with a Governor setting out to deliberately break down testimony in order to save a man convicted of one of the worst crimes of the century. After the state has carefully built a case and had its work given approval by the highest courts in the land, efforts on the part of a state executive to break down the state's case and build up a defense certainly sets a dangerous precedent.

If New Jersey's Governor succeeds in freeing Hauptmann from the chair, his tactics will be a study for criminal lawyers of the future. No Governor will hence forth be immune from political pressure to become a buffer between the courts and the execution of their sentences.

The Name is Mud

Old Sol glared down at the frozen roads in Morgan county and said, "I'm onto you and your name is Mud." Reports Monday indicated that the bottom had gone out of dirt roads, which represented mighty quick work for the weather man, who suddenly changed his tactics, closed the refrigerator and turned on the heat.

To say that spring is here may be stretching the point. People should not shed too many clothes or take undue risks. This is good weather to catch cold, and there may be some rather snappy temperatures yet in store. But there will not be any more severe winter, it is safe to say.

In fact mud will probably be the rule now for a few weeks, and dirt roads will be impassable. People who live on slab or gravel roads will have cause to be thankful for the good road movement. There are several miles of secondary improved roads in this county, but not near enough to keep scores of families from being isolated on account of mud.

Unless there are heavy rains, the flood menace is not likely to be great in this area. There has not been much snow, and the ground will soak up most of the surplus water. The thaw will provide moisture for winter wheat, which will be given a boost in growth by the mild weather.

They Can't Take It

For answer to the above question interesting details could no doubt be supplied by Major General Johnson Hagood, who has been summarily removed from command of the 8th corps area at Fort Sam Houston, and told to go home and await further orders. The officer has doubtless smelled powder, and now he has bitten the dust.

The reason for his sudden demotion is not far to seek. He was called to testify before an appropriation committee of the House recently, and there he sought to secure $150,000,000 for improvement of army posts. He suggested that some of the WPA "stage money" be used to finance these projects.

The officer talked about the big spending program in a rather offhand manner, and inadvertently expressed opinions which many private citizens have hesitated to voice. He said he understood the WPA funds were easy to get for some things, but that WPA money was harder to get. He said the PWA money was like stage cash in that it could be passed around, but nothing came of it.

The officer's statements were rather frank, but not out of line with current criticism of New Deal spending. What he failed to remember was that New Dealers cannot stand criticism. Fortunately the axe cannot fall on private citizens, but when a man in an appointive position sticks his neck out—it's another story. The axe appears to have struck the high army officer with force and precision. His comments were refreshing, but disastrous. He has been told that if he doesn't like the new deal, he can get out of the game right now.

Hugh Green For State Representative

The announcement has been made that State Representative Hugh Green will seek re-nomination as a Republican candidate for Representative in the General Assembly.

Mr. Green has a clean record in politics, has served the 45th Senatorial District consisting of Sangamon and Morgan counties well, and goes into the campaign with endorsements of many non-partisan organizations.

Alone, or in conjunction with others, he has successfully sponsored six bills. All reflect credit upon his energetic efforts to bring about their enactment into law.

Previous to his legislative service, Mr. Green served Morgan county as state's attorney. In that office he made a good record, and in the matter of drawing indictments his record was perfect. Not a single indictment drawn by him during the entire period of services as state's attorney was quashed.

Voters should consider the desirability of helping to keep a man of the type of Hugh Green in the general assembly from Morgan county and if they do that, when they go into the booths, Green will have no difficulty in scoring a success at the polls.

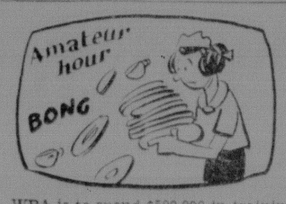
Almost a Sure Bet

More comprehensive dispatches may diminish slightly the size of the great Italian victory on the northern front, but it seems definitely established that Mussolini's men have finally succeeded in giving their foes a crushing defeat. And that, when you stop to think about it, was to be expected from the first.

Make all the allowances you please for the native fighting ability of the Ethiopian tribesmen, for the terrific handicaps which roadless mountain country, hostile climate, and difficulties of supply placed on the invaders; when all is said and done, a trained army equipped with modern weapons must be an odds-on favorite over any enemy which lacks such arms.

The science of war has changed immeasurably since the '90s, when the Ethiopians destroyed a whole Italian army. What was possible then is almost completely impossible now. Unless outside considerations intervene, the war in Ethiopia almost certainly must end in triumph for the Italians.

BARBS



WPA is to spend $500,000 in training house maids. Anyone with experience would know that sum hardly covers dishes.

While investigating the West Virginia silicosis case, Congress might also have probed the dark brown occupational hazard in the heavyweight industry.

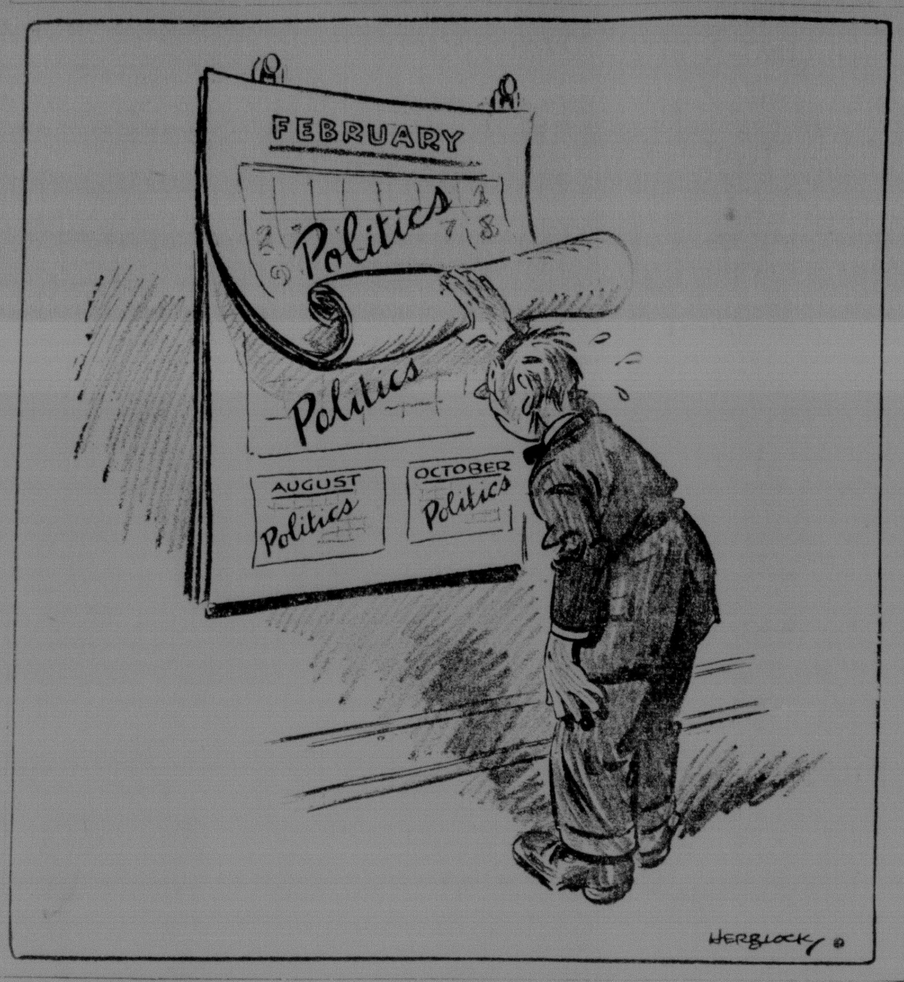
THIS CAN NEVER BE OUT OF DATE



Behind The Scenes In Washington

Dan Roper and Aides Provide G. O. P. With Ammunition in Sea and Air Safety Probes . . . Employes Penalized After Exposing Dangers . . . Board Says it Faces Hopeless Task Without Co-Operation.

By Rodney Dutcher
Journal-Courier
Washington Correspondent

Washington—Republicans are hailing with glee the fact that they have been provided with some more ammunition to shoot at their Democratic rivals, with Secretary of Commerce Dan Roper again the donor.

It all comes out of the safety at sea and the safety in the air probes, with resulting penalizations of officials who "talked out of turn" and drew down the wrath of superiors on their heads.

Bombshells have burst under the Commerce Department during Roper's regime almost as frequently as officials have departed — voluntarily or otherwise—from the department.

That the more unpleasant episodes have had to do with shipping doubtless is due to the oft-demonstrated fact that the ship-operating industry has produced a more "choice" lot of promoters and lobbyists than have other industries.

But the latest affair is a little family squabble in which outsiders might not seem to be affected, save that public interest once more appears to be the goat.

Tragic smoke of the Morro Castle and Mohawk disasters overhangs suspension of the second and third ranking officers of Roper's Bureau of Navigation and Steamship Inspection—Commander H. McCoy Jones, senior navigating officer, and Chief Investigator Frederick L. Adams — because they were suspected of letting leak a report revealing the dangers to which Americans are exposed at sea as a result of inadequate inspection and regulation.

The incident closely paralleled that in which J. A. Mount, former superintendent of maintenance for Roper's Bureau of Air Commerce, was dismissed after he had reported that the plane crash in which Senator Bronson Cutting was killed was due to the bureau's inefficiency and violation of regulations, and that federal negligence was endangering human lives over great stretches of the commercial airways.

"Insubordination" Alleged

Jones and Adams were charged with insubordination. They had been accused of allowing to become public a sensational protest by the navigation bureau's board of supervising inspectors in which these men, directly responsible for safety at sea, unanimously had admitted their job wasn't being done and couldn't be done as long, they said, as Roper and other of their superiors made no genuine effort for an efficient service.

Meanwhile, the inspectors held, American lives wouldn't be safe at sea. They warned of "very serious" conditions, and urged action "before any more major disasters occur on American flag ships."

Chief requisites cited were more funds and personnel. The inspectors told of their inability to perform inspections, to make special examinations of fire-fighting and life-saving equipment, and to raise fire drill and lifeboat drill standards.

Jobs Likely to Be Saved

After this report leaked out—apparently through someone on the National Committee for Safety at Sea—Assistant Secretary of Commerce J. M. Johnson and Malcolm Kerlin, executive assistant to Roper, moved against Jones and Adams. Charges have been made that Johnson and Kerlin were among the officials who had blocked reform efforts by Jones, Adams, and Bureau Director Joseph B. Weaver.

When Jones and Adams refused to answer questions until Weaver, their superior, returned, they were suspended with 24 hours' notice to show why they shouldn't be dismissed. Both denied "leaking" the inspectors' report.

Their jobs probably will be saved through Weaver's insistence and active intervention of the National Committee on Safety at Sea, which committee originated from a conference called by Roper while the nation was still excited about the Morro Castle disaster.

But campaign ammunition for Republicans has been piled up by the incident, adding to Roper's other contributions.

Assailed by Counsel

Wilbur La Roe, counsel for the Safety at Sea Committee, who has lived here through various Republican administrations which New Dealers have charged were subservient to Big Business, describes the Jones-Adams affair as "the most flagrant incident of bureaucratic flouting of the public interest that has appeared in my more than 20 years in Washington."

Ship subsidy legislation is about to appear in Congress. If the administration program is any better than another wholesale delivery to the thoroughly exposed ship operators, it will be to the credit of Postmaster General Jim Farley who—with Post-office Solicitor Karl Crowley — has consistently opposed the Roper group during the framing of merchant marine policy.

Creeks in Greene County Turn Into Boiling Torrents

Sudden Thaw Sends Water Coursing Toward River; Detours Necessary

White Hall—Mr. and Mrs. Harley Dawdy and children of Patterson, and Mrs. Dawdy's mother, Mrs. Joseph Schutz, of Schutz Mills, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schutz west of White Hall. As they returned home they had to cross Hurricane creek, but were unable to do so at the fords at Schutz Mills and had to detour by way of Hillview. Mrs. Schutz had to walk quite a distance on the C. & A. Railroad to cross the creek and then walk along the edge of a bluff to reach her home.

The water from the bluffs on either side of the creek and to the east had brought down such a torrent of water and ice that made the creek a veritable avalanche. This creek originates some distance east of Drake, Schutz Mills and Hillview and all three villages are flooded whenever the water comes up. However Hillview is now protected with levees which keep the water within bounds. During the past three years the government has built large levees on both sides of the creek from the bluffs at Hillview to the Illinois river at Pearl, protecting not only Hillview but the Hillview Drainage District on the north side of the creek and the Hartwell Drainage District to the south of the creek.

Ward Edwards, pump station superintendent at Hillview, stated that pumping in the district had not been of importance so far. A little pumping is done each day, however.

Apple creek and its tributaries were also on a rampage Sunday evening from the sudden thaw, which took most of the ice and snow in this vicinity Saturday and Sunday. Large cakes of ice form gorges which tend to back the water up.

Rivermen at Pearl reported that water is flowing over the ice but not much ice is coming down the river yet. Large numbers of water fowl, including gulls, and ducks were over the river at Pearl Sunday, and a pair of bald eagles was seen to be mingling with them.

Boy Leaves Hospital

Mrs. Francis Piper has had word from her sister, Mrs. Ralph Boyd, of Los Angeles, Calif., that her little five year old son, R. W., who has been in a Los Angeles hospital since the family arrived there three weeks ago, recovered from a double mastoid operation, has been released from the hospital, but is still under the care of a physician. Mr. and Mrs. Boyd, former residents of White Hall, had gone to Los Angeles to reside and the child became ill on the way. They are now located in their own home there.

Mrs. Genese Whiteaker and little daughter, Gloria June, were week-end guests of Mrs. Harry Vinyard, Jr., in Roodhouse.

Mrs. James Beeman, of Roodhouse, is staying with her niece, Mrs. Myrlie Densmore in Hillview, who has been critically ill.

Laura Lou, the 13 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noel Fraley on East Lincoln street, is suffering with an abscess in her ear.

Dr. R. W. Piper, of St. John's hospital, in St. Louis, spent Thursday here with relatives and was a supper guest of his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Piper, on West Bridgeport street.

I WAS BUYING COMPLEXION SOAPS Blindly

—until this "Patch" test opened my eyes

"MY SKIN is delicate, easily irritated. I tried one toilet soap after another. Then a friend told me about the amazing 'Patch' tests that were made on the skins of hundreds of women of every complexion type. These tests proved that Lifebuoy is more than 20% milder than many so-called 'beauty soaps.'

"So I bought a cake of Lifebuoy and discovered the perfect complexion soap at last! I use Lifebuoy all the time now and I find my skin is much softer and smoother, has more freshness and 'life'."

Here's the reason, young lady. Gentle, super-mild Lifebuoy is also deeper-cleansing. Its bland, penetrating lather washes away pore-embedded impurities, reveals the skin's real beauty. To every woman who wants a lovelier complexion, we say, "Change to Lifebuoy!"

BLASE APPETITES CALL FOR TEMPTING NEW DISHES

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

"I've tried every recipe in every cook book I own," sighed the mother of four always-hungry boys. I attempted to help her out and maybe some of my suggestions will come in handy for other worn-out cooks with blase families.

An excellent way to serve left-over roast lamb is in a curry sauce with a rice border, did you know that? A chartreuse of rice and meat is another smart left-over dish. Serve no potatoes with either of these, but always an extra vegetable or salad particularly rich in iron to make up for the lack of minerals in rice.

Lamb in Curry Sauce

Three cups cubed cooked lamb, 1 onion, celery tops, 1 turnip, parsley, 1 carrot, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups stock, 1 tablespoon curry powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper.

Break the bones of the roast and put into kettle with onion peeled and sliced, celery tops, turnip cut in cubes, parsley, and sliced carrots. Cover with cold water and simmer thirty to sixty minutes. Strain and measure. There should be 2 cupsful. Melt butter and stir in flour and curry powder sifted together. Cook and stir until mixture bubbles. Slowly add stock, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and add diced meat. Heat thoroughly and serve in a border of hot, cooked rice.

To make a chartreuse, line a well buttered mold with cooked rice, making the rice about an inch thick. Fill with chopped meat combined with a few bread crumbs—1-4 cup crumbs to 2 cups meat—and enough water, stock or left-over gravy to pack solidly. Cover with rice and steam forty-five minutes. Turn out of pan and serve with tomato sauce.

This dried peach pudding is worth trying, too. You may like it with dried apricots in place of peaches.

Dried Peach Pudding

One cup dried peaches, 1-4 cup butter or other shortening, 1-3 cup granulated sugar, 1 egg, 1-2 cup milk, 1 1-2 cups flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon almond extract.

Wash peaches and put through coarse knife of food chopper. Cream shortening and sugar. Beat in a few tablespoons sifted flour. Mix and sift remaining flour with salt, baking powder and soda. Add well beaten egg to first mixture. Mix well and add milk alternately with dry ingredients. Add flavoring and peaches and mix well. Turn into a well buttered mold and steam for one hour. Remove from steamer and put in a hot oven for ten minutes. Serve warm with hot lemon sauce.

Daily Menu

LUNCHEON: Brown onion soup, toasted muffins, sliced bananas in cherry jelly, cup cakes, milk, tea.

Lemon Sauce

One-half cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, few grains salt, 1 cup boiling water, 1 lemon, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 egg yolk.

Mix and sift sugar, cornstarch and salt. Stir in boiling water and cook and stir until mixture boils. Add grated rind of lemon and cook and stir for five minutes. Add butter and juice of lemon and remove from fire. Stir in egg yolk and serve warm.

The egg yolk is optional, of course, but it makes a yellow sauce that is very pretty with the pudding.

Sauerkraut and carrot salad will appeal to people who like the healthful kraut.

Sauerkraut and Carrot Salad

One cup sauerkraut, 1 cup grated raw carrot, 1-2 teaspoon mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons flour, 2 teaspoons powdered sugar, few grains cayenne pepper, 1 egg yolk, 6 teaspoons vinegar, 1-2 cup thick sour cream.

Mix mustard, salt, flour, sugar and pepper in top of double boiler. Stir in vinegar and cook over hot water until mixture thickens. Add egg yolk and remove from heat. Cool and add to cream, which has been beaten until stiff.

Mix kraut and carrots with dressing. Arrange in cups of lettuce and garnish with halves of walnuts or pecans.

Tumble From Chair Results in Death Of Lovekamp Child

Broke Shoulder Blade in Accident Friday and Dies at Hospital

A tumble from a chair at the home of his parents in the Joy Prairie neighborhood led to the death here Sunday of Anton Edwin Lovekamp, 16 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lovekamp. A coroner's jury found that the child had been suffering from a fractured left clavicle and pneumonia.

Last Friday when the child fell from a chair he did not appear to be badly hurt, according to the parents. But on Saturday he developed high fever and his condition became worse. Dr. A. M. Johnson of Concord was called Sunday morning and advised that the baby be taken to a hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Lovekamp brought the child to Passavant, but he died within five minutes after arriving there.

Coroner Elmer Sample impaneled a jury and held an inquest at the Williamson Funeral Home, where the remains were taken. Testimony showed that the family was unaware of the seriousness of the injury, which consisted of a broken shoulder blade. The verdict was death from pneumonia with the injury as a contributory cause.

The child is survived by his parents; four sisters, Theresa, June, Gladys and Cora Mae Lovekamp; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lovekamp and Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Ham.

The remains were removed yesterday from the Williamson Funeral Home to the residence of the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ham, at Arenzville. Funeral services will be held this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Lutheran church in Arenzville, with interment in the Lutheran cemetery.

A FARMER WRITES AN "AD" ABOUT DOUBLE-MELLOW OLD GOLDS!

Scio, New York

P. Lorillard Company, Inc.,
119 West 40th Street,
New York City, N.Y.

Gentlemen:

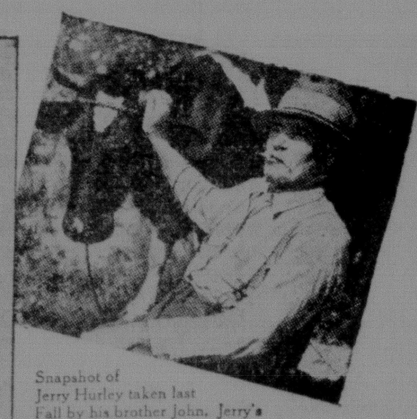
I am an old man who knows what he likes. A hill farmer is a stubborn cuss, and when he takes to cigarettes when he's well gone by 60 years, he has good reasons for wanting those cigarettes. And for some time now I haven't touched any smoking but OLD GOLDS.

My brother's son got me on cigarettes, but the ones he gave me seemed too quick-burning. One day our general storekeeper stood me one of those Double-Mellow OLD GOLDS, made of prize crop tobaccos. And I had my first cigarette that burnt as slow and cool as my pipe, and that didn't leave a man's tongue stinging and biting like that other cigarette brand.

I've bought Double-Mellow OLD GOLDS ever since, and every pack has been the same. I know, because I'm blind, and we without eyes learn to taste and feel better than you who see.

Yours truly,
Jerry Hurley

P.S. My 16 year old niece, Betty, has typed this for me, just as I told it to her. The snapshot was taken by Betty's father.



Snapshot of Jerry Hurley taken last Fall by his brother John. Jerry's farm is located on a mountainside, 8 miles from Wellsville, N.Y. (Post Office, Scio.)

DOUBLE-MONEY-BACK OFFER
as made to smokers since Oct. 6, 1935

TAKE a sporting chance on a pack of Double-Mellow Old Golds. Smoke ten of the cigarettes. If you don't say they're the finest you've ever tasted, mail the package wrapper and the remaining ten cigarettes to us, any time before May 1st, 1936, and we'll send you double the price you paid for the full package, plus postage.

Making Lenten Meals Tasty

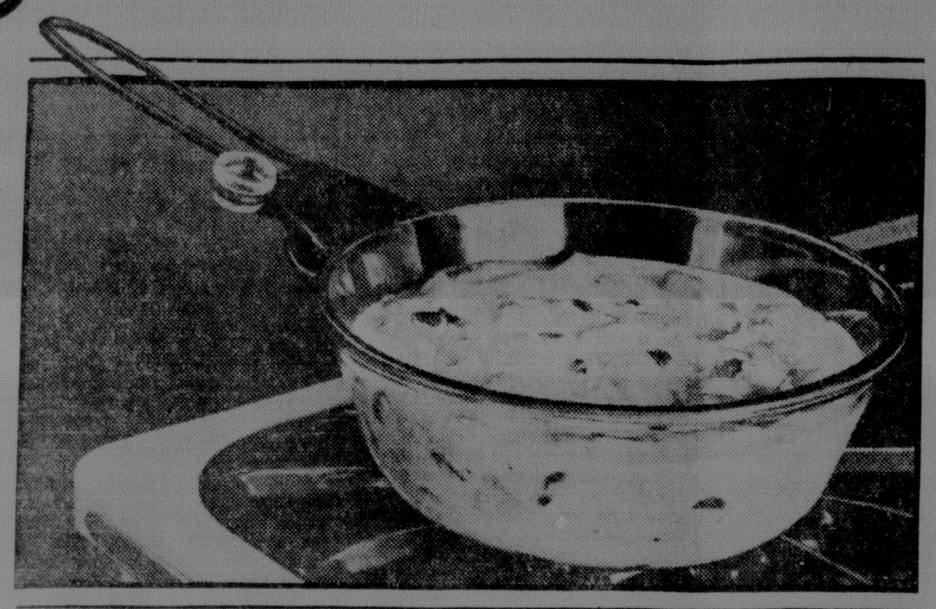
By Mrs. Penrose Lyly

ASH Wednesday, Feb. 26, will make many housewives hope for new ways to serve fish. And many who do not observe Lent for religious reasons will welcome this season of fish specialities in the shops and new and better ways of serving sea food.

The photograph shows an excellent way to cream halibut. The brand-new idea of cooking on top of the stove with heat resistant glass is worth considering. The 1½ quart saucepan has a removable handle. When the food is cooked, the handle is removed, and the food is served at table in the same top-of-the-stove glass saucepan it was cooked in.

Halibut, of course, is an old Lenten stand-by; and this recipe, serving up an old favorite in a new guise, should be a welcome addition to your list.

The recipe, as illustrated, will serve six. Melt 1/3 cup butter in the saucepan, simmer 1 cup finely cut celery and 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper in the melted butter until slightly cooked. Blend in ¼ cup flour and gradually add 3 cups milk. Cook until mixture is thickened, then add ¾ teaspoon salt and a little black pepper. Add 2½ cups cooked halibut. Continue to simmer for 5 minutes over low flame, stirring occasionally. Bring to table in the top of oven dish and serve on crisp toast.



Codfish Whip

This is an inexpensive but delicious Lenten dish. Soak ½ lb. salted codfish in cold water for several hours. Drain, flake, and soak again in fresh cold water. Drain fish. Peel 4 large potatoes. Place in large saucepan with the freshened and shredded codfish. Just cover with boiling water. Boil until potatoes are done. Drain and dry slightly over fire, then mash fish and potatoes together. When well mashed, add ½ cup butter and mash some more. Then slowly whip in about 2 cups hot milk. Beat with a wooden spoon until the potatoes and fish are actually the consistency of a whip. Season with a little black pepper.

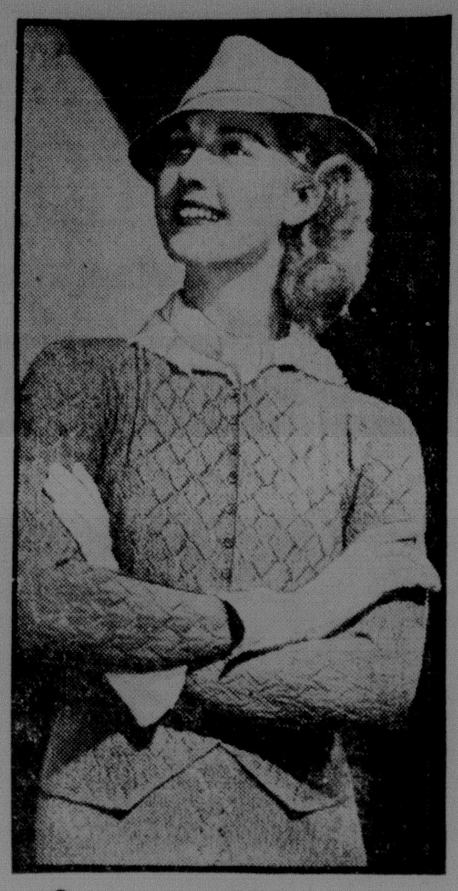
Filets of Flounder

These, often called Filets of Sole, are decidedly different if served with a colorful tomato sauce. Prepare the filets for frying by beating together 1 egg, 1 cup milk, and salt and pepper. This will be enough for 5 filets. Soak the filets for about half an hour, drain, and roll lightly in fine bread crumbs. Then fry in hot butter until nicely brown on both sides.

To make the sauce: chop 1 small onion, ½ green pepper, and a small piece of garlic. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in frying pan, brown the onions, garlic and peppers in it—but do not burn them. Add a little thyme. Blend in 2 tablespoons flour. Slowly stir in 1 cup canned tomatoes and 1 cup soup stock. Blend thoroughly, and let simmer. Mash through a sieve, then reheat. Arrange the filets on a hot platter and pour the strained tomato sauce over them. Your family will decide that they do like fish, after all.

Broiled Halibut Steak

Here's a popular dish with men. Order a thick halibut steak. Brush it all over with a little olive oil in which a piece of garlic has been standing. Grease the broiler to prevent sticking. Run the halibut steak under a moderate flame and broil until the flesh begins to pull away from the bone. Then turn over carefully, and broil on other side. Remove to a very hot platter. Dust lightly with minced parsley. Dot with butter and season with salt, pepper and paprika. Serve with thin slices of lemon. Mealy boiled potatoes go well with this dish.



If You Knit, Why Not?

POWDER blue with dusty pink accessories—the dress is lovely, isn't it? It was modeled recently in Hollywood, by Anita Louise, Warner Brothers star. The lacy knitted creation is one you can make yourself! The snug fitting jacket is made with all-over design and the same motif appears in vertical stripes in the skirt.

Mrs. Penrose Lyly will send you complete instructions. Write her, in care of the editor of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent United States stamp on it.

This model is one of 13, all shown by famous stars in Hollywood, to be copied in the National Knitting Contest which is now going on throughout the United States. The prizes range from a round trip railway, all expense, tour to Hollywood, with a week visiting the stars, and a round trip via airplane to Hollywood or from Hollywood to New York, to a year's supply of fine perfume.

There are 50 prizes and the outstanding American women who will be judges will announce their decision on the first of May.

You can get all the information about the National Knitting Contest at the knitting counter in your favorite department store. If you live in the country, Mrs. Lyly will send you this information, but be sure to enclose a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it for Mrs. Lyly's reply.

FOR A LOVELY LADY'S LASHES

LONG curling eyelashes—how girls sigh for them! Even though you cannot make eyelashes grow you can make them look longer, you can make them curl and you can give them a sheen which adds beauty to your appearance.

The oldest stand-by is vaseline. Put just a little on your fingertip and brush it lightly against the lashes, upward for the upper lashes, and downward for the lower ones. This will darken them, prevent brittle ends and help them to curl. Before you do that, dust the lashes thoroughly to remove all powder which may have drifted onto them.

Your brows also need attention. First, dust them free of powder. Then with a small clear brush, frisk them against the grain, making them stand up. After that, brush on a little vaseline, or a little soft dark cream or so-called eyelash grower—also against the grain. Then brush them back into place.

For those delicate but unwelcome wrinkles around the eye, use a special eye-wrinkle cream, or a light tissue cream, for light massage. With the tips of the fingers, gently rub in these creams, and if possible, leave them on overnight. This will provide extra oils for the skin and tend to ward off further wrinkles in that delicate territory.

Eyepacks certainly increase the brightness and clear look of the eye. You can make them yourself out of small pads of gauze dipped in boracic acid. There are many specially prepared packs on the market in which herbs and other ingredients are used. Apply them after a hard day, lie down in a darkened room and relax completely.

After half an hour, remove and go forth to your engagement convinced that your eyes are rested, clear, bright and well groomed.

PERHAPS YOU'VE KNOWN A MAN WHO COULDN'T BE HONEST

HE wants to be agreeable to everyone and he also wants to do just as he pleases. Ramona Herdman has written a novel about him. It is called "A Time for Love," and shows him trapped by his consideration for the various women he likes, his wife, his mistress, his daughter and his mother.

He just can't take time out of his busy modern life to make up his mind to be honest with one at the expense of the others. Result—he loses on all sides and Miss Herdman proves with remorseless logic that the modern theory of "civilized self-indulgence, although apparently an aid to charm, results in complete barrenness, disappointment and unhappiness on all sides.

"Is this man a weakling? No," she says, "he is just an example of the so-called 'smart,' intelligent and amiable type of man so popular today in many social circles. It's a myth, this idea that a man can be a successful husband, or for that matter, a successful lover, without some scruples."

Ramona Herdman

Her book, published by Harper and Brothers, at $2, is one more feminine analysis of the modern male which does not flatter him.

Miss Herdman has achieved literary success despite her opportunities. Her business is limelight — for others. She calls the public's attention to the merits and doings of famous writers.

She knows the most outstanding authors in the world. But they are all in the line of business to her — she never talks about her own writings with them.

When she wrote this novel, no one knew about it. She submitted it under an assumed name to the publishing house where she holds an important position. It was accepted and then the literary world complained that she should have told them sooner.

But Miss Herdman is a Yankee. She likes to keep her affairs to herself. And in a world where men and women play up their contacts, friends and influence for all they are worth, Ramona Herdman is worth noting for her feminine ability to make good.

THE ALIEN—AND AMERICANISM

SEVERAL readers have inquired about the bills which will be introduced in Congress concerning a change in the immigration and deportation laws of the United States. The best way to get thoroughly digested information on these technical questions is to write to the Foreign Language Information Service, Inc., at 222 Fourth Ave., New York, N. Y.

This organization helps qualified foreign-born residents acquire citizenship, gives them proper information about our laws and all the stages of acquiring citizenship; and assists foreign-born citizens and aliens untie some of the complications which arise at times concerning their rights and obligations.

Aliens who want to enjoy living in the United States, as much as do its citizens, should take out citizenship papers. Many newcomers neglect this important matter. They continue to live here as aliens when they have stayed long enough to become citizens, and although they have every intention of getting the necessary papers, they keep putting it off.

Any alien, 18 years of age, who has been legally admitted to the United States, may apply for his first paper at any time. He does not have to know the English language when he applies, nor does he have to be able to sign his name on the first paper. But he must file his application for first paper in the district where he resides.

Two years later he may apply for citizenship, provided he has then lived in the United States for five years, and six months in the county where he files. He must be 21 years or over, and prove that during his five years in the United States he has "behaved as a man of good moral character attached to the principles of the Constitution of the States and well disposed to the good order and happiness of the same."

He must swear that he is willing to bear arms if required, even though he may have religious or conscientious objections.

After 90 days, he takes his final examination and oath of allegiance in court.

FLOWERS AND VELVETS FOR EASTER HATS

VIOLETS, narcissi, roses — whatever the garden grows most colorfully—these, combined with bright velvets, will be smart for your Easter bonnet. So predicts Lilly Dache, that daring creator of American hats.

"My three most important colors will be goldenglow yellow, poppy red and gentian blue," she announces with excitement. "Of course, there will be violets and purples, dull off greens, too. Everything must be more feminine—yes, and that means veils. I think we have lived long enough through a period of turbans. It's time, don't you think, to switch to brims?

"Black felt hat with red patent leather trim and red patent leather gauntlets. Dark blue felt hat in Tyrolean mode with fuchsia purple grosgrain trim is another color idea. Fuchsia purple gloves for this, too. Stunning with tailored suit—wonderfully so."

Miss Dache predicts many combinations of flowers, such as vivid purples and soft reds crushed together. These for off-the-face hats with flower clusters high in center of hat over the forehead or over the back, giving height for the shorter woman.

All her hats are small in back. She will use braided straw for underfacing, in color contrast—heliotrope and green straw braided together, for example. Afternoon hats in black will be gay with flower facings of flat small white or colored flowers.

There is more to come—but isn't this enough to prove that your Easter bonnet this year will be feminine, colorful and blooming?

Many from City to Attend Conference and Hear Noted Speakers

Plans for a conference for private duty nurses which is to be held in Springfield at the Leland Hotel are nearing completion. According to a statement by Mrs. Armina Farrar, President of the 13th District State Nurses Association, the conference will open with a luncheon meeting at noon Thursday, March 5. Mrs. Ada Reitz Crocker, Executive Secretary of the State Nurses Association will be the principal speaker. Her topic will be Nursing Legislation in Illinois.

Other speakers on the program will include Miss Ethel Swope, Assistant National Director, American Nurses Association; Dr. Winston Tucker, Assistant Epidemiologist, State Department of Public Health, Springfield; Dr. G. W. Staben, of Springfield, and Dr. Frank Norbury, of Jacksonville. Following the lectures, demonstrations of new nursing procedures used in the care of various diseases will be given by nurses.

This conference for private duty nurses is a part of a nation-wide movement to improve the quality of nursing care. Similar conferences will be held under the direction of Miss Swope in other sections of Illinois during the month. Miss Alice Dalbey of Springfield, President of the Illinois State Nurses Association states that one of the most recent trends in nursing is a desire on the part of nurses to improve their ability to render a better service to their patients. In Illinois there are 16,654 registered nurses who are in active practice. About 75% of this number are in the private duty field. It is expected there will be a large number of nurses register for the conference.

Miss Ethel Swope, Assistant National Director of the American Nurses Association, who will be one of the principal instructors at the Private Duty Conference held on March 5, at the Leland Hotel, has had a wide and varied experience in nursing and nursing education. She had a very successful experience in the private duty field, and for a period of three years was in charge of the Communicable Disease Department of the Cincinnati General Hospital, Cincinnati, Ohio. During the World War she served with the American Expeditionary Forces in France.

Miss Swope is particularly well qualified to discuss problems in the field of private duty nursing.

District 13 includes Jacksonville, Decatur, Springfield, Taylorville and surrounding areas. A number of nurses from this city are planning to attend the Springfield meeting.

Edith Rammelkamp Hurt in Collision

Local Girl Receives Slight Injury When Machines Crash Sunday

Miss Edith Rammelkamp was slightly injured at 5:15 o'clock Sunday evening when the car in which she was riding had a head-on collision with another machine at the corner of South Main and Kentucky streets. Miss Rammelkamp received a slight cut on the forehead. She was taken to Passavant hospital, where the injury received medical attention, and was then taken home.

Miss Rammelkamp was riding in a coupe driven by J. Weir Elliott and occupied also by Miss Ruth Elliott. The car was traveling north on South Main street when it was struck by a Willys Knight driven by Michael Keck. The Keck car was traveling south. The two machines met head-on, and the front ends of both cars were badly damaged.

Police investigated the accident and held Keck for further investigation. Keck was being held pending developments in the case.

DISEASES MAY BE SERIOUS THIS YEAR IN SOME ORCHARDS

Urbana, Ill.—Cold as the winter has been, it probably has not purged Illinois orchards of diseases. Present indications are that if spring weather is favorable, there will be epidemics of some fruit diseases, according to Dr. H. W. Anderson, associate chief in pomological pathology at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Plant diseases annually take a toll of a billion and a half dollars from American farmers, and Illinois, being a prominent fruit growing state, pays its full share of the damage, Dr. Anderson said.

One of the serious threats this season is apple scab, which was extremely destructive in this state in 1935. Since the fungus causing this disease overwinters in the leaves, there will be plenty of inoculating material in orchards. This will result in heavy infections if the weather is cool and rainy in the spring.

Another worry of fruit growers is that apple bitter rot, which runs in cycles, is now on the upgrade. In one year this disease destroyed more than a million bushels of apples in southern Illinois. Bitter rot, which attacks the fruit during the hot months, July to September, appeared in many orchards in 1935. It has been of little importance during the past ten years, but if it continues to be prevalent, will be very destructive.

Illinois peach growers well remember the 1935 epidemic of peach leaf curl, the worst they ever experienced. This was thought to be the result of the failure of the crop in 1934 and the desire of peach growers to save money by omitting the dormant spray in the winter of 1934-35. Those orchards which have not been given a dormant spray in 1935 may show serious leaf curl in the spring of 1936. A dormant spray containing a fungicide therefore should be applied before the buds swell. Ordinarily it is necessary to complete this spray by the first week in March.

Regardless of predictions fruit growers should be prepared to follow the spray schedules put out by the experiment station of the agricural college, Dr. Anderson warned. Fungicides are applied ahead of infections for protection rather than for curing diseases after they appear. Spray materials for disease control, together with the time best suited for their application, are given in circular 429 which can be obtained from the agricultural college.

Luckies—a light smoke
OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO—"IT'S TOASTED"

CENTER LEAVES

The top leaves of all tobacco plants tend to give a definitely harsh, alkaline taste. The bottom leaves tend to acidity in the smoke. It is only the center leaves which approach in nature the most palatable acid-alkaline balance. In LUCKY STRIKE Cigarettes the center leaves are used.

LUCKIES ARE LESS ACID!
Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

I. S. D. To Wind Up Season At Waverly

Hope New Found Spirit Will Carry Team Ahead In Regional Meet

hoping that the form they displayed against Missouri when they were the Tigers of old, will continue to carry them along through the game, and through the regional tournament.

Admitting that his boys play better against another deaf team than they do against hearing boys, Coach S. Robey Burns hoped that the regional tournament would serve as a spur to get the boys back on their stride. The Tiger coach is looking for the game at Waverly tonight to give him a good indication of just how far the team has revived mentally.

Burns expects to use the same combination that so thoroughly tromped Missouri here Saturday night. It consists of Wells and Arman, forwards, Baumann, center, Dhondt and Otten, guards. Speed, one of the essentials in the Tiger system of play, has been missing from the past few games, but they found it again Saturday.

Cathedral Favored To Win Tournament

Cancel Game With Cyclones Here For Wednesday; Have Good Record

Jacksonville high and Cathedral of Springfield, two of the outstanding prep teams in this section of the state, will not play here Wednesday night, as announced Sunday. The game was called off by Coach Frank Walker of the local school when it became apparent that George Moxon and John Bellatti, two of his regulars, would not be able to play Wednesday because of severe colds.

Moxon became ill during the Saturday morning practice session, and although he showed signs of shaking off the threatened severe illness yesterday, Coach Walker has ordered him to remain in bed for the remainder of the week, if necessary, to get rid of the cold or any complications.

Bellatti was not allowed to report for Saturday morning's drill, but was in school yesterday. However, he was still considerably weakened by the cold, and the coach thought it best to keep him out of action until next week when the Crimsons begin their battle for a regional championship.

Decatur—Cathedral of Springfield, victorious in 19 games out of 20 this season, stands out as the probable winner of the ninth annual State Catholic basketball tournament, which will be held here at the Armory Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The Cathedral record shows 10 triumphs in the Illinois Catholic conference along with nine non-league decisions. The only loss was a 16 to 15 setback at the hands of Benld after the Cyclones had won their first 10 games.

Included in the Cathedral victim list in conference play are St. Teresa twice, Quincy Academy twice, Trinity of Bloomington twice, Spalding of Peoria twice and Routt twice. Two scheduled games with St. Patrick of Kankakee were postponed because of bad weather.

In addition Coach Don Anderson's boys have conquered Springfield high and Feitshans of Springfield to win the intra-city championship. Cathedral also has beaten Athens, Witt, Easton, Virden twice and Williamsville twice. The closest call came with Athens, one of the strong teams of the Springfield sector, when the Cyclones eked out a one point conquest:

Coach Anderson, a graduate of St. Viator College, is in his second Year at Cathedral. He has a squad of a rangy veterans on hand this season with Richard Holmes, Joe and Frank Kohorst, Dick Brooks and John Miller all back from the 9135 squad. The first team is also talented scholastically all of them honor roll students.

GIVEN GOLD FOOTBALLS

Monmouth, Ill., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Twenty-six gold footballs, emblems of the Illinois Conference football championship, were distributed to members of the 1935 Monmouth College team today. Monmouth tied Millikin for the title, each scoring four victories against no defeats. Monmouth scored 86 points in four conference games while holding its opponents to six points.

By Ernest Savage

Badly handicapped by illness, Coach Frank Walker yesterday put the health of his team above monetary interests and called off the game with Cathedral high of Springfield, scheduled for the local court Wednesday night.

—o—

The coach barely escaped a quarantine brought down on his own home, and at the same time worried about colds which John Bellatti, his left handed guard, and George Moxon, his defensive "tower" are trying to shake off. Some of the other boys have light colds, but both Bellatti and Moxon had to go to bed with theirs.

—o—

The game was booked as a final attraction to fill up the J. H. S. athletic treasury, which has never been in such a state that it could be considered full to overflowing. All this despite the fact that the Crimsons have a team this year which has turned in an exceptional record.

—o—

The match would have brought together two of the four teams which won victories over Athens this year—but without Moxon and Bellattt, it would not have been the kind of a game the fans want to see. Moxon has been told to stay in bed until he is almost completely recovered, and Bellatti probably will be able to rejoin the squad in a couple days.

—o—

Don Anderson, the Cathedral high mentor, is reported to have looked over the basketball field before picking out Jacksonville for a game. He said he wanted his boys to take another one on the chin before they go after the down-state Catholic title in Decatur beginning Friday.

—o—

The Cathedral coach is pretty proud of his cagers, however, because all of them have made the school honor roll and are in the upper one fourth of their respective classes.

—o—

E. St. Louis Catholic high has replaced St. Joseph of Cairo in the Decatur tournament, and will play the home team, St. Teresa, in the opening round. Central showed a promising bunch of basketball players when they played here two years ago.

—o—

Peoria already has opened a campaign to get next year's Catholic tournament. There may be a hitch however, because the Peoria representatives were not sure late in January that they could handle a tournament of this proportion just then.

—o—

There'll be a lot of banging on the basketball courts tonight when several teams ring down the curtain for the year.

—o—

Pat Harmon points out that some of the coaches may begin to study the district and regional pairings pretty closely in an effort to land in a more choice spot in the regionals. We doubt that there will be much of this jockeying for places in the regionals, however, because there is a trophy for the district champion, and very few district teams are going to be in a position to cop a regional title—unless there are a lot of upsets.

—o—

The local district should prove just the opposite. The runner-up from the district will meet Jacksonville high in the first game of the regional, whereas the winner will meet Winchester. That, it seems to us, is an inventive to win the district, although it must be remembered that Winchester handed the Crimsons one of their few defeats this year.

—o—

And we also doubt that any of the teams in the regional would drop a semifinal game to get a shot at Murrayville. That puts the added burden on the team of coming through in a consolation game, and also puts them in the same bracket with the Crimsons.

—o—

The same is true at Greenfield—we can't imagine anyone sidestepping Virden or Carlinville to get at Waverly—although Waverly did lose its last start to Virden. Waverly then was without the services of Newberry, their ace tosser.

—o—

Their might be a little choice at Griggsville—the choice between meeting Pittsfield or Perry—but those Pike county teams like to have silverware in their trophy cases.

—o—

Hillview, they tell us, has a fine collection of cups and plaques its basketball and track teams have assembled. Illinois School for the Deaf has one of the most complete collections of silverware around this part of the country.

—o—

White Hall's trophy case also will be enhanced by an Illinois Valley cup this year. They have a case that holds banners, cups, batons, plaques, statutes and the like that extends from the top of one of the rooms to the floor.

Mt. Sterling Upsets Chandlerville 27-17

Chandlerville, Feb. 24.—Pot shooting at the goal from mid-court, Mt. Sterling high tonight got from a distance what Chandlerville failed to collect from short range, namely, more field goals, and they handed the Comets their second set-back in the last eight games as they took a 27 to 17 decision. Mt. Sterling seconds won the curtain raiser 26 to 15.

Unable to sink their short shots after sending a lightning fast break to the goal ahead of Mt. Sterling's defense, the Comets failed to hit from the field although they looked impressive in their floor work. Wilson, Mt. Sterling guard, bucketed four shots from mid-floor to lead his team in scoring.

White Hall and Pittsfield, assured of championships in the two divisions of the Illinois Valley conference, will go about the business of driving the clinching nails in the flags this week in winding up their schedules. Pittsfield tonight will play at Griggsville, and White Hall will close up Friday night with Carrollton on the White Hall court.

In neither of the divisions is there a chance for any opponent to pass them, for all of the teams have completed their schedules with the exceptions of the two champions and their opponents, and no team has a mathematical chance to get into the silver winning class through a defeat of the two leaders.

Although there is no provision to play off for the championship this year, White Hall has a valid claim to the entire Illinois Valley championship as a result of its 41 to 29 victory over the Indians in the Winchester invitational tournament. White Hall won the title in that tournament, defeating Pittsfield in one of the semi-finals.

Activity in the prep circles will virtually be ended tonight until the district tournaments open on four nearby fronts Wednesday night. Some of the teams, exempt from play in the districts, will keep their eyes sharpened with games Friday night.

The schedule for the week, subject to changes:

Murrayville at Bluffs.

Crippled Crimsons Slow to Get Underway But Finish in Burst of Speed to End Card

Slowed down by two losses from their regular starting line-up, Jacksonville high's Crimsons picked up speed as the game went along and with its defense functioning smoothly, ran up a 29 to 9 decision over Murrayville high's flitting Shadows.

Only three times the lads from the southern edge of the county snapped the threads on the mesh, their usual long range shots failing to connect, and their short shooting checked by a leech-like Crimson defense.

Forced to revamp his line-up, Coach Frank Walker started Ketner, Hamm, Hamilton, Lukeman and Ransom, but soon put Baptist into the game in one of the guard positions to make up for the loss of George Moxon. Both Moxon and Bellatti of the regular starting line-up were unable to play, but both expect to be in shape before the regional tournament gets underway next week. Both are suffering from severe colds.

The Shadows contributed a large part to the Crimson failure to score, their aggressive team attempting to force the Crimsons into hasty action. The Crimsons, on two free tosses by Alb Ketner, and a bucket by Hamilton took a 4-1 lead in the first quarter, Ken Brown hitting the only goal for the Shadows.

Baptist tossed in the only for the Crimsons in the second quarter, and Ken Brown scored the only bucket for the visitors ,the half ending 6-3.

The Crimsons began showing a bit more organization as they opened their second half, John Wright banging in a goal, Sexton countering with another bucket, before Baptist went into action to get a long and a short shot down. Then he hit a free toss, Ketner got a free shot, and then a long one from the side to make the score 17-5. Beadles made a free toss, Lukeman made both chances from a double award, and Ketner looped in a short shot to give J. H. S. a 21-8 lead at the end of the third period.

Both teams missed badly from the free throw line during the final period, but the Crimsons kept hitting from the field to increase their margin. Ketner lobbed in a one handed shot, Ken Brown made a free shot, and then John Wright then popped in two more before the game wound up.

The game with Cathedral, scheduled for Wednesday night, was cancelled Monday because of the illness of the two Crimson regulars. The Crimson seconds won the curtain raiser 38 to 25.

Michigan Whips Illinois 42-37

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The Townsend brothers, Earl and John, produced one of their greatest exhibitions of passing and shooting tonight to give Michigan a 42 to 37 upset victory over Illinois. The triumph sent the Wolverines in a tie for third place with the Illini in the Big Ten basketball standings.

Of the two, John was the greater star. In addition to scoring 10 points himself, he played a brilliant pivot game and fed the ball freely and accurately to brother Earl and his mates. The Illini led, 23 to 22, at half time but Michigan took the lead shortly after the half opened and never was headed. Combes scored 19 points for Illinois.

Between halves, Craig Ruby, retiring Illinois coach, was presented with a chest of silver by students and townspeople. Six thousand attended.

Tow Row Out Of Rich Handicap

Los Angeles, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Top Row, the cash-collecting son of Peanuts, will let the other thoroughbreds fight it out for $10,000 or more next Saturday in the San Junan Capistrano handicap.

The Santa Anita handicap winner is nursing some cuts from last Saturday's wild west victory ride for the $104,600 purse.

Discovery, Time Supply and Rosemont, all bumped by A. A. Baroni's Little Black Napoleon of the turf, together with the other eleven handicap starters, will have the opportunity to see what they can do without the menace of lugging.

Webb Everett, racing secretary at Santa Anita Park, announced today he expects all of them to start except Top Row.

The route will be a furlong shorter than the classic's mile and a quarter. And weights will be changed. Everett is trying to decide whether there should be a downward revision for Discovery or an upward revision for some of the others.

He will make up his mind by tomorrow night.

The Vanderbilt 1935 champion, which came in seventh when played as the 3-2 favorite, will be enabled to let the western folks see whether he can win back a bit of the reputation he lost Saturday.

Mrs. F. A. Carreaud's brilliant Time Supply, and Foxcatcher Farms Rosemont, second and third in the classic, and Hal Price Headley's Whopper, giant of the turf, will make a strong bid for the San Juan Capistrano handicap purse.

Eight year old Azucar, the ex-steeplechaser which brought home the $100,000 plus last year for Fred M. Alger, Jr., has a liking for longer distances than the nine furlongs. It showed a burst of speed Saturday in pulling up from tenth at the three-quarters to a fourth place in the finish.

An eighth of a mile, however, may be expected to be quite a benefit to the beautiful John Hay Whitney five-year-old Singing Wood.

Buddy Myer In Fine Condition

By Dillon Graham
Associated Press Sports Writer

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Buddy Myer, the American League batting champion, sounded a warning today to rival sluggers that he already is in "top shape" to begin the defense of his crown.

From his home in Ellisville, Miss., Myer reported he was only four pounds over his playing weight and "in the best shape I've ever been in during the off-season."

"I have not signed my contract but don't anticipate any trouble," he said in denying reports he was a holdout. "I'll have a conference with Clark Griffith at Orlando, Fla., when I go to spring camp and I'm sure we can get together."

The little Washington second baseman regretfully conceded that unusually rainy and cold weather had interferred with his resolution to get his golf score down into the 80's.

"However, I've played quite a bit and am breaking 100 consistently," he said.

"I did some lake fishing last fall and have hunted quite a bit. I have two fine setters and like to get out with them. The walking and climbing wooded hills have kept my legs in wonderful condition.

"Your guess is as good as mine as to what I'll hit next year, but I hope to start just where I laid off last season. If being in condition has anything to do with it, I will, for I intend to be in top form at the outset."

Buddy thinks his .349 batting average last year might have been some points higher with the advantage of the old sacrifice rule.

"However," he added, "I wasn't affected as much as the fellows who hit long fly balls. I'm more of a sharp hitter."

"I think the club will be improved over 1935 and if a couple of the young players come through, we may surprise." He explained. "Lots of things can happen in baseball and we're likely to get started."

Hank Leiber Is After More Pay

By Eddie Brietz.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

New York, Feb. 24.—(AP)—An implied threat to quit, unless his salary demands are met, today marked developments in the case of Hank (Ach Du) Leiber, holdout slugger of the New York Giants and one of the greatest young outfielders to hit the big leagues in many years.

Leiber, according to announcement at Tucson, Ariz., has accepted an offer to become baseball coach at the University of Arizona. He left his home at Phoenix today for Tucson, presumably to begin work.

The deadlock was clinched, for the time being at least, by a flat statement from Horace Stoneham, youthful president of the Giants, that Leiber's demands are so far beyond the club's offer that it is "useless to negotiate further." Stoneham indicated Leiber would have to sign at the figure offered or not at all.

Leiber batted .331 last year and played regularly in center field. He was paid around $8,000 and is supposed to have been offered an increase of $2,000. He is understood to be demanding $15,000.

"We have made him our best and last offer," said Stoneham. "I haven't heard from his since, although he may have been in communication with Bill Terry at Pensacola."

No comment was forthcoming from Terry who began drilling his battery candidates today. The Giant regulars are not due in camp for another week and there is always the possibility Leiber will change his mind and report.

Meantime speculation was rife as to how Terry will realign his outfield if the Arizona slugger continues to hold out.

Chick Hafey To Stage Comeback

Walnut Creek, Calif., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Chick Hafey, once a batting king of baseball, is ready to try to comeback in a manenr unbelievably strange—with a minor league club.

Instead of immediately rejoining the Cincinnati club, which owns his contract Hafey wants to come out of voluntary retirement as a Pacific Coast League player, preferably with the San Francisco Seals.

"Manager Charley Dressen of Cincinnati wrote suggesting I go to Arizona and dry out for a couple of months," Hafey related. "He said I wouldn't have to report to the club until the middle of May, when the rainy season is over.

"I would like to try myself out around here if it could be arranged. I could go to training camp with a Coast League team, work into condition and start the season with the idea of playing a few games a week and acting as a pinch hitter.

"Cincinnati would have to loan me to the Seals, on a short notice proposition to report to the National League if things turn out right."

The rangy,be-spectacled outfielder, who starred in the National League for ten years and led the hitters in 1931, has virtually recovered from illness which forced him to leave Cincinnati suddenly last May.

Wesleyan Appears Near Cage Crown

Western and Knox in Place to Claim Laurels If Titans Lose Pair

Chicago —(AP)— Eleven teams will bow out of the Illinois Intercollegiate Conference basketball picture this week, but the championship race will continue through at least the first week of March.

With the field of title possibilities narrowed to three teams—Illinois Wesleyan, Western Teachers and Knox—another effort will be made this week to drop Wesleyan, undefeated in 12 conference starts.

Wesleyan, scheduled to meet Millikin and Northern Teachers, could lose one of the contests and still retain a percentage lead. Western Teachers, meanwhile, will play at St. Viator and at Augustana, needing victories in both games to retain the second place it now holds with 10 wins and one loss.

Knox, with five victories and one defeat, will meet Bradley at Peoria in its season's finale, ambitious to step into first place if the two leaders should falter.

The following teams will complete their schedules with this week's games:

Millikin, State Normal, Augustana, Carthage, Southern Teachers, Shurtleff, Monmouth, Illinois College, North Central, Knox and McKendree.

Eastern Teachers administered the second loss of the season to Southern Teachers, 33 to 31, to finish their season last week. Elmhurst also closed its basketball ledger, with losses to Northern Teachers 30 to 47, and to Wheaton 25 to 28.

Results last week, conference games only): Western Teachers 34, Carthage 29; Knox 22, Monmouth 20; Northern Teachers 47, Elmhurst 30; Bradley 34, Millikin 27; North Central 47, Wheaton 30; Eastern Teachers 33, Southern Teachers 31; Carthage 37, Illinois College 27; Illinois Wesleyan 31, State Normal 27; Western Teachers 42, Northern Teachers 27; Southern Teachers 62, St. Viator 44; Shurtleff 39, McKendree 35; Augustana 41, Eureka 38; Wheaton 28, Elmhurst 25.

61 District Meets Carded This Week

501 Teams Will Remain in Running for Regional Tourney Crowns

By Pat Harmon
(Written for the Associated Press)

Champaign, Ill.—(AP)—Marking the first step in the long march toward the State high school basketball championship, 61 district tournaments will be played this week to reduce the starting field to 501 teams.

If 501 teams are quite a few to be left after a week of basketball, it is because the state association has arranged four steps to determine its 29th champion. Progress this year will be through district, regional, sectional, and state tournaments.

Winners, runnersup, and in some cases even the third place team, from the districts will qualify for next week's regionals, and from the latter meets and runnersup hurry on to the sectionals. Under that system it is possible for a team to lose two games and yet win the championship, but that is highly improbable since the teams playing in the districts this week were placed back there by a composite rating by their opponents.

Nevertheless, some of the districts will produce some interesting basketball. At Glen Ellyn for example, Glenbard has been forced into district play, yet Glenbard is good enough to hold fourth place in the powerful West Suburban league. Leyden and York are also entered at Glen Ellyn, while Maine Township High school is a standout in its own district at Des Plaines.

Another tournament that is tops will take place at Highland, where competition for a place in the regional was so severe that a better-than-average team like Troy was dropped to a district. The Belleville meet is almost as tough. There New Baden's late winning streak caused it to be promoted to the regional with the accompanying demotion of Mascoutah to the Belleville district.

Some district finals are sure to be unusual, for instance, at Ramsey the district winner will be thrown against Vandalia in its first regional game, while the runnerup gets a chance at Mulberry Grove. There may be some jockeying to land in the runnerup spot.

Similarly, the winner of the New Holland district will be called upon to play Lincoln, while a team in the same district by working itself into the runnerup spot would be sent against McLean. The team that wins the New Holland district may wish it hadn't.

Peotone will be the scene of one of the most interesting districts because Thornton High of Harvey, second place winner at the 1935 state tournament, is entered there. Thornton has passed through a poor season to date and whether or not it is in shape for the tournaments will be determined at Peotone.

Harry Wilson of Peoria was a business visitor in Jacksonville yesterday.

Dykes Peeved When Pitchers Stay Home

Charley Root Back in Good Condition

Pasadena, Calif. —(AP)— Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox had harsh words ready today for three of four pitchers who failed to report on time.

Ted Lyons, ace of the staff last season, will be given a few days of grace because of illness in his family. Dykes was somewhat irked, however, by the non-appearance of John Whitehead, Italo Chelini and John Salveson.

Avalon, Calif. —(AP)— Charley Root, dean of the Chicago Cub pitching staff, eager to continue his comeback which assumed large proportions last season, has reported in the best shape of his career.

Root, who won 15 games last season after being signed to a conditional contract, is down to weight and ready for work. Larry French, head of the southpaw department, also joined the squad in top shape.

Do Loose False Teeth Cause Wrinkles?

Most assuredly so. You simply CANNOT expect the lips and cheeks to continue bearing the unnatural strain of trying to hold a loose set in place without, in time, weakening and producing those objectionable wrinkles and furrows which seem to age you far beyond your time. But a small amount of SUXION THE WONDER PASTE applied to the loosest set will hold it in so rigidly and so long that the lips and cheeks will be relieved of this strain, with the result that those deep facial lines will be given a chance to smoothen out. SUXION is a PASTE and NOT a sticky powder and does everything powders cannot do. LONG'S PHARMACY, 89 East Side Square.

Schweitzer's Life And Works Related In Church Address

Dr. Annabel Newton Gives Interesting Facts on Humanitarian

The series of sermon addresses at Grace Methodist church on "Outstanding Present Day Christian Leaders" came to a close Sunday night with an address by Dr. Annabel Newton on "The Life and Work of Albert Schweitzer." Miss Newton held the closest attention of the excellent audience present by the thrilling and eloquent story of Dr. Schweitzer's life. Miss Newton's most excellent address follows in part:

Three words which characteristically describe the life and work of Albert Schweitzer are, romantic, vigorous, and dynamic.

He was born January 14, 1875 in Kaysersberg in Upper Alsace. Until the signing of the Armistice following the World War, Alsace was an old German province. At that time, it passed from German rule to French rule.

Heredity and environment were determining factors in the life of Albert Schweitzer. Among his ancestors, in both lines, are to be found musicians, schoolmasters, and preachers.

Religion and Music

Albert Schweitzer's work in music began when the boy was five years of age, and has continued throughout his life. Dr. Schweitzer's interest in music and religion have gone along hand in hand; at no time has there been a conflict between the two. Dr. Schweitzer tells us that in times of religious feeling, he has been particularly conscious of the harmony of music with the thoughts of his heart. In 1905 he published the work of Bach, which was at once considered an authority on the great German musician. As a corollary to this work, he following it with an essay on "Organs and Organ Building."

The childhood and manhood of Albert Schweitzer were exceedingly happy. Harmony between parents and children pervaded the home. He had the best of advantages in his preparatory school work and later in the universities of Strassburg, Berlin, and the Sarbonne in Paris.

Prisoner of War

When war broke out in 1914, Dr. and Mrs. Schweitzer were informed that they must consider themselves as prisoners of war. In 1917, they were removed to the great Internment Camp at Garaison in the Pyrenees. As soon as Dr. Schweitzer was released in the summer of 1918, he went up and down and across Europe lecturing and giving organ recitals to earn money for his hospital in Lamberene.

When he arrived in Lamberene in 1924, he found the jungle had reclaimed his clearing, the white ants had eaten up his hospital, and a plague of dysentery had broken out. With the help of his convalescent black friends, some new land which he acquired from his late jailors, the French government, and his old site were cleared, and, with the aid of a white carpenter sent by a Roman Catholic mission down the river and a colored mechanic furnished by a business firm, a new hospital was constructed.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUBJECT IS "MIND"

"Mind" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 23.

The Golden Text was, "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom: and the knowledge of the holy is understanding" (Proverbs 9:10).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Who hath directed the Spirit of the Lord, or being his counsellor hath taught him? With whom took he counsel, and who instructed him, and taught him in the path of judgment, and taught him knowledge, and shewed to him the way of understanding?" (Isaiah 40: 13,14).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mind manifests all that exists in the infinitude of Truth (p. 258).

Police Arrest Man After Shooting of Restaurant Owner

Paul Blue Held in Jail Following Assault on John Atterbury

Two hours after John Atterbury, negro restaurant proprietor, was shot and wounded at his place of business early Sunday morning, police had arrested Paul Blue, the alleged assailant. Blue is said to have fired a charge from a shotgun through the door of Atterbury's restaurant, striking the proprietor on the left side of his abdomen.

Blue was taken to the police station where he is said to have admitted in the presence of several officers that he fired the shot. Chief Kiloran, Captain Earl Williams and Patrolmen John Norris and Sam Harris were present when the prisoner was questioned.

Atterbury's condition at Our Saviour's hospital was described Monday as improving. None of the pellets are believed to have struck vital organs. The shooting occurred about 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning at Atterbury's place of business near West Lafayette avenue and North West street. Two charges are reported to have been fired at the building, one breaking a window and the other tearing a hole through the door. It was the latter blast that struck the proprietor.

Corn Acreage for 1934 Shows Large Decrease, Report

Ten Million Acres Less Were Planted to Corn Than in 1929

Washington —(AP)— A reduction of more than 10,000,000 acres in the corn harvest in 1934 as compared with 1929 was reported today by the Census Bureau.

The report was one of a number being released by the Census Bureau as part of the 1935 farm census.

"Decreases in the corn belt states amounted to much more than the reduction in the nation as a whole," the bureau found.

"Decreases in four corn belt states approximated 13,600,000 acres. The decrease in Nebraska was about 5,000,000 acres; Kansas, 3,600,000 acres; South Dakota, 2,800,000, and Iowa, 1,700,000.

"In 26 states the acreage of corn was larger than in 1929. The increase in corn in the important cotton states was approximately 3,000,000 acres.

"Five states, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Carolina and Texas, reported an increase of over 300,000 acres.

"Ranking the states on the basis of bushels of corn produced in 1934, Iowa with 168,405,545 bushels, or 14.4 percent of the United States total, was first; Illinois, with 152,010,682 bushels or 13 percent was second; and Indiana with 106,068,436 bushels, or 9.1 percent, was third."

The total acreage was 87,476,444 acres in 1934, a decrease of 10,264,296 acres for 1929. The number of farms growing corn increased about a quarter of a million to 4,849,724 in 1934.

Winter Grains Not Hurt by Cold, Claim

Hessian Fly Damage Uncertain in Central Illinois

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—The state and federal departments of agriculture today reported there probably was no great damage to winter grains, especially wheat, because of the extreme cold waves.

A. J. Surratt, government agricultural statistician, said little damage was expected in the northern half of the state, where there has been a continuous snow covering and young plants have been in a dormant stage since last December, protecting themselves from exposure.

The condition of winter wheat in the southern Illinois was considered more uncertain, however, due to the Hessian fly damage last fall and uneven or no snow during the period of low temperatures.

Damage to clover, alfalfa and timothy cannot be determined until spring, the report said.

CITY'S FATHER OF DENTISTRY HONORED IN FEATURE STORY

The Sunday Chicago Tribune devoted space in the feature section to dentistry and the office and equipment of the dentist. Among the number of interesting illustrations was a large cut of the late Dr. G. V. Black's East State street office here.

The picture is of the operating room, the south room on the east side. From its east window, the houses on the north side of the street and the spire of the Church of Our Saviour are visible.

When Northwestern University built its new dental school they included three rooms in the tower as a memorial to Dr. Greene V. Black, often called the "Father of Modern Dentistry." One of these rooms is a replica of his East State street operating room which contains furniture and equipment in the same positions as the actual office.

The picture in the Tribune is made from the replica, but local residents familiar with the office could tell no difference in any of the details.

Stock Market Drifts Lower

By Frank MacMillen

New York, Feb. 24.—(AP)—In the smallest trading in more than a month, the stock market drifted lower today with losses in pivotal issues running from fractions to 2 points.

The market as a whole ignored several broad developments which ordinarily would be classed as definitely bullish.

Steel operations, for example, were estimated at 52.9 per cent of capacity for the current week by the American Iron & Steel Institute, up 1.2 percentage points, but U. S. Steel dropped 1⅛ points on the day to 62⅛. Bethlehem was off ⅞ at 57⅛, but the preferred advanced 2½ to 129½.

Rail issues as a group suffered the most, and Utilities appeared to hold up the best. In the latter group there were evidences of adjustmetns from the abrupt fall a week ago on the supreme court's TVA decision.

Consolidated Gas lost 1 point at 33½, but American Water Works advanced ⅝ to 22⅛, and Commonwealth & Southern was up 1⅛ at 3⅞.

Wheat Prices Up One Cent Bushel

By John P. Boughan,
Associated Press Market Editor.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Meat rose a cent a bushel today to the highest price that with but a single exception the July future has reached since Jan. 27.

Uneasiness over dust storms in the American southwest, together with buoyancy of market at Liverpool and Winnipeg, was in large measure responsible. Trade reports from the dust-bowl region said a new series of "dusters" damaging to crops was feared.

Wheat closed firm at the same as Friday's finish to ⅝ higher, May 99¼-⅜, corn ⅜-½ down, May 60¼-½, oats ⅜-½ off, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to an equal gain.

From the outset, wheat values tended upward most of fthe day, influenced by unlooked for strength at Liverpool, as well as suggestions of likelihood of domestic crop damage over wide areas. Dust clouds were reported as overhanging large sections of southwestern states. At some points yesterday's dust storm was described as the worst since the St. Patrick's Day black blizzard 13 years ago.

Cattle Values Hit Low Level

Chicago, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Cattle prices declined today to the lowest level in more than a year. An extremeley dull dressed beef market dspite recent reductions in wholsale quotations and a bulge in receipts that accompanied mild weather forced the general market off 25 to 50 cents.

Steers and she stock struck new low prices for the season and in most cases since January, 1935. The bulk of fat steers sold at $7 to $9 and few were quoted above $10. Some strictly good and choice weighty steers topped at $11.25. Most heifer yearlings sold at $6.75 to $7.25 and strictly good mixed offerings sold at $8.50.

Last week's average cost of slaughter steers was $8.35, only a cent below the previous week, but $2.19 under the average of the corresponding week of 1935. Last year's peak for steers was $16.25, established on May 1. The quotable top now is around $13, although few comparable steers have been offered recently.

The sluggish condition of the meat trade and bulging receipts weakened other livestock prices, also. Hogs closed 5 to 15 cents below Friday's average, with the top at $10.40, and fat lambs were steady to weak, spots selling 10 to 15 cents lower. The top was $10.10.

Grace Church Doings

With more favorable weather the attendance in the services was greatly increased. Many who had not been in attendance since the first of the year were present on Sunday.

The Sunday school began the activities of the day with nearly a normal attendance. There were 372 present with an offering of $12.25.

Christian Education Sunday was observed at the morning service. Dr. C. P. McClelland was in charge of the service. He introduced several students, the Misses Carver, Storr and Lohman, who spoke appropriately upon various phases of the subject as related to MacMurray College. The college choir supplied the music.

At the evening service the sermon address was presented by Dr. Annabel Newton of the faculty of MacMurray College upon, "The Life and Work of Albert Schweitzer." A very comprehensive review of the life of this very interesting man was presented.

Charles Scott was the leader of the Young Peoples' League. The life of Jane Addams was discussed in the high school group under the leadership of Mary Roach.

Church night program Wednesday night begins at six o'clock with the social period, followed by the supper hour and class sessions. With more favorable weather an increased attendance is expected. Dr. F. A. Lindhorst, religious education director of the Illinois conference will be present and speak at 7:40. As Mr. Lindhorst has been invited here at the request of the Sunday school board, it is very important that all the workers in the Sunday school be present.

Scout Troop Seven will meet on today at 7:30 p. m.

Winter Heat Wave Sends Frost From Ground; Streams Up

Mercury Soars and Ice Melts; Sidewalks, Streets Clear, But Need Washing

The long-awaited "chinook" has finally struck the ice-bound middle west, and a record thaw is under way. Sunday the mercury rose to a point where the weather was almost balmy. Today the thermometer recorded a still further rise, and it remained well above freezing all Sunday night.

At 7 o'clock yesterday morning the official temperature was 45 degrees above zero, and the barometer stood at 29.77, a low pressure which may bring rain.

Downtown thermometers registered 55 to 60 degrees yesterday morning. The thaw is rapid and frost is leaving the ground at a great rate. Observers reported the water soaked into the ground as fast as it thawed out. Many streams in this vicinity were reported running full. The brook rose west of the city as snow water poured into it from the fields.

On the city lakes the heavy ice began to break up. Water was running into Mauvaisterre lake Sunday and the big reservoir continued to fill yesterday. The water rose to the foot of the flashboards in the spillway, but the heavy ice had not thawed sufficiently to creat jams.

Motorists who took to the roads Sunday to enjoy the mild weather report long stretches if pavement covered with water. One citizen who went to East St. Louis returned over the Waverly route and reported the Macoupin creek spread over the bottoms near Chesterfield. He found long strips of pavement covered with water axle deep.

Citizens were busy all day Sunday cleaning ice from sidewalks. The extreme mildness of the weather helped them materially, and yesterday practically all walks in the city are clear of ice. However, the ashes used during the long "ice age" make the streets rather unsightly now that they are no longer needed. Some citizens wede wishing for rain to wash the streets.

The thaw is one of the most rapid that has been known for this time of year. The range in temperature for the past week is very great, for only a few days ago the mercury was far under the zero line.

LOCAL FARM LEADERS TO TRACTOR ENGINE MEET IN CHAMPAIGN

Claude Jewsbury, Harold Joy, F. J. Flynn, Everett Reynolds, and W. F. Coolidge will go to Champaign today to attend a demonstration under the auspices of the engineering division of the College of Agriculture. Farm tractor owners and other interested men from all sections of the state will be present.

The purpose of the gathering is to learn more concerning high compression engines for tractor use. The engineering group has worked out ways of rebuilding tractor motors so that the same high compression can be used as is now the rule in automobile engines. Heretofore tractors have been driven with only low compression engines. By increasing the space in the cylinder heads, high compression may be used, but only gasoline can be used as fuel.

Williams and Utt Marriage Rites in Jerseyville Church

Miss Thelma Utt Becomes Bride of Wm. Smith in Pretty Ceremony

Jerseyville, Ill.—Miss Thelma Utt of this city, became the bride of William Smith of St. Louis, Mo., at four o'clock Saturday afternoon, February 22nd, at the Presbyterian church in Jerseyville. The single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Harrold S. Ferrill, pastor of the church, before a small gathering of relatives and friends of the couple.

The church had been decorated for the occasion with a profusion of ferns and palms. Mrs. Frank S. Snedeker presided at the organ. She played Lohengrin's March as the bridal party entered the church and "Love's Old Sweet Song," while the marriage vows were being spoken. Following the ceremony Miss Eugenia Corzine sang "I Love You Truly."

Miss Helen Utt of this city, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid. Her dress was of aqua blue with accessories of brown and she, too, wore a corsage of gardenias. J. G. McNulty of St. Louis, attended Mr. Smith as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception for relatives and friends was held at the Colonial Hotel. The young couple will make their home at 711 West Church street in Champaign.

Miss Utt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Utt of Jerseyville. She was graduated from the local schools and is a member of the Delta Rho Sorority. For several months she has held a secretarial position in the Resettlement Administration office in Champaign.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smith of Mt. Pleasant, Tenn. He is a graduate of the University of Tennessee, at Knoxville, and for several years has been in the employ of the Kroger Company.

CRUISE TO NOWHERE

by Dock Morgan

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JANE WESTON feels her dreams have come true when she sets out on a three weeks' ocean cruise, accepted in payment for the sultry diary her when the magazine for which she worked as typist suspended publication.

On board the ship she meets handsome DIRK STROM, expert ski jumper, as penniless as Jane. The trip was a gift to him from the parents of a child whose life he saved.

Dirk introduces Jane to his friend, SNOWSHOES, a detective. Others on board are: NORA LANE, famous actress and owner of the Kokinor diamond; wealthy, eccentric MADAME DOREMUS; DUTCH LENZ and MANNIE JACKSON, blackmailers; TINO ROSSI, opera singer; KEN MARTIN and LINDA BAYES, floor show entertainers.

Dirk and Jane spend much of their time together. Then a misunderstanding comes between them. Dirk hears Nora Lane complaining about noises near her stateroom and trades staterooms with her. Later she dances with him. Mannie Jackson tries to take her picture and she is terrified. Dirk strikes Mannie and smashes his camera.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

IT was the ship's gala or cabaret night. More than 200 guests sat at small tables in the great ballroom, surrounding a square of polished floor. Lights were dimmed. Waiters in white mess jackets wove their way in and out, with dunce caps and noise-making favors of red and blue paper.

The noise rose crescendo until the music began. Several couples were already on the dancing floor when Jane entered with Tino Rossi.

There was a clap or two for the opera star when he took his place at a choice table, but it was as nothing compared with the adulation heaped on Nora Lane, when she came in with Dirk. Nora Lane, grand trouper that she was, hadn't let the passengers down.

"Why doesn't the entertainment begin?" Jane asked, and Tino, responding to her merest wish, nodded his head to Ken Martin, the master of ceremonies.

Ken sang. That was not a novelty, for he always sang with his orchestra. But tonight he sang to Linda Bayes. By every note, by his gestures and pantomime, Ken Martin showered love on Linda who sat at her table, looking up at him.

Everyone in the room seemed to sense the young couple's devotion to each other. Not even the applause at the end of the song broke the spell.

But the applause brought Jane out of her reverie. She wondered if her eyes were moist. She was afraid that they were.

Tino smiled at her. "You are so like a lovely child," he said. "And so much of a woman, too."

Ken stood up to make an announcement. "We have with us this evening," he said, "one of the world's most famous dramatic actresses. It isn't often a master of ceremonies can introduce such an international star, but tonight, ladies and gentlemen, I have the great pleasure of introducing to you Miss Nora Lane."

When the actress arose the applause broke like a clap of thunder. Miss Lane smiled and bowed. Ken Martin stilled the tumult.

"Miss Lane," he said, "we'd be pleased if you would give us a number on our program."

Nora Lane spread her arms graciously, took a long breath, and said, "But what can I do for you?"

A man called, "A bit from your last play!"

"The Portent?" She laughed. "That's much too deep and dark but—all right. I'll give you the scene at the end of the third act."

THE room was breathlessly still. Lights were lowered. Nora Lane's voice was resonant and clear and charged with emotion. She made every listener feel the despair and stark tragedy of her role.

And then the lights were back, and Nora Lane was smiling, and bowing. She sat down amid applause that filled the room.

Ken Martin tried to talk and eventually was able to be heard. "We have with us this evening another international figure," he said. "Ladies and gentlemen, I give you a brilliant star on the operatic horizon, the baritone, Signor Tino Rossi."

Again applause rang out. Tino flushed but he did not rise. Instead he looked annoyed.

"No, no!" he said. At last he stood up, bowed and sat down again. "I can not sing tonight!" he said to Jane.

"Sing, Rossi!" a man called insistantly.

"Sing!" became the refrain.

Tino stood up angrily and put a hand to his throat. "I have a slight ailment of the larynx. I came on this cruise to cure it, and I am under strict orders not to sing. I must beg you to excuse me."

Nora Lane started the applause, because she couldn't see a fellow professional humiliated. But the answering applause was weak. When the orchestra began to play Tino stood up and made as if to leave. Jane had no alternative but to follow.

"I am greatly annoyed," he said. "It is regretable. We will go up on deck under the stars. We shall be alone."

* *

DIRK watched them leave, then turned to Nora Lane, at his side. She had an appeal which, to Dirk, was beauty and talent combined. In her face he saw a spiritual and intellectual quality he had never met before.

"That man on board," she was saying to Snowshoes, the detective. "The one they call Mannie Jackson—I'm sure he's a notorious blackmailer."

Snowshoes nodded in agreement.

"Unfortunately," the actress went on, "my troubles seem to be in headlines all the time. There's no secret about them. But I have to face extortion and blackmail threats, just the same. They terrify me. I'm afraid I chose the wrong place for a rest."

"For a house detective," Snowshoes put in, "this cruise is about as restful as a typhoon. Take a look around you—"

Dirk laughed suddenly. "I'm sorry, but a ridiculous thing has happened. My foot has gone asleep."

Nora Lane smiled. "That isn't very complimentary to us, do you think, Mr. Blake?"

"To be exact," Dirk added, "the whole leg, the one I injured on that ski jump, has lost all feeling. It happens occasionally. I'll have to go out on deck, massage it a little and walk up and down. I won't be long. Please excuse me."

Dirk walked slowly across the room, trying the leg, putting his foot down with a soft tread, all his weight on the other member. It was an ordeal and when he reached the cool deck his forehead was beaded with the sweat of throbbing pain.

He sat down in a deck chair and rubbed the calf of his leg to restore circulation. It didn't take long. He got up then and began to walk out on the open deck under the stars.

He threw his head back in the wind and breathed in the air. It was less salty than before. There was a smell of jasmine and of coral reefs; they were nearing the Bahamas now, he knew. He began to pace up and down until he forgot that his leg had given him any discomfort. Suddenly he saw a pair of deck chairs that had been placed in a broad band of shadow under the stars. His eyes became as still, china eyes, trying to pierce the blackness.

* * *

TWO indistinct shadows lay behind the fog horns. Tino Rossi, the baritone, was talking there in the darkness with Jane.

"There is no spot on the globe as lovely as the Italian Alps," the singer said. "You should see Cortina D'Ampezzo under the moonlight—ah! Giant spiny pink peaks soaring into a blanket of stars."

Dirk saw an operatic palm lifted heavenward, and two glistening, eager Italian eyes. The light went out, but the voice, as soft as a caress, went on.

"Kisses and moonlight!" the singer said, sighing. "We used to go there when I was studying singing at La Scala. Do you think I am a terrible type—speaking of past loves to a young girl like you? But you are so exclusive. You should know something of romance and gaiety."

Again Dirk saw the hands flung upward with an impressive, continental gesture. He couldn't budge without disturbing Tino's talk.

"Shall we go back to the bar now?" Tino asked. "The cabaret should be over. I can't sleep with all this moonlight. The islands are ahead. We reach them in the morning. Tomorrow at this hour we'll be high up on the harbor shore, reaching for the stars!"

Dirk could listen no more. He knew that he was in love with Jane, and he was jealous.

He stood by the rail as the pair got up to go. Jane came so close to him that he caught the scent of jasmine in her hair. He gripped the rail hard. When he thought the pair was out of sight he lit a cigaret, shielding the flame before his face. After a few puffs he walked slowly down the deck, tossed the cigaret away and went back to the ballroom.

People were beginning to leave. Dirk went straight to Snowshoes and Nora Lane and said, "This party's dying. Let's go on to the bar."

Nora Lane laughed. "I'll go," she said, "if you'll let me sit quietly in a corner, sip a milk punch and talk about shooting ducks with this amazing detective. We're getting along swimmingly."

"What a remarkable woman!" Snowshoes breathed. "Her husband used to take her along to the blind, and she beat him shooting ducks. It was their first quarrel."

They all rose, laughing. Dirk looked at Nora Lane. He could see her, walking over the moors toward the duck blind, a gun in the crook of her arm. She was the amazing creature.

Institute Speaker Sees Possibility of Conflict With Japan

War between the United States and Japan within five years if the U. S. government does not change its attitude toward the Orient, particularly in curbing the naval building program, is the prediction of Professor Frederick L. Schuman, who made the opening address of MacMurray College's Problems of the Pacific Institute last night.

While the people of the two countries do not want war, conflicting policies on the high seas and over possessions in the Pacific are drawing the governments further apart, the speaker asserted. But he expressed hope that common sense will guide the diplomatic actions of each nation to avert war, and cited four policies by which armed conflict between America and Japan might be averted.

Dr. Schuman, a member of the faculty of the University of Chicago, advocated in his solution of strained relations between the two nations the granting of naval parity to the Japanese and "removal of the immigration insult." He advised these concessions to the Japanese to allay their fears of aggression by the United States, expressing belief that such overtures of friendship would not be abused.

"Wars are the result of blundering, muddling, fear and suspicion," Dr. Schuman said. "Yet today we have in this country persons who believe that war is heroic, beautiful, honorable. And Europe has nations of the same opinion—Italy and Germany. Nations with such an idea of war are international criminals or lunatics."

Dr. Schuman's searching discussion of the American—Jap question was the opening lecture of a series dealing with problems of the Pacific. For the eighth year MacMurray College, through generosity of an eastern benefactor, Chester A. Smith of Peekskill, New York, is conducting an institute for the promotion of a better understanding of international affairs.

Today others will take the lecture platform to present other angles of international relations with America and Japan as principal characters. A spokesman for Japan and another for China will be heard this afternoon, contributing first-hand knowledge and information to the discussion.

America and Japan

"America and Japan—Neighbors or Enemies?" was Dr. Schuman's subject last night. From his discussion the large audience gained the impression that America must put a foot forward in meeting Japan in ironing out difficulties, even to making concessions which have been resisted strenuously in Congress. The speaker was frank in his presentation of Japan's side of the question, pointing out mistakes he believes this country has made in dealing with the Oriental nation.

Dr. C. P. McClelland, president of MacMurray, opened the Institute with a greeting of welcome to the representative audience of towns-people and students. Each year, he said, the Institute grows in interest and a clearer understanding of the problems of nations is certain to result.

The college president introduced Dr. George Adams of the faculty as chairman of the evening. Dr. Adams then presented Prof. Schuman, widely known as a student of international matters and author of numerous books. The chairman stated that for ten years Dr. Schuman has made an exhaustive study both here and abroad of questions facing nations of the world.

The seriousness of the situation he believes involves the United States and Japan was explained by Dr. Schuman in the beginning of his address.

"On January 16 the American Steamship Manhattan sailed from England to New York, bringing a man whose departure or arrival attracted little attention," he said. "That man, an American, brought a direct threat of war to the United States, a threat as dire and direct as if he had commanded a squadron of battleships.

"The man was William Phillips, Under Secretary of the U. S. Navy, and he bore the report of the failure of the London Naval Conference. The United States had refused to sign documents which would give Japanese naval parity, and paved the way for a naval building race which can lead to nothing but war.

"Should war come, it would not be because of a desire for war in Washington or Tokyo, but because of blundering, muddling, fear and suspicion on the part of diplomats of both nations.

"I believe we would be acting on a dubious assumption if we believe the people of Japan want war. Unless we give the Japanese the benefit of the possible doubt, we shall run a risk of war more grave than any other we have faced.

Conference Issue

"The issue at the London Conference was one of naval parity, all problems revolve around it. In what I am going to say I am not trying to pose as an alarmist or sensationalist. We have heard of the Yellow Peril for 40 years. But unless this naval question is met we shall be at war within 5 years."

Dr. Schuman then launched into a discussion of the functions of the Japanese and American navies. Each rules vast bodies of water, but the possessions of each are 4,500 miles apart. Japan has no possessions in the eastern Pacific, but the United States has island possessions in Japan's front yard, including the Philippines, Samoa and Guam.

The speaker asserted that because of the proximity of America's possessions to Japan; America's refusal of naturalization for Japanese and other unpleasantries, Japan harbors a suspicion of this country. When the United States refused Japan a navy equal to this country's, the doubt and suspicion deepened, according to the speaker.

"The United States' possessions in the western Pacific are like daggers pointing at Japan's heart," he declared. "Japan is determined to guard her hegemony of the western Pacific zealously."

Dr. Schuman ridiculed Senator J. Hamilton Lewis and Senator Key Pittman for assertions they have made toward Japan. Senator Pittman's statement that America should meet the situation with a "dominating naval and air force" was mentioned by the speaker in support of his claim that Japan has been given an "uneasiness" by this country.

The speaker said that in event of war Japan would seize and control the Philippines and Guam within two weeks, unless the United States had previously thrown great strength to these islands. A naval building race would lead to Japan's movement against these possessions, he claimed.

Dr. Schuman set forth four courses by which the United States can avert conflict with Japan, the chief one of which is application of the Kellogg pact and Stimson Doctrine. He would grant Japan equal naval strength with this country, believing that by doing so our sincerity would be established rather than questioned, and that it would not work to the detriment of America. He also would remove immigration restrictions, stating that the ratio from Japan under the last existing policy was slight.

Cooperation with other powers in an alliance to thwart aggression was the first policy suggested by the speaker for bringing amity to the nations. The League of Nations, he said, is politically impossible as the United States has shown that it does not desire membership. The fourth course he mentioned was that the United States withdraw entirely from the western Pacific.

In view of all his assertions that the United States and Japan are headed toward serious trouble, with a naval building marathon in progress, there is hope for peace, Dr. Schuman said. Both nations have men capable of guiding peaceful negotiations and should their voices and actions be heard above the militarists, the two countries will come to a harmonious understanding.

Today's program at the Institute brings several distinguished men and women to the lecture platform. The schedule for the day and evening sessions is:

Pages Torn From Bibles No Good As Records Of Birth

Old Age Assistance Superintendent Explains Phases Of Pension Applications

"Pages should not be torn from the family Bible" warned Fred E. Deatherage, superintendent of the County Commission of Public Welfare Monday, the warning being given to prevent people from tearing out of the Bible, pages giving their birth record.

Mr. Deatherage stated that a number of the applicants for Old Age Assistance had torn pages out of the Bible, which not only marred the Bible, but destroyed the page as evidence. It is only when the page is a part of the book that it is any evidence in law. Pages that have been torn out may be fitted back in their proper places with transparent mending tissue, such as the Library uses.

The law provides that a photostatic copy of the birth record in the Bible may be presented as evidence of age where some other proof is not available. Some of the print shops and photographers are equipped to do this work, at very reasonable charges.

Mr. Deatherage stated that the family Bible should not be brought to the office in the court house, as it could not be filed with the applications. Investigators later on will examine it at the home of the applicant.

However, the law provides that other proofs of age may be submitted, such as a certificate showing the age on the marriage applications; or a certified copy of the application for insurance made before 1920, and other methods. The proof of the age of the applicant must be pinned to the application. Later, this will be sent to Springfield by the County Welfare Department.

Many applicants fail to give their residence during the past nine years. If a person has lived in many places in this city, the last two or three addresses, with the proper dates, may be sufficient. But an answer that the applicant has lived "in Jacksonville's or in "Morgan County" is not sufficient.

Mr. Deatherage also stated that many of the applications were rejected because the applicant failed to give a correct answer to the last question-number twelve. This asks if the applicant is receiving a pension or allowance of any kind. A person on relief should so state and give the amount received. Or if being cared for by a son or daughter, or other person, the name of the person should be given; also the kind of assistance received, whether room and board, or whatever is received.

On Monday the local office passed upon the form and received eighty-six applications. Many others were presented, but were not received as they either did not have proof of age attached, or were not properly filled out. A number of those that have been filed may be rejected later on after an investigation has been made.

YOUNG WOMAN MURDERED AT NEW ORLEANS

Free Lance Jockey Is Being Held By Police

New Orleans, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Fun-seeking celebrators reveled in the spirit of Mardi Gras here today while police were confronted with a mysterious slaying in which a young woman merry maker was the victim.

A bullet in the head ended the carnival celebration of Mrs. Estelle Hughes, 29-year-old mother. Her body was found early today on the grassy lawn of a railroad station. She came here from Panama City, Fla., with her nine-year-old daughter, Janelle.

As masked revelers, grotesquely costumed, danced and sang through the streets to the tunes of innumerable bands police investigating the slaying turned attention to events last night attending a party of which Mrs. Hughes was a member.

Jockey Jack O'Day, 26, a free lance rider at the Fair grounds race meeting, who police said was Mrs. Hughes' escort, was formally charged with murder late today.

He was taken into custody at the first precinct police station at 3 a. m. where he had gone to report he had been slugged and robbed.

Desk Sergeant Raymond Gorman said he previously held O'Day as a "simple drunk," asserting he was "very intoxicated."

The woman's body was found at 6 a. m. by a Negro porter at the railroad station and O'Day's car was discovered by police a short distance away. On the front seat of the automobile was a .38 calibre revolver with one discharged cartridge.

"I don't remember a thing," the jockey said. "I might have shot that woman for all I know, but I guess I was too drunk to know anything. I do know I was slugged and robbed."

Also questioned were Mrs. Ethel Bernard, 26, and O. W. Gray, 26, a sailor on the U. S. S. Arkansas, battleship asigned to New Orleans for Mardi Gras.

They told police they were with Mrs. Huges and O'Day earlier in the night, but were forced out of the car at gun-point by the jockey shortly after midnight. They reported the incident to police.

The government has withdrawn a similar suit from a St. Louis court. A criminal action, based also on allegations of conspiracy, resulted in acquittals.

Senate, House Conferees Reach an Agreement on Soil Conservation Bill

By D. Harold Oliver,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Senate and House conferees reached agreement today at their first meeting to adjust differences over the administration's soil conservation subsidy bill.

House changes were accepted in most instances. The conference report probably will be called up in the House tomorrow. Senate action also will be required before the AAA replacement legislation can go to the White House.

Fundamentally, the measure came out of the conference chamber still carrying the original broad powers for the secretary of agriculture to make grants to farmers directly or through states for two years, to be followed by a permanent program of subsidies going only to states that adopt federal formulas for crop control through changing from commercial to soil-building crops.

The conferees accepted the controversial House provision requiring the secretary of agriculture to re-establish as fast as practicable the pre-war parity between the purchasing power of farm and non-farm net income without discouraging production below the normal domestic human consumption in the years 1920-29.

This so-called "consumer protection" amendment had been overwhelmingly rejected by the Senate when offered by Senator Wagner (D.-N. Y.)

Also accepted with some modification was the House amendment permitting tenants and share croppers to participate in subsidy benefits under the temporary program.

Substituted for the House language declaring the secretary of agriculture in making grants shall consider the contribution in services any any loss of income sustained by tenants and share croppers, was a provision saying the secretary shall, so far as practicable, "protect" their interests.

Chairman Smith (D.-S. C.) of the Senate conferencec committee, who had assailed the tenant provision as originally approved by the House, had this to say about the complete agreement:

"I'm of the opinion that this is as near a constitutional bill as a matter of this kind can be made. I am gratified that states are recognized as being necessary in carrying out properly any plan looking to the benefit of the farmers."

Gloria Vanderbilt Carries Fight For Child To Courts

Claims Young Heiress Is Now "Shuttled Back And Forth" Each Week

Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt carried her fight for sole custody of her 12-year old daughter, Gloria, to the Supreme Court today with a plea that the young heiress now is "shuttled back and forth each week like a tennis ball."

She contended liberties of both child and herself had been infringed without "due process of law" by a decree of New York Courts. This gave principal custody of the daughter to a paternal aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, after a trial which lasted two months.

The order of Justice John F. Carew of the New York Supreme Court gave Mrs. Vanderbilt the child two days a week, Christmas day, and during the entire month of July. At hearings so sensational that at times the public was excluded, doctors, maids, nurses and servants testified for and against the mother.

Eight printed volumes of testimony and exhibits from lower courts, describing, among other things, cocktail parties and bedroom scenes, were placed before the justices. Mrs. Whitney and the child's guardians have 30 days in which to reply to the request for a review. An announcement whether the tribunal would pass on the controversy would be likely two weeks later.

River Overflows, Woman Drowned

Logansport, Ind., Feb. 25.—(AP)—One woman was drowned when Eel river suddenly overflowed its banks here early tonight sending a wall of water sweeping through a residential district and part of the business area. The water receded as rapidly as it rose and within a short time the stream was back in its banks.

Mrs. Thomas Penn, 43, was drowned as she attempted to escape from her home, which was in the path of the rushing water. Her husband was trapped in the house and finally climbed to safety on the roof.

Mrs. Penn's body was not recovered immediately.

The water swept into this city when an ice gorge at Mexico 12 miles northeast broke. In some places the water was as much as twelve feet deep. Through two streets of the business district it reached a depth of about a foot.

LACKS DIGNITY

New York, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Harry Einstein, a Greek dialect "stooge" for Eddie Cantor, may not use his familiar pseudonym "parkyakarkus" as his real name on these grounds:

It lacks dignity.

It is "not fundamentally a name at all."

City Court Justice Vincent Lippe's decision denying Einstein's petition to assume "Parkyakarkus" as his legal name is published in the current New York Law Journal. In his petition, Einstein complained that the fact that few persons any longer knew his real name caused him great embarrassment.

FLU EPIDEMIC

Columbia, Mo., Feb. 25.—(AP)—An influenza epidemic among students overtaxed hospital facilities at the University of Missouri today. About 140 students were under treatment and Dr. Dan F. Stine, hospital director, said it appeared the peak had not been reached. Nine cases had developed into pneumonia. There has been one fatality.

ICE GORGE IS THIRTY FEET HIGH AT OTTAWA

Ottawa, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—An ice gorge, 30 feet high, in the Illinois river at Marseilles, crushed the dredge, Broward, and badly damaged two tug boats today.

Gordon Winston, engineer jumped for the dock. James Boys, also an engineer aboard the craft was thrown to an ice cake and marooned in the river for 20 minutes until help reached him.

Only the machinery which the owners said cost $100,000 can be salvaged, they said.

The Broward and a barge loaded with lumber was tied to it, sank. The accident occurred near Belle Island lock. Ice had held the boats marooned there since January.

Cowboy Champion Sums Up 11 Years As Rodeo Performer

Says It Is Not Such Bad Racket If You Are "Lucky"

Tucson, Ariz., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Everett Bowman, newly crowned champion cowboy of the world, summed up 11 years as a rodeo performer today with terse comment:

The rough, dangerous game of the arena has done well by Bowman. Along with his new title he has won enough prize money by his sensational roping, steer bulldogging and bronc riding to buy two Arizona ranches and stock them with high grade cattle.

He was a contestant in the first rodeo he ever saw and has been at it ever since.

"How would you like to try your hand at bulldogging?" a friend asked Bowman, then 25, wiry, and long legged 11 years ago at Salt Lake City.

Bowman didn't know what bulldogging meant, but he entered the event. When the steer wrestling started he watched several others before his name was called. Then he mounted, and took out after the racing steer. He caught the steer easily enough, but hit too hard, spilled the steer and got up with a pair of horns in his hands. He had broken them off clean.

Bowman collected the $5,000 purse twice at Pendleton, topped the list at Cheyenne two years and was one of the selected cowboys appearing at the World's Fair Rodeo in Chicago.

He was high man at Calgary's famous stampede in 1929, but there he rode no broncs. He quit that business in 1928 and still fights shy of it.

VALENTIN MARTIN AGED SPANISH MATADOR, DEAD

During his long career in the bullrings, he was credited with having killed 981 bulls. He also served as a "banderillero," whose task is to thrust short, plumed darts into the bull's neck, infuriate the animal, before the matador enters the arena with a long sword for the kill.

He's afraid they will "come to life" suddenly and feast on his prize peacock. The peacock was placed in the cage where the reptiles are sleeping for the winter. It has an injured foot and must be kept indoors and none of the bird houses are big enough for it.

BLUE BECAUSE OF BLIZZARDS; KILLS HUSBAND

Triplets Travel Seven Miles To Tell Of Tragedy

York, Pa., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Three 12-year-old triplets stumbled across snowy fields today to tell a grandfather in Lisburn, seven miles away, that their mother, "blue because of snow and blizzards," had shot their father to death. The family has been virtually imprisoned in its farm home for more than a month.

"Goodbye, children, this will be the last you see of me," freckled James Washinger said his mother told him as she sent him forth from their back road farm home with his chubby brown-eyed sisters, June and Mary.

"She told me she wished she hadn't done it," he added.

All three said they had taken a look at the father, Simon, upstairs on his blood-soaked pillow, before leaving the seven-room, brick house, lying in a bowl in rolling hills of a fertile berry and fruit land.

James had tried to wake him.

Allison Hoffman, a son of Mrs. Washinger by a former marriage and who lives with the grandfather, A. L. Kunkle, in Lisburn, drove his car to the south lane, three-quarters of a mile from the house, but mud and slush was hub-deep beyond. He found his mother standing in the doorway in her night clothes, dazed, and failing to recognize him. A rifle lay on the floor and there was a slight wound under her left arm.

He took her to Harrisburg hospital, about 15 miles away, where she was held for observation but pronounced in no danger. Physicians questioned whether the wound could have been self-inflicted.

Detective Ralph Keech, working from the district attorney's office, said he would swear out a warrant tonight charging Mrs. Washinger with murder.

It was Mrs. Beatrice Fisher, a sister of Mrs. Washinger, who advanced the weather motive for the killing.

"Romaine was a bright and intelligent girl," Mrs. Fisher said, "she had been a school teacher and never did like to live out there where the hills kept her from seeing anything. Snow and blizzards had imprisoned them for more than a month and it was only a week or so ago that the children were able to get through the land and go to school."

Locate Cause Of Epidemic At Kankakee

Change From "Soft" To "Hard" Water Blamed For Illness

Kankakee, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—After an investigation today of the city's outbreak of epidemic diarrhoea, Dr. W. C. Van Wormer, state district health superintendent, announced the cause was a change from "soft" to "hard" water.

The city's water system is privately owned. During the recent period of sub-zero temperatures, so many pipes froze and burst that pumpage quadrupled, and the water company sent "hard" water through the system, Dr. Van Wormer said. He added:

"The water is pure and safe for drinking. Chemical analysis showed no trace of lead or zinc. There is nothing to fear."

About 200 cases were reported to the city health officer, during the past week, but few new ones were recorded today.

Unofficial Reports Say Militarists Have Seized Control of Jap Government

By The Associated Press.

Unofficial reports from the Orient said militarists seized control of the Japanese government through a coupe d'etat today (Wednesday) after assassinating several political leaders.

Martial law was proclaimed throughout Japan, the Reuters (British) News Agency reported.

Unconfirmed Chinese reports said Premier Keisuka Okada, home minister Goto and Viscount Korekiyo Takahashi, minister of finance, were among those killed.

Japanese quarters in Shanghai said the coupe was carried out at dawn by the Third infantry regiment of the First Tokyo Division by occupying the homes of ministers and police stations.

The powerful militarist bloc, which has pushed Japan's campaign for expansion in Manchuria and in China, and for equality on the seas, was said by Reuters to have seized the government and police offices.

A strict censorship was clamped down and efforts to reach Tokyo by cable or telephone from the United States were unavailing.

A Singapore Reuters dispatch said the Japanese consul was advised by his foreign office that military authorities had seized the home of Premier Keisuke Okada, a retired admiral. All police officers and the residence of Fumio Goto, home minister.

Trading on the Tokyo and Osaka stock exchanges was reported in Shanghai to have been suspended.

Although only meager and unconfirmed reports were received, diplomats in capitals throughout the world followed the situation with keenest interest.

The Domei (Japanese) News Agency in Shanghai said the coupe was engineered by younger army officers.

When an attempt was made by the Associated Press to telephone to Tokyo from San Francisco the Trans-Pacific service reported the exchange was 'out of order."

JOHN McCOY DIES

Lowell, Mass., Feb. 25.—(AP)—John McCoy, 47-year old crane operator, whose right arm was amputated by a surgeon using a mechanic's hacksaw, 50 feet in the air died tonight in St. Joseph's hospital.

FDR AND FISCAL ADVISORS TALK TAX PROGRAM

Suggestions Might Be Sent To Congress Next Week

Washington, Feb. 25. — (AP)—New conjecture, mixed with uncertainty, today surrounded the administration's tax program as President Roosevelt and his fiscal advisors once more conferred on the shaping of a plan—concededly a major hurdle remaining in the path of congressional adjournment.

Although the executive had indicated his program might be ready this week, one conferee asserted privately that "nothing specific" was discussed at the two-hour session. Others declined to expand this statement.

Representative Bankhead, of Alabama, the majority leader, said after a luncheon with Mr. Roosevelt that he did not expect Congress would receive any tax suggestion until next week.

The possibility that the program would be limited was seen by some in Bankhead's statement that "at present, I am sure, he (the president) has no new controversial suggestions to make that might delay adjournment."

Experts in the treasury and agriculture departments already have drafted tentative proposals for levies which would bring in a maximum of $900,000,000—the amount estimated required for all farm needs and cash bonus payment.

But one phase of the complete program would involve changes in income tax legislation, and many members of Congress are known to be opposed to action on such a controversial subject in a campaign year.

The conference today was another of a series in which the president has been canvassing the New Deal's entire financial picture to determine what funds must be raised and where savings could be made.

Secretary Morgenthau, his newest assistant, Wayne C. Taylor; Daniel W. Bell, acting budget director, and Herman Oliphant, treasury counsel, were present.

Grandparents And Parents In Fight For Little Girl

Father And Mother Seek Child Under Writ Of Habeas Corpus

Chicago, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Parents and grandparents of Poan Purdy, a chestnut-haired girl of seven, prepared tonight to fight in court for the privilege of rearing her.

Before Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg tomorrow Herbert McLean Purdy, New York real estate broker, will seek possession of his daughter under a writ of habeas corpus. His wife, Frances, joined him here tonight and was expected to be in court with him.

Joan was taken by force yesterday from the home of her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gibbons Miller, who have had her for five years, and lodged with the children of a deputy sheriff until the court decides who may have her.

In applying for the writ, Purdy claimed he was refused admittance to the Miller home when he attempted to reclaim his daughter. A deputy sheriff had to force his way in after the writ was issued and take the child over the protests of the Millers.

Permanent Registration Bills Passed by Lower House by Vote of 83-38

By Curtis R. Hay,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Two bills requiring permanent registration of voters in Chicago and nine downstate cities with election commissions were passed today by the House despite objection of Cook county Democrats who charged it was a "political plot."

Passage of the measures supported by downstate legislators was hailed as a victory for Governor Horner, who called a third special session to consider the legislation which he asserted was necessary to assure an "honest count" in Chicago elections.

The bills, sponsored by Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Chicago Republican, carried by a vote of 83 to 38.

Two hours earlier the House rejected—by the "silent treatment" of 57 representatives who voted present—the bill of Benjamin S. Adamowski, Chicago Democrat, providing for state-wide permanent registration. This measure was defeated 56 to 7.

The Schnackenberg bill, which did not carry an emergency clause, would be effective July 1, in time for the November election. It was sent to the Senate where its passage was regarded as more uncertain because of a larger Democratic majority.

Two Democrats, A. A. Brands of Prairie Du Rocher and Nicholas L. Hubbard, of Mt. Pulaski, were co-authors of the bill approved by the House.

Adamowski claimed Governor Horner sought the registration legislation principally because the Kelly-Nash group decided to support Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, of Chicago, for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

"There is no more dishonesty or ballot box stuffing in Chicago than in any other city," declared Adamowski.

MOVING ICE IN RIVER SNAPS OFF PILINGS

Chester, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—A number of pilings erected in the government's channel control program were snapped off today by moving ice on the Mississippi river.

A railroad incline jetting out into the river was twisted and lifted from its place as the ice floes jammed about it. The water intake at the Chester filtration plant was clogged by piled up floes.

Rivermen, however, said the damage was less than had been expected. No damage to boats anchored here was reported.

Would Divorce Police Force From Politics

Two Minneapolis Captains Are Indicted Tuesday By Grand Jury

Minneapolis, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Grand jury indictments of two police captains today brought fresh demands from better government committee leaders that the department be divorced from politics.

As addresses carrying out the committee's campaign to devote this week to public discussion of methods of achieving improved municipal government were being delivered, a grand jury returned true bills accusing Captains Frank Brunskill and William Forby of neglect of duty. Both were named on two counts in the indictments charging they allowed tavern and dance hall proprietors to operate in violation of the law.

Brunskill, ill, was placed under technical arrest soon after. Forby pleaded innocent (not guilty) in district court.

The suggestion for separation of the police department from politics was one of two predominant notes among civic groups and individuals participating in the week's campaign for improved law enforcement.

The other was sounded by Federal Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye in a talk before a luncheon club in which he said: "we can never expect a healthy condition in our community as long as those who are sworn to uphold the law permits mobs to violate laws with impunity."

Judge Nordbye cited the 1934 truck drivers strike and the more recent Strutwear Knitting company labor troubles.

In the latter case, a federal tribunal of which he was a member, denied the right of Gov. Floyd B. Olson and Mayor Thomas E. Latimer to use National Guardsmen to close the plant to maintain order.

CALDWELL'S PETITIONS ARE IN IMPROPER FORM

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—H. Wallace Caldwell's nomination petitions as a Republican candidate for governor were reported tonight to be in improper form, but there was no indication that any action would be taken to keep him from appearing on the April 14 primary ballots.

Inspection of the petitions for the Cook county Republican showed that his statement of candidacy was not signed by a notary public and did not bear a notary's seal, as required by law.

Officials in the secretary of State's office said no objection had been raised to the Caldwell petitions and that until the question is formally presented they will be kept on file, along with those of the other eight G. O. P. gubernatorial aspirants.

DYNAMITE GORGE

Kewanee, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Flood fearing residents of lowlands near here dynamited an ice gorge in a river today and almost blew up a main line bridge of the Rock Island railroad.

The ice gorge had treatened the bridge. The dynamite was set, but a block of ice carrying a charge of the explosive floated under the bridge as it detonated. The floor of the bridge was loosened.

Britain Seeking Naval Treaty With U. S. And Germany

France Is Reportedly Alarmed Over Proposal; Makes Counter Offer

By Harold P. Braman

London, Feb. 25.—(AP)—France, reportedly alarmed over a British proposal for an Anglo-German-American naval treaty, has made counter-proposals for an agreement, it was learned authoritatively tonight.

The French suggested that members of the present four-power conference, Britain, the United States, France and Italy, sign a treaty and that afterward Great Britain make a separate naval agreement with Germany, along the same lines but outside the conference.

This development came after Britain, anticipating a breakdown of the four-power talks, proposed a three-cornered treaty with Germany and the United States. France had refused to yield to British demands that Germany be invited to the conference, demanding a defensive air-pact with Britain as a price for relenting.

Italy has notified Britain that she would sign no agreement until League sanctions against her have been lifted.

The French, it was learned told the British late today they felt the existing difficulties between them could be ironed out and also that they could convince the Italians to drop their demand for withdrawal of the British fleet from the Mediterranean and the lifting of sanctions as the price for signing an agreement.

So strongly did the French insist they could swing the Italians into a four-power agreement that the British took new hope the powers could get together at the present conference. British leaders, however, did not indicate whether the French proposals are acceptable.

1,200 Pound Sea Lion Runs Aground

Canby, Ore., Feb. 25.—(AP)—A 1,200-pound sea lion ran hard aground in a wheat field here today after swimming 130 miles up the Columbia and Willamette rivers.

Game commission deputies hoisted him with block and tackle onto a truck and headed him back toward the Pacific ocean, which he abandoned two weeks ago.

Last week the big fellow appeared in Portland Harbor, 100 miles from the Ocean. He went on up the Columbia to a dead end at the Oregon City Falls. Repeatedly he floundered up the fish ladder but fell back. Finally he made it.

This morning he wallowed into the Pudding river, then started cross-country.

After going a mile and a half through the wheat field he stopped for a nap—and got caught.

OGLESBY SPEAKS

Carlinville, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Former Lieut. Gov. John G. Oglesby of Elkhart in the opening speech of his campaign for the Republican nomination for governor tonight said "increasing taxes, rank extravagance and an unbalanced budget must end."

Oglesby in a speech prepared for delivery here advocated prompt payment of salaries of school teachers, construction of farm-to-market roads and favored the creation of a legislative council.

OBTAINS DIVORCE

Los Angeles, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Mack Gordon's wife divorced him today, testifying he questioned her right to share in his "glory" as a popular song writer and would not introduce her to his friends.

"He said he was ashamed to take me out," she said, "and frequently called me a dummy."

Gordon's real name is Morris Gittler.

Mrs. Gittler's lawyer said a property settlement had been made. She obtained custody of their two children.

LAWYERS WILL SEEK FREEDOM FOR JAS. DAY

Slayer Of Loeb Enters Plea Of Innocence At Hearing

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Complete freedom for James Day, 21 year old convict accused of slaying Richard Loeb in a Stateville penitentiary razor fight, was sought today by his counsel.

Emmett Bryne and Harold Levy, former assistant state's attorneys at Chicago, entered a plea of innocence for their client when he was arraigned on a murder charge before Circuit Judge Claude N. Saum.

Then they announced they hoped to earn his acquittal and eventually obtain his release on parole.

Jude Saum set the trial for March 9 but the defense lawyers asserted they would not have their case prepared until the end of March.

Day, attired in new civilian clothing and attended by guards, was optimistic. Serving a sentence for larceny, he was eligible for a parole hearing at the time he slew Loeb in what he insisted was self defense. He lacked one prerequisite—a job.

"I think I can get a job," he told reporters. "I studied stenography. I'm a blacksmith, too. But I want to be an aviator."

Asked if the Loeb killing in a prison bathroom last Jan. 28 preyed on his mind, he replied:

"I think about it."

He was led out of the crowded courtroom to return to the prison.

State's Attorney W. R. McCabe said he had not decided whether to seek the death penalty for Day. In a confession disclosed by officials last month, Day contended he was goaded to the crime by Loeb's persistent improper overtures. There were no witnesses to the struggle that ended in the death of Loeb, partner of Nathan Leopold in the 1924 "thrill killing" of Bobby Franks.

Meanwhile, a citizens committee appointed by Gov. Henry Horner to probe Illinois penal institutions adjourned until next Monday.

Electrification Bill Is Tackled By U. S. Senate

Billion Dollar Program Runs Into Substantial Opposition

By Preston L. Grover
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—A drive initiated in the senate for a billion dollar program to carry electricity to farmers today ran into an immediate flurry of questioning that carried a hint of substantial opposition.

Senator Norris (R. Neb.), "father of the TVA," opened debate on his 10-year rural electrification measure with an assertion that "outside of private power comcompanies, there is no objection to this bill."

But several senators, including Majority Leader Robinson of Arkansas, at once questioned him as to how the senate agriculture committee had determined without hearings the amount of money needed, and whether the expense would be justified.

(The bill would authorize congress to appropriate $100,000,000 a year, for 10 years, to apportion among the states loans to rural cooperatives and individuals to finance generating plants, distributing systems, and wiring of private rural homes.

Echoes of administration troubles with power interests meanwhile were heard in the interior department, and also in the house, where private industry was virtually warned to step aside or be prepared to fight out the problem as a political issue.

At the board of tax appeals, the Associated Gas and Electric company asked redetermination of income and profit tax deficiency assessments totaling approximately $40,000,000 for the five years ending in 1933.

SLAYER CONVICTED

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Edward A. Cannon, 27-year-old candy salesman, was convicted of second degree murder by a supreme court jury here today in the slaying of Hilda Price, blond waitress.

The jury delivered its verdict to Justice Graham Witschief at 4:10 p. m. The verdict carries a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment. Cannon being convicted as a second offender. Court officials said he was convicted of rape several years ago. Justice Wischief announced he would pronounce sentence on the salesman Friday.

HUNDRED YEARS OLD

Crystal Lake, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Aurelia Blakeslee, known as "The Grand Old Lady of The Lake" was 100 today—and many of this city's 4,000 residents aided her in observing the anniversary.

Born in Southington, Conn., she came to the midwest when a bride of 20. Today she recalled walking along Randolph street, Chicago, the night of Oct. 7, 1871, when the city was destroyed by fire.

As a mark of her regard for her neighbors, the first 100 to call and congratulate her received presents—washclothes which she made herself.

A War Nobody Wants

The discussions at the Institute on Far Eastern Affairs which has been held here the past two days, reveal a general impression that some day in the near future there will be war between the United States and Japan. But the speakers have been careful to assert that nobody wants such a conflict. Japan does not want it, and apparently only a few Senators in this country have any desire for it. But as everybody is talking war, we suppose it must come. Yet if nobody wants it, why have it?

After hearing the various discussions, we are convinced that it might be well to leave Asia to the Asiatics, and to turn our attention to the development of a Pan-American consciousness. Our own two vast continents are far enough away from Asia and its problems to give us ample protection, and Asia is too far away to make it worth while to fight a war at such a distance from our home base that we could not protect our lines of communication.

To be sure, Asia and America are only 18 miles apart at the northern extremity. But an amicable understanding could easily protect that region for both sides of Behring Strait. We are withdrawing from the Philippines anyhow, which should lower one of the "daggers" a speaker claimed the United States is "pointing at the heart of Japan."

As for lowering immigration restrictions for orientals, this nation reserves the right it concedes to all others—to admit whom it will to its shores. As far as we know, Americans are not emigrating to Japan in great numbers, and there is no particular reason why the tide of Japanese settlers should flow westward across the Pacific. Japan should not feel incensed over this restriction.

As for naval parity, the Japanese probably have a navy practically equal to our own at the present time. The United States has not built up to the strength allowed under the 5-5-3 ratio, while Japan has been keeping her navy up to date. As long as Japan uses her navy to keep order in Asiatic waters, and the United States attends to its own business on this side the Pacific, there is no need for rivalry.

No Floods Coming

No floods are in prospect along the Illinois and Mississippi rivers, for which this entire area breathes a sigh of thankfulness. Reports of actual falling in river stages have come to light since the thaw began. Ice is melting slowly and moving leisurely downstream. Experts who know the rivers as a postman knows his route say there will be no floods.

Heavy rains would bring the only flood menace, and there have been no such downpours as yet. Ice gorges might cause some temporary trouble, but continued thawing will soon relieve such a situation. If the bottom country can get through this spring without floods and the farmers can plant, grow and harvest their crops, the rewards will be rich.

However, some of the levy districts are almost bankrupt, due to the depression, and repairs of levies will have to be made by the government. In fact considerable work has already been done. The restoration of the rich agricultural bottom lands would bring prosperity to the river country.

"Time Marches On"

We note that the country is becoming time-conscious. There is a general feeling among "tired" business men in Chicago and other cities of the middle west that time should march an hour ahead of itself, and that the sun should rise and set an hour earlier. Chicago proposes to join New York in the eastern time belt, which means that the belt will have to be loosened a little.

The big city boys are anticipating longer hours on the golf links or watching the cork bobbing on the surface of some quiet stream. But some of the more humble citizens who have been getting up early to fire the furnace during the winter, and who thought they might get an extra hour's sleep when firing was no longer necessary, are going to find themselves badly gypped.

In the rural sections time changes will make little difference. When spring work begins it's from sun till sun anyway for the farmer. The cows will be milked about the same time, and the pigs will squeal for a full trough at the usual hour. The hens will lay eggs according to a schedule that won't have to be submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

We surmise that there will continue to be seven days in the week and twelve months in the year, though there are plans on foot to make thirteen months do the work of twelve. What worries us is how we can dispose of all the daylight we will save this summer. We would like to use it next winter, but fear nature will have something to say about that.

Now For The Next!

Secretary Ickes has announced that the gigantic Boulder Dam and power house will be accepted from the contractor March 1, two years ahead of schedule. The first battery of generators will be started in May or June.

When the wheels begin to turn, engineering can chalk up a truly signal achievement—the greatest in dam building in all world history. Moreover, this great reservoir, storing as it does millions of acre feet of water for power and irrigation, symbolizes the progress of America.

Regardless of economic merits of the huge project, we may be sure that man's ability to build greater and greater structures has not waned. That is an important fact to civilization.

Character and Learning

A New York educator, Dr. George J. Ryan, makes the striking suggestion that candidates for teaching posts be rated on their character and personality rather than on mere book knowledge. The idea is well worth consideration.

The ability to develop a sound outlook on life, and the capacity to adjust himself to the world in which he lives, are but two of the salient benefits a teacher with real character and personality can pass on to his students. A child is influenced more by one genuine personality than by hundreds of books.

The idea, of course, should not be carried to extremes. Books contribute the finest backgrounds to both personality and character. A happy combination of the two approaches the educational ideal.

(Jacksonville Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent)

Washington—Lawyers may differ among themselves as to the breadth or narrowness of the TVA decision, but almost any of them will still tell you he would give his right eye—or, at least, a couple of minor toes—to know just what went on in the secret U. S. Supreme Court conferences which produced the opinion.

Only nine men know. But the deduction of those who best know the court and its ways is that there was more turmoil among the black-robed gentlemen than at any time previously in this generation.

Their idea is that a court which so frequently has whacked at New Deal legislation must have been forced into a bit of a dither before it handed down a decision favorable to the New Deal.

The administration's lawyers, including some of the most clear-headed ones, have it all figured out that a conservative majority of justices originally wrote an opinion which declared TVA and the sale of power unconstitutional and that in the 60 days elapsing before the decision the majority was persuaded to change its attitude—with the exception of Justice McReynolds, who opined TVA was accomplishing unconstitutional purposes.

Chief Justice Hughes, Butler, Sutherland, and VanDevanter agreed TVA had the right to dispose of electric energy developed at Wilson Dam and to operate transmission lines, while Brandeis, Roberts, Stone, and Cardozo said the suing minority stockholders of the Alabama Power Company had no standing and that their appeal shouldn't be heard.)

* * *

Change of Heart Rumored

Aside from the long delay on the opinion, there is "evidence" that an original dissenting opinion was such as to cause a change. The concurring opinion of Brandeis, Stone, Cardozo, and Roberts, agreeing as to constitutionality, bore evidence that some of it had once been part of a dissenting opinion.

Emphasis by Brandeis, who delivered it, on historical evidence that in earlier years the court had been loath to declare acts of Congress unconstitutional seemed to indicate a presupposition that the majority had declared an act unconstitutional in this case.

In the subsequent legal gossip, Hughes has been given credit for "seeing the light" and persuading Sutherland, Butler, and VanDevanter to go along with him.

Motivating Hughes, authorities on the court suggest, must have been a dissenting opinion little short of hair-raising. For some time the liberal Brandeis-Stone-Cardozo minority has been increasingly plain-spoken in accusing the majority of bad faith and disregard of precedent and traditional principle.

The theory is that the "minority's opinion reached a new climax which would publicly have split the court wide open, by showing that the majority was flying in the face of precedent for 50 years back.

* * *

Possible Influences Cited

High up in the administration it is believed that certain external facts also finally influenced the court:

1—The definite romantic popularity of TVA, including common belief in its reasonableness, and the fact that to ruin it would be even more unpopular than the decision against AAA.

2—The storm over the AAA and the danger to the court's prestige inherent in cumulative effect of a series of opinions arousing mass resentment.

3—Obvious intention of the administration to make use of 6-3 and 5-4 divisions of the court to charge lack of infallibility.

4—The attack on the AAA decision by Senator George W. Norris.

* * *

Perhaps They Wrangle

Such explanations cannot be taken as gospel, and the court guards its secrets well. But enough justices have whispered to their secretaries in time past to make it plain that the court sometimes fights and wrangles like a legislative body and that a majority opinion may be drafted ten or a dozen times before it is enunciated from the bench.

New Dealers feel rather good about the decision, though realizing that a court majority may soon show in another case that the decision was a narrow one indeed.

Politically, the visible effect you can expect is a soft-pedalling of criticism by members of the administration itself—such as Secretaries Ickes and Wallace—but a continuance of attack from pro-administration senators whose words likely will have the administration's secret approbation.

Will Select Person For National Radio Program in Contest

Local Theater to Sponsor Another Amateur Contest Beginning Saturday

Meeting a popular demand, Manager Max Tschauder announced yesterday that all arrangements have been completed with Ray Perkins, master of ceremonies of the Feenamint National Amateur night program over the Mutual Broadcasting company stations, to broadcast the best amateur program to be selected by the local theater management.

The contest to select a person to appear on the amateur program will begin this Saturday night and continue for six weeks, and the winners during the first six weeks will appear again on the seventh week to determine the person who shall receive the free all-expense trip to New York.

The local amateur program, sponsored by eight businessmen and the Jacksonville Bus Lines, recently sent Devere Brockhouse to New York for a trial on the air. His success was such that Mr. Perkins readily agreed to accept another candidate from Jacksonville for his Sunday night broadcasts.

Mr. Tschauder will begin auditions tonight to select the talent for the local programs, and expects to have between 15 and 18 entirely new acts to present during the contest. The manager is receiving applications for this new series at his office in the Fox Illinois theater.

The contest is open to all amateur performers living in and around Jacksonville. No other theaters will send talent here for this series of try-outs.

Sunday Thaw Ends River Traffic On Ice Near Glasgow

Fear Flood Near Hillview District; Two Funerals Monday

Glasgow, Ill.—Automobile and wagon traffic across the ice in the Illinois river, five miles west of here at Montezuma, was discontinued Sunday. Warm weather for the past two days has made the ice dangerous to travel, and if the warm weather continues for a few more days it will start breaking up. Vehicular traffic has been using the ice to cross over to Pike county for the past two weeks, thus eliminating a trip of several miles around through Florence.

Fear has been expressed by the residents of the river bottoms of the danger of floods this spring, if the ice and snow melts too quickly. High levees guard the Hillview drainage district, west of town, and no danger is imminent unless an unseen break occurs.

Brockhouse Will Not Be Candidate For Legislature

Hugh Green Only Candidate from Morgan County in Legislative Race

State Representative Warren Brockhouse, Morgan county's Democratic representative in the legislature, will not be a candidate for that position in the April primaries. Midnight Monday night was the last hour for filing petitions with the Secretary of State in Springfield, and Brockhouse's petition was not among those entered.

It has been understood for some time that Mr. Brockhouse would not be a candidate for reelection, but would devote his entire time to organization work in this county. He is chairman of the Morgan County Democratic Central committee.

Representative Hugh Green, Republican of this city, filed his petition for renomination some time ago.

Former Representative David Evans of Loami, Democrat, entered the primary race Monday as did Andrew O'Neill, Springfield. The third Democratic entrant for the legislature was Donald R. Christy, Springfield. Other Democrats in the primary race are J. Earl Bell, Rochester; J. P. Kessinger and Attorney Leslie G. Pefferle, Springfield.

L. R. Lawson of Springfield has filed as a Republican candidate for the legislature. Others in the contest are Representative Hugh Green, Jacksonville, and Representative William J. Lawler, Springfield; Frank A. Bridge, Robinson Bennett, Springfield, and John W. Johnson, Riverton.

Russian Imperial Singers Have Seen Tragedies, Success

Fought in Wars of Their Country and Emerged to Win Acclaim

The Russian Imperial Singers who will present a program this evening as a number on the Community Concert series, to be given at the High School auditorium, are making their first tour of the United States.

Each has had an eventful career in the various parts of the world to which they wandered after leaving Russia. The five artists were ultimately drawn together by the desire to present the "Heartfelt" songs of their native country.

Michael Dido, first tenor, born in a little town in Odessa, inherited his musical talent from his father, a priest whose voice had made his church famous. When the revolution came he was a lieutenant in the White Army. Escaping to Constantinople, he continued his musical studies there and became leading tenor with the "Chauve Souris."

Demetre Criona, second tenor, was born in Odessa of Greek parents. He began a successful career with a debut at the Odessa Municipal Theatre. Leaving Russia for Greece, he became a popular figure in the opera houses of Athens, Saloniki and Smyrna.

Stephen Siepoushkin, baritone, was born in the Ural mountains. He served as captain in the war on the Caucasian, German and Austrian fronts, receiving thirty wounds and four medals for bravery. When the revolution broke he retreated through Russia to western China. With fifteen others, he started on horseback east, riding for five months. He survived the terrible privations and stayed for a time in China, and later joined the famous Moscow musical studio.

Andrew Grigorieff, basso, was born in Moscow, came to the United States as a member of the Russian chorus to the Russian Cathedral in New York. He was chosen from thousands of singers.

Ierinarh Zragewsky, basso-profundo, has one of the rarest voices of his kind in the world, even in Russia, where bassos and violinists are many. His range is extraordinary, covering three octaves down to G below the bass clef.

Their program will be stirring, filled with enthusiasm for the native land.

Waverly Turns Back I.S.D. 33 to 24 as Newberry Gets Back in Line-up For Finish

Waverly, Feb. 25.—Waverly high school basketball players took a double edged victory from Illinois School for the Deaf here tonight when Don Newberry returned to the line-up to lead his team to a 33 to 24 victory over the I. S. D. regulars, and the Waverly seconds nosed out the Tiger reserves in the curtain raiser 17-16.

Newberry, out of the line-up last week, jumped back into competition tonight with a barrage of 12 points as the Tigers failed to hit the form they showed last Saturday night.

Only once, at the outset, did the Tigers show any of the speed that they turned on against Missouri School for the Deaf. Their speed, however, diminished as the Waverly lads whipped up their tempo five points in the first quarter to eight in the second period.

None of the Tigers was effective against the Waverly zone defense, but Otten jumped into the scoring lead by hooking in five free throws and a couple fielders for nine points.

Waverly watched the Tigers pile up a 6-5 lead in the first quarter, and then whipped past them for a 13-9 margin at the end of the first half. They put on another burst of scoring to take a 21 to 13 lead in the third quarter, and then put the game on ice in a free scoring fourth quarter.

The game wound up the season for both I. S. D. and Waverly until the regional tournaments get underway in another week.

Setting Up in a Beautiful Setting

Fleecy clouds, wafted over Puerto Rico by a warm breeze from southern seas, form a pleasant setting for the Cincinnati Reds as they indulge in setting-up exercises during their first 1936 workout. American Horses To Visit England

London, Feb. 25.—(AP)—American sportsmen will go after the English turf's big "Double"—the Grand National and Ascot Gold Cup—with two of the finest thoroughbreds ever to cross the Atlantic.

Whether they will succeed, where others have failed, is a much debated question in English sporting circles as William Woodward's Omaha prepares at Newmarket for the Gold Cup and Alvin Nntermeyer's Bagatelle 2nd steps up his trials in preparation for the Grand National at Aintree March 27. The Gold Cup will be run in June at Royal Ascot.

Omaha, rated one of the strongest challengers ever sent to the English turf by the United States, is considered a good bet for the coveted Ascot cup but Bagatelle is given only an outside chance of giving American sportsmen their fourth victory in the Grand National.

In rating Omaha among the contenders for the Gold Cup, race experts point out that the calibre of English horses is below the standard. They also point out, however, that against Omaha's chances of success is the fact that American horses have frequently failed to duplicate home form on English tracks.

Bagatelle's task appears much more difficult. He has yet to run on a course as trying as Aintree with its 30 jumps scattered over four and one-half miles. He will be asked to meet two former winners, Golden Miller and Reynoldstown.

After Bagatelle's race in the Cranford Steeplechase at Kempton Park, sports writers agreed the American-bred jumper was a good-looking animal and should do well later when in better trim. They refused to rate him as a serious contender for the Aintree race, however.

Rubio, victor in 1908, was the only American-bred horse ever to win the race. American-owned horses have won three times, however. Stephn (Laddie) Sanford's Sergeant Murphy came through in 1923; A. C. Schwartz' won in 1926 with Jack Horner and Kellsboro Jack carried Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's silks to the front in 1933.

District tournament championship hopes will flare in the hearts of many basketball players tonight, some of them hoping for the sensational victory, others hoping that they can win, while others are eyeing their rivals with just suspicion as they look down from more impressive season's records.

Two games will inaugurate the first of the series of three tournaments in this part of the state which will name one of the 16 teams to compete in the state championship tournament to be held in Champaign in the middle of March, on three nearby courts, and three games will open the other district tournament hereabouts.

In Jacksonville, interest will be centered on the Illinois School for the Deaf court where eight teams, their eyes set on one of the three qualifying places for the regional tournament will battle it out. New Berlin and Alsey, from the opposite sides of the district, Virginia and Woodson, almost from opposite ends of the area, are matched for the first round games. Tomorrow night Bluffs and Pleasant Plains get into action in the opener, and Franklin and Chapin, a couple of rivals from way back, lock horns in the nightcap.

Dope, the old man who fixed up the pairings, will get a chance to see just how good he is before the firing is all over. Virginia went into a skid along about the time he made his pairings, and as a result, the Red-Heads, ranked about third in the district. Now they are sitting in the favorite's chair, with all of the teams in the district watching them. New Berlin hasn't had a very successful season to date, but the Pretzels, always tough, may give the Virginians something to worry about—if they can get by Alsey.

Alsey's team, composed largely of young and inexperienced players, has plenty of speed and a lot of good experience under its belt by this time. Woodson, Virginia's first foe, piled up a good record during the outdoor season, but lack of indoor quarters has curtailed their work to nothing more than practice games and warm up work.

The fireworks will break out the first night in Pike county, with a couple of Atlas teams coming together in the first game. New Canton and Baylis will meet in the second game, with the feature of the evening doped to be the Pleasant Hill-Kinderhook scrap. Pike county basketball warfare always is keen, but at the present rate of improvement, Pleasant Hill appears to have the district crown in its pocket if it plays basketball.

There may be a lot of fun at Jerseyville too, where Kane and Brighton open the fireworks, followed by Shipman and Kampsville. Dopesters have been pretty much at a loss to figure out this one.

Greenfield will enact the first chapter of what is expected to be a thrilling saga of the sport in its district tournament. Roodhouse probably will have some trouble with Scottville in the opener, but the Railroaders, noted for their ability on the short tournament haul, may suddenly hit their stride again and romp to an easy win. Greenfield should move up to the semi-finals by beating Patterson, but again that Greene county rivalry may produce something beside a lop-sided score.

R. L. McConnell, well known Manchester school man, and O. L. Krughoff, Carrollton high coach, will be the officials in charge of the Jacksonville district tournament.

J. Russell Shields, of Greenfield, and Dr. A. Blodgett, of Gillespie, are in charge at Jerseyville. Prof. Gellerman, of Carlinville, and Olin Stead, of Carrollton, are in charge at Greenfield, and Tom Greene and Ed Long, both of whom worked out of Quincy at one time, are the officials at Griggsville.

Nose Out Griggsville 27-26 To Wind Up Conference Season

Griggsville, Feb. 25.—G. Willard's only field goal, coming in the last four seconds of play, clinched the Northwestern division of the Illinois Valley basketbill championship here tonight, 27 to 26. Griggsville held a one point lead up until the final moments of the game.

Griggsville stepped into the lead in the second quarter, but the lead jockeyed back and forth through the first three periods. Griggsville forged a 24 to 21 lead at one time in the fourth period, but Pittsfield came up two points and then with four seconds to go, squeezed out the victory. Pittsfield seconds beat Griggsville 39 to 23.

Billy Evans Heads Red Sox Farm Gang

Outlines Plans for Coming Season for His Players

By BILL KING
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Boston—(AP)—The faucet that has poured almost four millions of dollars into the American League probably closed suddenly today following the appointment of Billy Evans, former Cleveland Indians general manager, as head of the Boston Red Sox farm system.

Evans, who has discovered on sand lots players as capable as those Owner Tom Yawkey has spent hundreds of thousands for, will expand the Red Sox' farming properties immediately. They now include only ownership of the Rocky Mount club in the Class B Piedmont League and working agreements with the Syracuse International League club and Little Rock and Memphis in the Southern Association.

Evans' appointment was announced by Yawkey's general-manager, Canny Eddie Collins, who hastened to explain that the Red Sox did not intend to copy the highly successful methods employed by the St. Louis Cardinals, operatives of baseball's so-called chain gang.

"We do not plan any extensive farm system, such as the St. Louis Cardinals operate," said Collins. "We want contacts and agreements with minor league teams. That is why Evans was sought for the position.

"I talked to him about it last Friday for the first time. He was in Cleveland, we, Tom Yawkey and I, met him in New York and came to an agreement there yesterday.

"We have felt that we could not continue paying prohibitive prices for new players and we decided that we would have to rely upon some reasonable methods of obtaining our replacements. We believe Evans is the man we want."

Evans, a sports writer before he started his baseball career as an umpire in the Ohio-Penn League 30 years ago, also will head the Red Sox scouting system. He is considered a master in that phase of the game for, when he headed the Cleveland club, he plucked such stars as Joe Vosmik, Earl Averill, Wes Ferrell and Dick Porter off sand lots.

Virginia Beats Beardstown to Claim Cass County Title

Virginia, Feb. 25.—Ailing and weakened by illness, Capt. Red Darland came out on the floor here tonight to lead Virginia high's Red-Heads to a stunning 22 to 21 victory over Beardstown with a last minute shot from the middle of the court, to give his school an undisputed claim to the Cass county championship.

For the second time this year the Red-Heads knocked off their highly touted and highly respected opponents, with Darland playing the solo hero role in place of the combination of Darland and Mullens that bumped off Beardstown in another of those Horatio Alger finishes when these two teams met before.

With Mullens, who tossed in the winning basket in the previous game, on the sick list so completely that he couldn't get into the game, and Darland sufficiently ill that it was not deemed wise to use him more than a few minutes, Coach Pop Mahan's boys dumbfounded Beardstown with a sizzling, bristling attack that notched a 17 to 15 lead at the end of the first half. Darland got into the game for a couple of minutes in the third period, but went back to the bench to rest until the final quarter was underway.

Virginia took a 20 to 16 lead at the end of the third period, but Beardstown began a scoring rally that sent them into the lead 20 to 19 with a little less than a minute to go when Darland cut loose with his title winning toss.

Virginia, which Wednesday night meets Woodson in the second game of the Jacksonville district tournament, has marked up victories over both Ashland and Chandlerville along with its double edged victory over Beardstown. On the strength of these victories, the Red-Heads are claiming the Cass county championship.

Bill Werber Likes To Play Hot Corner

By Dillon Graham
Associated Press Sports Writer

Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Third baseman Bill Werber said today he believes it would be a tactical blunder for Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox to shift him from the "hot corner."

Pausing in his insurance sales talk Bill said the Sox would be weakened if he were moved from third or shifted to the outfield.

He figures the infield should consist of Foxx, McNair, Cronin and Werber.

"If I'm moved, McNair likely would go to third and Melillo to second," he said. "I believe the infield would have more punch and aggressiveness with me in there instead of Melillo."

As to the outfield, Bill said a shift for him probably would result in Dusty Cooke being benched and he's too valuable a man for that.

"Manush seems slated for left field, Cramer for center and either Cooke, Almada, Graham or myself in right," he explained. "I think I can win the right field job from that group but I figure the team would be stronger if I'm at third and Cooke in right.

It may be Werber won't play either third or right field. In fact, he may not play at all for the Bostons.

There is a hitch—a matter of $1,000 in the salary talk between Bill and owner Tom Yawkey. If this difference isn't ironed out it may mean that Werber will be traded to another club.

Bill said he isn't going to the Sarasota training camp until he and Yawkey see eye-to-eye on the contract angle.

Ranked as one of the best third sackers in the league in 1934, Werber had a comparatively poor season in 1935 and, as a result, he and Yawkey can not come to an agreement on his worth.

Fan Breezes

By Ernest Savage

—o—

Dear Fan Breezes-

This year's Jacksonville high team brings back to my mind that team of 1922, composed of "Chief" Hunt, (now deceased) Capt. Al "Blackeye" Arter, "Ikey" Hunter, "Gob" Goebel and Johnny Putnam. That was a team of clean, clever, hard playing pals.

Why do I call them pals—two words "No Individuality." Those fellows loved to play basketball for the sport of it—and I honestly believe no write ups about them could make them swell-headed.

In checking over the score sheets of the 1935-36 team it looks like the shades of 1921-22—speed, cleverness, and the greatest of all—team-work and team spirit.

A little explanation of the monicker "Blackeye" attached to Arter's name. In each of two or three consecutive games Arter received one black eye. Then came one game and he received none—the spell had been broken, done away with. Then Presto—in the next game he received two, thereby the monicker "Blackeye."

Now to return to teams. I would like to see some teams sent in by other ex's. The high school has had basketball teams for years, some good and some bad. I'll pick the 1921-22 team, named above, as the greatest to ever defend the Red and White. Two losses in a season—one to Springfield and the other in a sectional tournament after winning the district title.

Can any of you fellows down there recall teams on which Jay Rodgers, Ed Tomlinson, Towle and others played? I'd like to see a gang of answers in this column.

Yeah, Bud, and you aren't the only one who would welcome some contributions along this line. Or along any line.

Just for your own information—we might mention the nicknames of this year's Crimson team. Bob Hamm is "Hammie"; Albyn Ketner is "Alb", Alfred Hamilton is "Big George," Elmer Lukeman is "Lukey" which some of the other boys have changed to "Luckey"; George Moxon is just George, and John Bellatti is "Joss," but why we don't know—maybe it has some Indian influence.

—o—

Chandlerville is expecting to win the Browning district tournament, and they have hopes of stepping itno the limelight at Beardstown by knocking down either the home team or Rushville.

—o—

All the teams up in the Beardstown regional are gunning for Bob Wixom's boys. Rushville has been romping around without much trouble this year, and the coaches and players are unanimous in agreeing, with a little smile, that Rushville is a bit cocky. The smile indicates that they believe Rushville has something about which it can be cocky.

—o—

Like Eddie Markel at Waverly, who has vowed to beat White Hall in the regional at Greenfield, Coach Traughber at Ashland has said that he is pretty much convinced his Panthers will tumble the Rushville lads when they meef in the tournament. Ashland has just begun to click, and should hit the top of its form about the time the tournament rolls around.

—o—

Coach S. Robey Burns was busy portioning up the time for practices to the teams which will begin performing here tonight in the district tournament during the past week.

—o—

Three teams, two of which will play here, were on the court last night. Jacksonville high and Routt held a supper hour scrimmage session, and Chapin followed them on the court.

—o—

Woodson has been up to try out the boards a couple times and both Murrayville and Franklin have played there once during the past season.

—o—

Burns was unable to accompany his Tigers down to Waverly last night because of the pressure of last minute tournament arrangements. He called his class in printing together for a night session in order to get out the programs, slowed up because eligibility lists and other data was slow in arriving.

—o—

The program is going to be dedicated to Dr. James Naismith, inventor of the game.

—o—

Burns has also had printed up a large number of slips to be handed out to each of the coaches as they get ready to send their teams into a game. The coaches are to write their instructions on the slip so that no errors in substituting will be made.

—o—

Coach C. O. McMullen, at Chandlerville, isn't just sure, but he believes he might have missed tying a ball game the other night at Forest City, where his boys lost a one point decision. He believes the scorers failed to record a free throw made in the dying moments of the game.

—o—

Their failure to do so, however, he takes as part of his burden. In the last 31 seconds of the game Chandlerville scored seven points. In those last 31 seconds, Chandlerville made eight substitutions. There wasn't a held ball, a basket made, or an out bounds play allowed to go by without a Chandlerville substitute racing out from the scorer's bench

Cash Relief Will Go Into Effect in This County on March 1

Relief Commission Makes Ready for New Form of Administration

In accordance with instructions received from the central office of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, the Morgan County Emergency Relief Committee will put into effect cash relief in this county, March 1. The chairman of the committee, Mrs. Marian C. Bellatti; the administrator, Mrs. Tillie Jane Kelly and the accounting supervisor, C. W. Ingram, have received these instructions at a series of meetings held at Springfield and at E. St. Louis, along with other counties in this vicinity.

The procedure sets forth the preparation of schedule and payrolls within the county office for checks to be drawn by the State Finance Department in its Chicago office. The checks will be returned to the county for distribution. Certain families will receive a check twice a month for their budgeted needs. Others, mainly welfare cases, will receive a monthly check. Signature cards and award letters are being mailed to the individual clients to be returned at once with signatures attached in order that these may be on file before the receiving of the checks. No check will be given any client until both the signature card and the award letter are on file in the local office.

All of the procedures have been set up in accordance with the rules and regulations of the State Finance Department, worked out to meet the regular accounting procedures of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission.

The reason for cash relief in downstate counties is to facilitate the closing out of the commission's business by April 30, 1936.

Bitter Winter Fails to Slow Grand Coulee Dam

While the shivering and snow-capped heights above the Columbia's river bed look down on them, workmen pour concrete into steam-heated workings of the rising Grand Coulee dam. The canvas cover at lower right with steam leaking out from it protects a new pouring from freezing before it sets. Irrigation, navigation, power production are all to be promoted by completion of the dam, the builders of which have felt a spur in the U. S. Supreme Court's interpretation of the TVA case.

"Otto! It GOES!"

We judge that Binnie Barnes and that other star of the screen, Otto Kruger, hadn't realized before what a difference it makes when a car is fueled with Standard's new fast-starting gasoline.

SHOW this picture to anyone who has been using Standard's new winter gasoline and he'll tell you it's not so far-fetched, at that. Chances are he'll say, "It starts my car in zero weather as quickly as in summer!" And that's the story! Standard Red Crown is the fastest-starting gasoline in Standard Oil history—actually 35% faster in warming up a zero cold motor, too. That means money saving because you'll not be choke-wasting your gasoline. If starting your car still seems like a major operation on a cold day—if it gets under way like a balky turtle—take on a tankful of this new Standard Red Crown and SEE WHAT HAPPENS next time you step on the starter. Sold by Standard Oil Stations and Dealers everywhere, at the price of "regular" gasoline.

Also—SOLITE with Ethyl, Standard's superlative new high-anti-knock gasoline—slightly higher in price, and worth it! Ask the Servicemen.

Brooks May Gain If H. W. Caldwell Petition Invalid

Camps Of Other Candidates Decline Comment Until Facts Obtained

Chicago, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Discovery that the nominating petitions of H. Wallace Caldwell as a Republican candidate for governor did not bear the required signature and seal of a notary public raised conjecture among politicians here tonight as to Caldwell's status in the race.

Camps of other candidates for governor declined to comment until they obtained additional facts about the discovery made at Springfield today.

They agreed, however, that should Caldwell's petition eventually be declared invalid, it would react to the political benefit of C. Wayland Brooks, the only other Cook county candidate in the G. O. P. gubernatorial primary.

Eden T. Brekke, Caldwell's Cook county manager, expressed surprise at the information from Springfield. The Chicago Tribune said Caldwell, reached at Harrisburg, declined to discuss the situation until he had ascertained the facts.

He was quoted as saying he signed the petition on Friday, started on his downstate tour next day and the petition was filed Monday.

He was quoted also as declining to fix responsibility for the absence of the attestation, or to discuss his possible attitude toward other candidates should his own petition be declared invalid.

Ickes Asks Power Companies to Be Gracious; Act Now

Wants Contemplated Appeals to Be Made Quickly So Work Can Go Ahead

Washington —(AP)— Secretary Ickes appealed to power companies today either to permit the public works administration to proceed with its municipal power projects or to be "gracious" enough to appeal immediately a circuit court victory for PWA to the supreme court.

With more than 50 other PWA municipal power allotments tied up by injunctions, the PWA administrator said that "if any time is lost" by the Duke Power Co., in filing an appeal from the fourth circuit court of appeals decision dissolving an injunction against a $3,000,000 allotment to Greenwood, S. C., "the power companies will lay themselves open to the charge of deliberately delaying our program."

Ickes said the circuit court decision "sustained us all along the line."

Victories Claimed By Ethiopians on Their North Front

Rome Opposes 5-Power Pact Engineered by British; Sends Out Note

Addis Ababa —(AP)— A government communique said today 668 Italians were killed in two Ethiopian victories on the northern front.

The communique announced confirmation of a raid by Ras Imru's forces near the Holy City of Aksum, reporting 412 Italians were killed in that engagement.

"On the same day, Feb. 12, another detachment surprised an important enemy column at Damot Guellila, near Aduwa, which fled, leaving 256 dead and a large store of munitions.

Rome—(AP)—The Italo-British controversy over England's formation of a Mediterranean naval accord arose anew today with presentation of another Italian note to London, reiterating the Fascist protest against the five-power pact.

Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador to Britain, handed the note to the London foreign office, it was announced here, asserting Italy maintained its viewpoint against the accord despite the British note of Feb. 14, seeking to cut short the correspondence.

Premier Mussolini's government persisted in its attitude that Britain's action in lining up France, Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia against any unprovoked Mediterranean attack was a personal action, therefore done outside the League of Nations and not in conformity with the league.

Orators From China and Japan Plead for Better Understanding of East

The complicated Sino-Japanese question was dramatically presented to an attentive Far Eastern Institute audience here yesterday morning, as Dr. No-Yong Park, genial and brilliant Chinese scholar, and Dr. Ytaka Minakuchi, forceful and earnest Japanese student of far eastern affairs, each lectured on the problem from the points of view of their respective nationalities.

They agreed in a plea that the American people give more study to the orient, because of the increasing importance of far eastern affairs.

Dr. Park emphasized the necessity for study because of his claim that the white man is retreating from the east and will soon be confined to his own back yard. Dr. Minakuchi asked for a more sincere effort of western students to understand the Japanese people and their aims in the orient.

Chinese Speaks First

Dr. Park, the first speaker, was introduced by Alfred C. Crawford of Chicago, MacMurray college trustee. In opening his address Dr. Park quoted from Theodore Roosevelt, John Hay, Henry L. Stinson and other American statesmen to emphasize his declaration that the shores of the Pacific hold the key to future world affairs. He said in part:

"The white man began to retreat from the far east a hundred years ago. We are taught by history that racial tides comes and go. Only a few hundred years ago the yellow man dominated Europe. The white man's country was the Asiatic playground. Then the white man rose in self defense. He improved his weapons and organized into national states. He drove the oriental back and proceeded to subdue him, gaining a foothold in Asia. Then the western world opened the doors of Japan and started a modern nation in the orient. When Japan defeated Russia in 1904, the tide turned, and the retreat of the west from the east was on in earnest.

"There are three great pyramids of facts to note in the eastern world today: First, the collapse of the ancient Chinese empire. The days of the Manchus and Confucius are gone. The second group of facts centers around the rise of modern Japan, a rise that has been spectacular and looms large in oriental history. The third group of facts is concerned with the retreat of western powers from the east.

Japan Gets Busy

"Japan was forced to adopt modern weapons, western ideas of political organization and mass production. While the western world was at war, she was able to annex Shantung, secure possession of German colonies in Asia and take over part of Siberia. Her expansion was great, and Japanese warships even penetrated Mediterranean waters.

"But after the war western powers forced Japan to give up her territories and the Washington naval conference in 1921-22 had as its real purpose the limiting of the Japanese fleet. For ten years Japan's hands were tied, but when the west went into the depression, she was free. She struck once more at China, defied the League of Nations and took over Manchuria. Today she has gained North China, and all of China is practically a Japanese protectorate.

"The western powers did nothing because of a selfish and stupid attitude. France feared rebellion in her colony of Indo-China, where Japan might have stirred up a revolution. England feared trouble in India, which is seething with unrest. Thus Japan has been left free to dominate the orient.

"The western nations are retreating from the orient. Russia may not give up without a struggle. Britain and the Netherlands realize it is only a question of time until they will have to go, though it is doubtful if England could exist without India. Uncle Sam is liquidating his empire in the east; he is packing his trunk preparatory to going home.

"There are some who say China can absorb the Japanese, but I doubt it. The previous conquerors of China were eager to take in Chinese culture. They readily succumbed to the civilization they found, and they allowed the Chinese virtually to rule themselves. But the Japanese are not like that. They seek to impose their own culture, and to replace everything Chinese. The modern closely-knit system of government permits absolute control of the people by the conquering power. Within forty years Japan has absorbed Formosa, an island peopled by 4,000,000 Chinese, and has made the people thorely Japanese. Stretch the time into a couple of centuries, and she may do the same with China."

Minakuchi Speaks

Dr. C. P. McClelland next presented Dr. Minakuchi, who spoke in defense of Japan. He quoted a Hindoo savant as saying that some eighty years ago the United States said to the group of islands called Japan, "Let there be a nation." On these small islands there has risen a nation, which has been badly mistreated by the western world and most sadly misunderstood. The speaker said in part:

"The Japanese people are not warlike by nature. They have been forced to fight in self defense. After they had become a nation, their first war was with China in 1895. That war was undertaken because China was carrying on aggression in Korea. I am giving facts, gleaned not from the daily press, but from original sources of oriental history. I am basing my statements on the same sources that a student would use in preparing a thesis for a Ph. D.

"The Shino-Japanese war resulted in the ceding of a portion of South Manchuria to Japan. But scarcely had the treaty been signed, when Russia, France and Germany formed an alliance against Japan and forced her to give back to China the ceded territory. But Russia obtained concessions in South Manchuria, and between 1895 and 1904 European nations were busy getting Chinese concessions. China was unable to protect herself then, as she is now, and she showed the same incapacity.

Japan Forced to War

"Russian aggression in Manchuria forced Japan to go to war with her in 1904. Russia sought an outlet that would not be frozen four months in the year, and because she still wants such an outlet, Japan is afraid of her today. Japan has no love for Russian communism. Outer Mongolia is today a Russian protectorate.

"You laugh at Manchoukuo. In 1929 Japan had two billion yen invested in Manchuria. She was also dependent on the output of soybeans from that country. Manchurian farmers raised 5,000,000 tons of soybeans, which the war lords and the Manchurian government confiscated by compelling them to sell to the government in exchange for worthless paper notes. Do you think the Manchurian farmers were happy under such a system? Japan went into Manchuria to protect her interests and see that the immense crops of that region found their way into the channels of world trade.

"The Japanese people are nature lovers, landscape gardeners. They know the Orient, and from Japanese scholars today come most of the works of authority on Chinese culture. They are seeking understanding. They believe in sympathy rather than antipathy; they emphasize hospitality, and not hostility. They seek amity, not enmity throughout the Orient, where their only desire is for permanent peace and order."

Batz Funeral To Be Held Thursday

Services For Jacksonville Resident To Be At Lutheran Church

Funeral services for Mrs. William Batz, who passed away at her home here Monday night, will be held Thursday afternoon. Rites will be conducted at the Gillham Funeral Home at 2 o'clock, and at the Lutheran church here at 2:30 o'clock, in charge of Rev. J. G. Kuppler. Burial will be in Diamond Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Batz widow of the late William Batz, a prominent business man of this city, passed away Monday night after an illness of four weeks of pneumonia, but her immediate and sudden death was caused by a stroke which came as a great shock to her family, relatives and friends. During her illness she was tenderly cared for by her beloved daughter and everything that loving hands could do was done for her.

Mrs. Batz was highly esteemed by all who knew her and her death will bring sorrow to many friends.

She was born in Alleghany City, Pennsylvania, before her marriage being Miss Emma Louise Mayers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Mayers. As a child she came with her parents to Illinois, locating in Jacksonville, where she has been a resident practically all her life.

It was here also as a young woman she met William Batz with whom she was united in marriage and who preceded her in death in the year 1929.

A daughter, Lillian, came to bless their home, binding the ties for nearly fifty years, when this happy circle was broken by the sudden call to that celestial home of the beloved husband and father seven years ago, Feb. 12. As the years rolled by mother and daughter became inseparable companions, sharing their joys and sorrows together.

The most tender affection ever existed between them and rare was the love and devotion manifested by them to each other.

Mrs. Batz was a woman of refinement and retiring disposition. She lived a quiet, unassuming and useful life, full of good works, always thinking of others. The beauty of her life, the strength of her fine character were expressed in her devotion to her interests through the home and her one object in life being the happiness and comfort of her loved ones.

In her earlier life the deceased united with the Salem Lutheran church, of which she was a faithful member for over fifty years, and during all these intervening years she lived in a manner consistent with the truest Christian ideals. She found comfort and consolation in her Bible and Prayer Book, which she read every day.

Mrs. Batz was a charter member of the Ladies' Aid Society and as long as her health permitted was a loyal and generous worker for many years. Her going away was peaceful as was her life and its influence. She will be sadly missed by those to whom she was so dear.

Those of her loved ones left to mourn for her are her devoted daughter Lillian Batz Stice, her son-in-law, Robert L. Stice, three sisters, Mrs. Frances A. Ricks, Jacksonville, Mrs. Albert Mayers, Salt Lake City, Utah, and Mrs. George E. Tiffany, Durango, Colorado; four nieces and five nephews. Her parents, one sister and one brother, preceded her in death.

The body was removed to the Gillham Funeral Home.

New Zone Lines to Be Drawn

Expert Witness States That No Confusion of Commerce Will Result in Adoption of Either of His Plans

NOTE TIME CHANGES

By JOHN W. LEAR
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Chicago—(AP)—Two proposals for extending the eastern standard time zone of the United States from Ohio to Chicago were offered to the Interstate Commerce Commission today by the state of Michigan.

WILL MOVE CLOCKS AHEAD

Chicago —(AP)— Within the next two months, it was revealed today, cities and villages within the Chicago area will move their clocks ahead on three distinct dates.

March 1, Chicago and 24 suburbs will adopt eastern standard time, in conformity with an ordinance passed by the city council.

On March 22, Waukegan will advance its clocks one hour—but only on the usual daylight savings schedule. By an 8 to 7 vote last night the city council decreed the advance in time should be made more than a month earlier than the usual date for such shifts.

Aurora, Joliet and Elgin plan to adopt daylight savings time on the regular date, April 26. City officials said it was unlikely they would maintain this schedule after the last Sunday in October.

The new zone lines were drawn by C. E. Elerick, Traffic Commissioner of the Grand Rapids, Mich., Association of Commerce, who was called as a witness in support of Chicago's petition for inclusion in the Eastern time zone.

The first line Elerick drew took in all of Ohio, the northern half of Indiana, all of Michigan, and part of Illinois. It started at Cincinnati, which now has eastern time, and followed the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad through Indianapolis and Crawfordsville to Danville, Ill. Thence along the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad past Kankakee to the Chicago, St. Paul and Pacific road at Peotone, and from there to Joliet and Chicago.

The second proposal would add less territory to the Eastern time zone. It began at Lima, Ohio, present Eastern time limit, and followed the Erie Railroad through Decatur, Huntington and Judson, Ind., to the "Chicago switching limits" of the railroads.

Elerick's proposals, given Michigan's official sanction by Assistant Attorney General E. A. Bilitzke, would have to be worked out in detail "with the assistance of the railroads," the witness said.

Report Completion Of House Program

Seek Additional Funds for National Forest Work

Washington—(AP)—Completion of a housing program involving treasury outlays of less than $100,000,000 the first year was disclosed today by Peter Grimm, assistant to Secretary Morgenthau.

He said the draft now awaited President Roosevelt's approval and forecast the legislative plan will be forwarded to capitol hill "soon."

The program has been represented as embracing long-range, low-cost housing and slum clearance through federal loans and grant to local communities.

An additional $25,000,000 for extension and development of national forests was sought today as the house called up the agricultural department's annual appropriation bill.

A group of midwest representatives, led by Claude V. Parsons, Golconda, Ill., Democrat, is seeking to amend the bill so as to provide the additional fund.

Shawnee and Illini national forests, both in the extreme southern part of Illinois, would be benefited by the proposed amendment. Parsons said the situation regarding these two was illustrative of that existing in many other parts of the country.

Mississippi River Ice Melting Slowly

East St. Louis, Ill.—(AP)—Ice which has locked the Mississippi river from bank to bank here began breaking up early today and floated slowly southward.

Major movements of ice were reported late yesterday at Chester, Ill., and at Cape Girardeau and Neely's Landing, Mo., while a slow movement was underway at Cairo, Ill.

Wesley Brown, 37, drowned near Wood River, Ill., when the ice broke as he tried to cross to the Missouri Shore, and a two-year-old girl broke through the ice and was drowned near Cape Girardeau.

The first break here, near Eads Bridge, was not attended by violent pressure such as occurred in earlier years when the river was frozen over.

By ROBERT P. HOWARD
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Springfield—(AP)— Little hope for major withdrawals was held today as politicians surveyed the crowded field for the April 14 primary, which now has a contest for every state-wide nomination.

As the deadline for filing nomination petitions was passed, the battle over the governorship continued to hold major interest for both parties.

Nine Republicans qualified as gubernatorial candidates. Only three men are in the Democratic race featuring Governor Horner's fight for a second term against the opposition of Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, backed by the Kelly-Nash organization.

Candidates have until 5 p. m. Saturday to withdraw, but Republican observers saw little prospect for a general movement to compose factional rivalry before the balloting.

Never under the present system of primary filings has the closing day rush been so great, said Chief Clerk Lewis Vogel.

"Dark horses" and unexpected entries from both parties helped increase to 79 the total filings in state-wide contests. The last minute jam was greater than usual as candidates for district office sought to get last place on the ballots by being the last to turn in their petitions.

James Hamilton Lewis, who had been given a clear track by all Democratic leaders, acquired two politically unknown opponents—Ruth R. McNamara of Chicago and C. H. Kavanagh of Wilmette.

A surprise entry was Barratt O'Hara of Chicago, lieutenant governor under Dunne 24 years ago, who was the third Democrat to come out for congressman-at-large.

Senator Thomas P. Gunning of Princeton was the ninth and last Republican to file for governor. H. Wallace Caldwell of Oak Park preceding him with a partial slate.

Wilentz Returning To Fight Reprieve

Objects to Effort to Further Aid Hauptmann

Trenton, N. J.—(AP)—The man who told the Flemington jury Bruno Richard Hauptmann "will be thawed out when he hears that swith" sped back to New Jersey today to make sure the convicted killer of the Lindbergh baby will not escape the chair.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz was scheduled to arrive from Florida late this afternoon to take from the shoulders of Hunterdon county prosecutor, Anthony M. Hauck Jr., the burden of replying to Governor Harold G. Hoffman's attack on two of the state's witnesses against Hauptmann.

Hauptmann is under sentence to die the week of March 30, but prosecution officials believe another reprieve may be granted unless they act quickly to forestall further attacks on the case they presented against Hauptmann.

Wilentz called the reprieve granted by the governor January 16 illegal and said at that time he would oppose another unless circumstances warrant.

He is expected to tell the governor the latter's attack on the integrity of the two state witnesses, Millard Whited and aged Amandus Hochmuth, is not grounded on fact.

Stock Prices Are Four Points Off

By Frank MacMillen
Associated Press Financial Writer

New York, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The most spectacular burst of selling in more than three months uncovered weakness in the stock market today and sent values down from 1 to 4 points.

The market for the greater part of the session rambled along in an irregular manner until shortly before the start of the final hour when the rush began.

Prices declined as the volume of trading increased to the point where the ticker tape was at one time 8 minutes later than actual transactions on the floor of the exchange, the greatest lag since Nov. 22, 1935.

Railroad securities appeared to have borne the brunt of the attack, and most of the well known carriers went down from 1 to 2 or more points including Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central, Pennsylvania and Union Pacific.

Utilities, which suffered most last week, stood up well and many confined losses to less than a point. A few, like American Water Works, advanced slightly on the day.

Motors varied in the degree of reduction with General Motors off a fraction and Chrysler more than 2 points.

Alcohols, Metals, including the Steels, and numerous industrial specialties were shaded for fractions to around 2 points.

High priced shares which declined 4 points or more included American Telephone, DuPont, Johns-Manville, Ruberoid and U. S. Gypsum.

But in the midst of the general selling, there appeared several strong points such as Eastman Kodak, Montgomery Ward, Sears, National Dairy, Fajardo and others up fractions to over 4 points.

Row Over Hagood's Removal Injurious To Party, Claimed

Higher-ups Silent on Move by President; Fight on Order is Promised

Washington —(AP)— The swift removal of Major General Johnson Hagood after he criticized New Deal work relief threatened today to become a major political issue.

Republicans accused the New Deal of a "reign of terror" while Democrats split on the order relieving the army's third ranking general officer from command at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., and sending him to his Charleston, S. C., home to "await orders."

High New Dealers were silent on the order, issued "by direction of the president." Some in the capital believed Hagood, who told a house subcommittee that WPA funds were "stage money" and that there would be "nothing permanent" to show for much of it, might be kept on the inactive list until he reaches retirement age of 64 next year.

Declaring that he would fight the war department "to a finish" for what he called an "infamous, dirty, damnable and inexcusable outrage," Representative Blanton (D., Tex.) demanded the impeachment of Secretary Dern, general Malin Craig, chief of staff, and assistant War Secretary Harry H. Woodring.

While army officers said Hagood's removal was "routine," Representative Lehlbach (R., N.J.) charged the general was a victim of "the reign of terror" because he "said something which might injure candidate Roosevelt."

But Representative Bankhead (D., Ala.), Democratic leader, said "a man in a non-political branch of the government ought to be very careful in statements he makes."

Wheat Prices Up Cent A Bushel

By John P. Boughan,
Associated Press Market Editor.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—(AP)—With the advent of the annual crop scare period uppermost as a market influence, wheat today made 1¼ cents a bushel maximum advance.

For the first time this season, the new crop months, July and September, became the market leaders. Dust-storm reports from winter wheat territory southwest, together with prospects of a sharp drop in temperature there, suggesting likelihood of crop damage, gave an incentive to speculative buyers, and so too did talk that legislation would be enacted to control spring wheat seeding in the northwest.

Wheat closed firm at the same as yesterday's finish to 1 cent higher, May 99¼-⅜, July 90-90¼, corn ⅛ off to ¼ up, May 60⅜, oats at ⅛ decline to ⅛ advance, and provisions carying from 17 cents setback to a rise of 2 cents.

News of a sub-zero wave in the northwest aroused particular uneasiness regarding ill effects on winter wheat should the cold suddenly penetrate the southwest after recent high temperatures. Under such circumstances, considerable buying of July and September deliveries was done against sales of May. A continued broad milling demand for cash wheat, however, had a steadying influence on May.

Cattle Trade Is Still Sluggish

Chicago, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The cattle trade continued sluggish today with prices at the lowest level in more than a year, although in late dealings demand for better grade fed steers and yearlings improved and sales for these were fully steady.

Common and medium cattle, however, ruled steady to weak with yesterday's late 50 cents downturn. Some offerings were selling off 75 cents for the week. The market was very dull and many were held over. The extreme top was $11, paid for well finished 1,253 pound averages, but few cattle sold above $9.

Hogs closed 15 to 25 cents lower, with spots off more, following a steady to 10 cents lower opening when the bulk of the run cleared. The early top was $10.40 but in late dealings the best price was $10.25. Receipts totaled 15,000.

Fat lambs were strong to 25 cents higher, the bulk selling 10 to 15 cents and more up at $10 to $10.15.

As Rescuers Snatched Sailors From Death's Jaws

What a young man's fancy turns to, in spring, is common knowledge. But to what, in winter, turn the thoughts of a charming young lady—such as Actress Bette Davis, above? Screen fame? Nope, she already has that. Ermine furs? Well, maybe. Anyway, whether you can figure out what's behind that pensive expression, time spent in studying it isn't wasted. Now, is it?

Married Couples in Class Anniversary Banquet At Church

Central Christian Church Group Enjoys Program at Ninth Annual Affair

The ninth anniversary banquet and program of the Married People's class of Central Christian church was held at the church Monday evening. There were 117 men and women present, of whom 47 couples were members of the class. Paul Knox, class president, had charge during the banquet hour. An excellent chicken dinner was served by the ladies of the Loyal Women's class.

An original program dealing with the history of the class, written by Mrs. Frank Walker, was read by Mr. Knox. The class was organized in 1927 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Hermann, with eight couples present. It now has an enrollment of seventy couples.

Short talks were made by Mr. Hermann and Mrs. M. L. Pontius. The banquet audience then adjourned to the church social rooms, where a program of entertainment was given.

Dr. M. L. Pontius made an interesting talk of his experiences on his recent trip to Florida. A program modeled after Major Bowes' Amateur Hour was then given, with Claude Gustine impersonating the major. Some excellent talent appeared on the program.

Original poem by Hobart Stephenson.

Accordian numbers—Marjorie Axe.

At this time Mrs. Pontius was presented with a bouquet of flowers and given recognition as a visitor to Major Bowes' studio.

The Old Fashioned Girl, songs—Mrs. D. L. Hardin. She sang "Old Fashioned Girl," "Where Are You Going My Pretty Maid," and whistled "The Mocking Bird."

Duet—Mrs. Virgil Gibbs and Roy McPherson.

Vocal solo—Paul Knox.

Ben Roodhouse played the part of Sam; D. L. Hardin the part of Ham, the two colored studio porters and entertained throughout the evening. Paul Knox and John Chapman as Zeke and Zed and Russell Saylor and Charles Fulton as Mush and [illegible] completed the sextette of comedians which kept the members in [illegible] during the evening. Clemens Dirksen acted as studio pianist during the entire program.

Members of the program committee were Rev. and Mrs. M. L. Pontius, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gustine, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Hermann, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Edge, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Gibbs.

by Dick Morgan © 1935 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JANE WESTON feels her dreams have come true when she sets out on a three weeks' ocean cruise, accepted in payment for the salary due her when the magazine for which she worked as typist suspended publication.

On board the ship she meets handsome DIRK STROM, expert ski jumper, as penniless as Jane. The trip was a gift to him from the parents of a child whose life he saved.

Dirk introduces Jane to his friend, SNOWSHOES, a detective. Others on board are: NORA LANE, famous actress and owner of the Kokinor diamond; wealthy eccentric MADAME DOREMUS; DUTCH LENZ and MANNIE JACKSON, blackmailers; TINO ROSSI, opera singer; KEN MARTIN and LINDA BAYES, floor show entertainers.

Dirk and Jane spend much of their time together. Then a misunderstanding comes between them.

Dirk meets Nora Lane and escorts her to a cabaret entertainment in which the ship's passengers are to take part. Miss Lane appears on the program but Tino Rossi, with Jane, refuses to sing. Later Dirk overhears a romantic scene between Jane and Tino.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

JANE did not go directly to the bar. She went to her stateroom to repair imaginary ravages to her face and hair, and Tino waited for her outside in the passageway. She glanced in the mirror, and stood back in wonder. Her face had a radiance it had never owned before.

For a moment her thoughts drifted back to the chill fall winds in the city, back to her jobless state. But she banished these now, as easily as she powdered a shiny spot off her nose.

Tino didn't seem impatient when she came out to join him. Together they made their way into the Venetian Room.

Last night she had made a spectacular entry into this room, alone, after her quarrel with Dirk Strom. But tonight she felt keenly this moment of personal triumph. The heady wine of Tino's flattery and his flowery words had gone to her head!

They stopped at the bar, and Jane sat on a high stool where her reddish head glistened under the lights. At her side Tino made a distinguished appearance.

To Jane it seemed that everyone had merely come on from the ballroom to the bar. Looking about the room she saw Dirk seated with Nora Lane and the detective at a corner table. They seemed quiet, subdued.

Dirk bowed to her slightly, and she nodded in return. It was the first friendly exchange they had passed since their quarrel last night.

• • •

DIRK had turned to Nora Lane again. He was afraid the actress had been aware of his distraction over the newcomers in the bar.

But Miss Lane was busily engaged in talk with Snowshoes.

Snowshoes asked her about the Kokinor diamond and she smiled. At the same time she let a hand slip to her throat where the Kokinor usually nestled, and she seemed almost surprised not to discover it there. Dirk saw her flush.

"I was so distracted I forgot to wear it tonight," she said.

"I'd feel better," Snowshoes said, "if you'd hand it over to the ship's purser for the rest of this cruise."

Her returning smile was one of sincere gratitude. "It's nice to have you both think about my welfare. I have two friends on board," she said happily. "Tell me more about that fantastic numbers racket. I think that is the worst one of them all."

"If there were a few more indignant persons we could do something about it. But we Americans, since the Spanish-American War, seem to have lost the power of getting indignant over anything."

"It's outrageous!" the actress added.

"We haven't outsmarted the mobs yet. The numbers racket gets the little change, and now the jewel thieves are organized to take care of our new zeal for hoarding precious jewels. You might be interested to know how carefully they work the whole country. A diamond merchant was forced off the road outside a small Mississippi town last week. They found his riddled body in a ditch. The haul in diamonds was forty thousand dollars. The old-time diamond salesman, amiable cuss, carried them around in a leather wallet, just as Diamond Jim Brady did. But that's all changed in the last six months. Jewel salesmen make the rounds in armored cars. Women won't wear their jewels outside the house. You'd think precious stones had become the only medium of exchange."

"To get at the jewels which belong to the Sultan of Hyderabad," Dirk put in, smiling, "you would have to pass through dens of cobras, saber-toothed tigers and fire."

• • •

SNOWSHOES scoffed. "One of our monocled jewel thieves would charm the cobras, make the tigers purr like pussy cats and put out the fire. They'd get the diamonds if they found the cave. They're clever."

"And you think we have them with us on this cruise?" Nora Lane smiled at him, as one always smiles at a man's pet alarm.

"Never can tell. You see them in Paris. You see them in Amsterdam. You see them most frequently in de luxe resort hotels, where the rich congregate and wear their jewels. I've seen hundreds of them in my career as a hotel detective. We caught one with the goods at Lake Placid last winter. He was posing as a Belgian count. He wormed his way into everybody's confidence, and on the night of the Carnival ball at the Lake Placid Club, when guests were in fancy costume and naturally did not wear their jewels, 50 people were robbed. A housemaid caught him in the fifty-first room and locked him in. When he tried to escape from a window he fell and broke his arm. We caught him."

Nora Lane said, "I will be more careful with my diamonds in the future. I didn't know jewel thieves were so prevalent. Why, a few years ago, you couldn't sell a diamond! They were drugs on the market."

"But not any more. People are jittery about gold and silver money today—unsettled conditions. Nothing seems safe to some people but a store of precious jewels."

"Persons in the public eyes are more subject to attack than others," the actress advised. "They are publicized. Everybody knows their personal habits, where they lived and alas! where they travel. I must admit I was rather unnerved by that photographer on deck this afternoon."

"You had a right to be!" Snowshoes put in. "Since the snatch racket fell under G-men blows, blackmailing has got its nose under the wire. Every yegg that thinks he has something on another person tries to put on the squeeze."

"I've been subject to extortion threats for a long time. My name is in the papers too much. This person—Mannie Jackson, as you call him—may have meant no harm. But I suppose I've become a little jittery on the subject. My nerves—"

Snowshoes said laughingly, "You need a bodyguard, Miss Lane!"

Nora Lane looked at him and without hesitation said, "You're hired!"

Snowshoes laughed out loud. "No, no!" he said. "I'm on my first vacation in 20 years. I was only joking—"

• • •

SHE seemed terribly in earnest, and Dirk decided to take her side. At the thought of protection she seemed to be happier.

"I'd like to see you undertake that job, Snowshoes," Dirk said. "Really, I'm a little afraid about Miss Lane's safety myself. Maybe I've got the jitters, too, but—"

"Oh, please, do!" she added. "I'm sure you wouldn't leave me with this feeling now. I do believe I am in danger. Every instinct in me warns—"

Snowshoes was weakening. He was old-fashioned enough to be moved by the thought of a lady in distress. "I'm not getting any rest, anyway," he said. "Gamblers. Tough-looking customers all around."

Dirk laughed heartily.

"I am a woman of experience," Nora Lane went on. "I've had a bodyguard before, and I am prepared to discuss the business end of it. I would be grateful to you if you'd undertake the job, and I'd like to quote your fee—three hundred dollars for the duration of this cruise."

Snowshoes waved a hand, as if he hadn't expected to be paid for anything, but Miss Lane was insistent. "On no other terms," she said firmly.

"If I take the job," Snowshoes said tentatively, "the first thing we'll do is to go straight to Suite AA and get the Kokinor diamond. We'll take it to the purser to be locked up in the ship's safe for the remainder of this cruise."

He admonished her gently, smiling. "You ought never to leave a jewel like that locked up in a room, hotel, private or stateroom. I can take care of any blackmail or extortion threats. All right, let's go."

Nora Lane stood up. Already the harrassed look on her face seemed to have faded away. She was no longer tense. She felt safe in his hands.

She looked at Dirk, and said, "I hope you'll forgive me for wanting to retire. I've enjoyed the evening so much, and don't let me spoil your fun. I know you'll want to stay in the bar. Goodnight," she said, and gave him her hand.

As Nora Lane and the detective went out of the bar, Dirk crossed the room toward Jane. He approached her smiling, wondering what kind of reception he'd get at her hands tonight.

Japan Has Designs on China, Says Miss Long in MacMurray Address

"When you deal in 'futures' whether it be in prophecies or commodities, there is always a credit liability" declared Miss Alves Long, in her address at MacMurray College Institute yesterday morning. "In my topic 'The Future of the Open Door in China,' I might deal in either iridescent dreams, or dull pessimism. Rather I shall attempt instead to show just what is going on at the present time in the Far East, and allow you to draw your own conclusions."

Miss Long, a resident of St. Louis, a graduate of the University of Chicago, has been active in the Federation of Woman's clubs and the Association of American University Women. She is now chairman of the International Relations Department of the General Federation of Woman's clubs.

Dr. C. P. McClelland opened the morning session of the institute on "Problems of the Pacific" and presented Mrs. Clairance Skeel, president of the district of Woman's Federation clubs, who introduced the speaker. Mrs. Skeel told of the wide experience in travel and study which gave to Miss Long outstanding knowledge of international problems. Miss Long was a member of the first American Round Table in Washington on the Cause and Cure of War. She represented the Association of University Women in Amsterdam at the Peace conference. She was present at the Geneva conference and also attended the meeting of nations when Germany entered the league.

The speaker met the keen interest of the large audience with a clear and unusually fine presentation of the foreign situation.

Three Foreign Policies

In developing the policies maintained by the nations in the Far East, the speaker said in part:

"The open door is one of our three major policies. The other two are: First, what is known as our policy of isolation—to avoid European entanglements; the second, the Monroe Doctrine—in substance, a warning to Europe that it was to keep a hands-off policy in this hemisphere.

In view of the fact that Japan has proclaimed what is called the Japanese Monroe Doctrine, it seems pertinent to examine our Monroe Doctrine. In the beginning this was sort of a Big Brother attitude, pleasing enough to the newly established republics. Neither we nor they imagined at that time the lengths to which this country might go in the interpretation of that doctrine; nor that what seemed at first to be protection from the European aggressor, would appear later to seem more like oppression and aggression on our part.

"As our business men acquired property rights in these countries—oil mines, bonds, and land—they demanded from home government protection of these rights, which was given in many cases and in different forms. We supervised elections, refused recognition to some governments, took control of banks, landed American marines. This is a chapter in American history which we prefer to forget. Let us bear all the facts in mind when we come to consider the Japanese Monroe.

Open Door Policy

"Our open door policy received its formal christening fifty years ago when a Yankee captain made good his trade rights and secured 'equality of opportunity.' Japan in 1911 led off with the same policy and rid herself of all foreign domination and was on an equal footing with other powers.

"With China the case has been different. The other nations continued to acquire new rights, often through war; the United States acquired them at the same time without lifting a finger. However, a new situation began to arise which threatened to put an end to this pleasant business. Towards the close of the 19th century the encroachments of the powers threatened the dismemberment of China. John Hay perceived that to maintain the traditional American policy of equal opportunity and rights the integrity of China must be preserved. The powers unable to agree after the Boxer revolution accepted the policy laid down by Hay and since then the United States has recognized that the keystone of the open door policy was the integrity of China and has constituted herself the watch dog of the Far East to prevent anything that looks like dismemberment of China.

Sees Breakers Ahead

"As to the future of the open door policy it takes no prophet to see that there are breakers ahead; for the integrity of China is being assaulted. The area is enormous. Including Mongolia it exceeds 4,000,000 square miles. It is as big as the whole of Europe and European Russia. Twice as big as India and a third bigger than the United States.

"There have been many party splits in government. The foreign policy association suffered after the death of Kuomintang or leader of the Nationalists. Then issued in 1925, the leader Chiang-Kai-Shek, whose government had headquarters at Nanking. There are many rivals in the country. Many pacts, including the 4 Power, 5 Power, and 9 Power Pacts have resulted.

"In 1931 Japan walked away from all pacts and set up a puppet state in Manchoukuo. Almost in one swoop Manchuria was wrested from Chinese control and put under the domination of Japan, who guilelessly asserted that Manchoukuo was an autonomous state, and not by any means Japanese. To continue Japan's encroachments, in 1933 Japan conducted a military expedition south of the great wall, which was terminated by the truce of Tanku, the terms of which have not been published. They have control over caravan routes and railroads and Japan has made it clear that she wishes to control Outer Mongolia as a buffer state between herself and Russia.

Japan Wants China

"It is evident that Japan intends to conquer China. She has not yet thrown off the mask completely. The situation is this. Russia if unopposed will take over Outer Mongolia; England is extending her influence in Inner Thibet, and France is stretching covetous hands toward Yunnan.

"China cannot protect herself. The students might start a counter attack but that would be costly. The nations would all enter a war for the country which they are persuaded they should have. What about the League—Japan is dictating to it.

"There remains the United States. There is no doubt that this country is deeply concerned over Japan's attitude. War would be costly in money, in policies of government and in human life."

"Possibly we should wait for the foreign nations to solve their problems maybe as Kagawa says, 'through training they may grow to love one another and then they cannot fight each other'."

Tax Exemption Is Defeated By House 172-164

Similar Measure Passed By Senate Monday By 38 To 28 Vote

By Douglas B. Cornell
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The house gave the administration its second set-back of the session today—this time unexpected—by defeating 172 to 164 a bill to exempt from taxation national bank obligations held by the reconstruction corporation.

A similar measure was passed by the senate yesterday by a 38 to 28 vote. Both branches earlier had joined in overriding President Roosevelt's veto of cash bonus payment, but that reversal, in the house, at least, was conceded before congress opened.

Republicans and Democrats on the house banking committee threw unanimous support behind the tax exemption proposal, but foes assailed it as "pork-barel" legislation and "a step toward state socialism."

House leaders, lulled into confidence by a standing vote in which the bill was accepted, 111 to 89, attempted desperately to stem the tide when they saw that the subsequent rollcall was dangerously close. Representative Boland (D. Pa.), the majority whip, scurried through corridors and cloakrooms trying to turn out more votes, but his efforts failed.

(Approved by the administration and requested by the RFC, the bill would exempt from all taxation RFC holdings of preferred stock, notes and debentures of banks. It was proposed after the supreme court ruled recently that Maryland could tax such holdings).

The senate bill still could be called up in the house, but Democratic chieftains said they doubted such a procedure would be arranged and hinted the legislation might be considered "dead."

STREET CAR RAILS ARE BEING REMOVED

The large WPA force engaged in removal of street car tracks from Jacksonville streets renewed its activities yesterday morning after a several weeks' layoff due to sleet and ice. The men are working on West State street near Park street, and with the arrival of warm weather should make rapid progress east to the square.

For a month the street car tracks have been buried under several inches of ice, and intense cold weather prevented activities. The matter of the city's title to the abandoned rails was settled during this time, and Jacksonville is now free to dispose of the rails.

The Hawaiian Islands are gradually pushing up out of the ocean and, within a generation, may form a territory as large as Japan, according to scientists.

Let Russia Solve Own Problems Says Speaker At MacMurray Institute

"The best thing Japan can do for herself is to let Russia alone; the best thing the World can do is permit Russia to work out her own problems," Dr. Maurice Hindus, a native Russian, told the MacMurray College Institute of Foreign Relations last night.

"Russia is imbued with the revolutionary spirit, the same spirit which gave England a constitutional government, France a republic and America its freedom. Russia is too busy to be warlike, but if attacked is ready to throw the largest army of the world into the conflict, backed by great natural resources," the speaker said.

He made a point-blank assertion that if Japan invades the land of the Soviet for any purpose, Japan will be beaten and beaten badly.

Smiling blandly, a few feet away from the speaker, sat Yutaka Minakuchi, Japanese, who earlier in the day gave the Institute his country's viewpoint of the outlook in the Far East. His face partly hidden by heavy spectacles, the Japanese displayed no emotions as Hindus painted a word picture of what might happen if the two countries went to war.

Dr. No-Yong-Park, Chinese, also at the speakers' table, listened attentively to the Russian side of the question. And the large American audience that heard the address represented still another power in the group of nations that have interests in the Pacific. International in setting and scope, the Institute devoted to discussions of Problems of the Pacific, closed with Mr. Hindus' brilliant presentation of the Russian angle.

Seven hundred men and women composed the audience that completely filled the MacMurray dining hall at the last session of the Institute. Groups were present from Springfield, Quincy and other cities.

Mr. Hindus was introduced by Attorney R. Allan Stevens of Springfield who presided as chairman of the evening. The chairman stated that Mr. Hindus is one of the foremost authorities on Russia, himself a Russian by birth. He is a graduate of Colgate, author of several books, and a student of world affairs. In 1923 Mr. Hindus visited and toured Russia for Century Magazine. He was born in Central Russia and came to the United States at the age of 14 years.

Must Know History

"To understand these people who are making momentous history, you must know them and something of their history," Mr. Hindus stated. "In America there are people who are proud of their revolutionary ancestry. If there had no been revolutions there would be no French Republic, no constitutional England and no United States. All of these countries owe their progress and development to effects of revolutions, bloody and brutal as they were.

"Russia's revolution in that large country showed a shocking amount of brutality. But there is one thing certain—Russia's revolution is pushing it forward, though sometimes in rivers of blood. The revolution has released untold energies which are improving the country.

"On first crossing the border what impresess me most is the almost unlimited activities. Russia is building, building, building. Most of these buildings are factories, cow barns and pig-stys, things that are developing the natural resources of the country.

"Siberia has been pictured as a land of barren wastes and of mountain ranges. In reality, Siberia has the finest resources in the world. Its soil is equal to that of America, it has vast timber resources and minerals. The Ural mountains belie their name, as they are small hills which do not detract from the value of that section."

Mr. Hindus described the strides that Russia is making in the industrial world. Cities are springing up almost overnight. Russia has two cities of 200,000 population that were founded in the last seven years. He said when Russia started developing its natural resources it turned to the United States for technical assistance, and that many American engineers went there to take charge of operations.

Russo-Jap Relations

Turning to the question of Russian and Japanese relations, Mr. Hindus declared that Japanese should read history, but "have never learned anything from history." No nation has ever learned the lessons of history, he said. Napoleon, the Russian Czar and the Kaiser did not take advantage of the lessons of history and saw their empires fallen.

"Japan is hungry for land and resources, and she is afraid of Russia. Russia wanted Japan to sign a non-aggression pact, by which neither country would invade the other without first submitting the arguments to the courts. But Japan refused to do this.

"Russia does not want to fight—she is too busy building and developing within her borders. But Russia is not overlooking the possibility of Japanese invasion. Russia has a large army in the east, a huge air force and the military expenditures this year exceed those of any other nation.

"Russia says to Japan 'we do not want any trouble'; we don't care what you do in China, and we will let you go ahead with your development of Manchuria, but keep off our soil.'"

"I am convinced that Japan is afraid to fight Russia now. The Japanese missed their chance in 1930 when Russia was weak from effects of revolution. Russia now has a standing army of 1,200,000, with 17,000,000 more ready to go. Japan cannot stand a long war, but Russia with its resources can carry on indefinitely.

Alliance Rumors

"There have rumors of a Japanese and German alliance against Russia. I don't know if these reports are true. But if they are, Hitler will insist that England and France remain neutral.

"The Russian revolution cannot be destroyed. History teaches that no nation has successfully attacked a revolution.

Mr. Hindus said Russia is passing through a period of rapid transition, with changing ideals in all phases of life. Laws are becoming more flexible and bringing about greater stability.

When Russia turned against religion, he said, Christmas trees were banned. But within three years Christmas trees again have become a part of Russian celebrations.

Discrimination against the children of business men in attending universities also has been overcome to some extent, he declared. The entire structure of government is undergoing changes that he believes will insure stability to a higher degree.

The speaker closed with a statement that Japan should let Russia alone, and that world peace demands a hands-off policy on Russian questions.

The closing Institute session was a colorful and impressive gathering of persons who are interested in the promotion of peace among nations. Dr. Freeman A. Havighurst, pastor of Grace M. E. church, in his brief invocation expressed a wish that wisdom be the dominant note in settling world questions.

At the speakers' table were Mrs. Charles Stevens, Dr. Havighurst, Mrs. A. C. Crawford, Harold Gibson, Mrs. Hugh Beggs, Dr. No Yong-Park, Dean Roma N. Hawkins, Yutaka Minakuchi, Mrs. H. C. Jaquith, Maurice Hindus, Dr. C. P. McClelland, Mrs. McClelland, R. Allan Stevens, Miss Alves Long, Dr. H. C. Jaquith, Hugh Beggs, Mrs. Harold Gibson, Charles Stevens, A. C. Crawford, Mrs. Freeman A. Havighurst and Dr. George Adams.

Sino-Japanese Affairs Debated at MacMurray By Minakuchi, Dr. Park

It was Yutaka Minakuchi, upholding Japan's stand in the Far East tangle, who advanced the frank opinion of the meddling attitude of some foreign nations in regard to his country's invasion of Manchuria, when he said, "The salvation of China and Japan must come from within, instead of without. We must not be dependent on other nations for our course of action.

"I do not say that Japan has been a benefactor, but since their advent into Manchuri, its citizens have enjoyed a greater degree of peace and order."

This was the nucleus of Minakuchi's argument against Dr. No-Yong Park, Chinese, who shared the debate platform with his "friend and enemy" in the afternoon session of the MacMurray Institute on Problems of the Pacific. The college gymnasium was packed for the verbal war and the question session which followed. Dr. McClelland presided over the debate, Harold Gibson of the high school faculty acting as chairman, and Mrs. Hugh Beggs of the college faculty, read the questions of the audience to Minakuchi, Park and Miss Alves Long, morning speaker.

The prospect of a debate between two authentic representatives of countries, informally at war, set the audience at a keen edge to appreciate the rapier like wit and clever handling of the Chinese point of view by Dr. Park and to understand the prominence of the little Nipponese empire as they heard the steady, attractively sincere support of the actions of a growing, restless and hungry Japan.

Justifies Invasion

Dr. Park pointed out that Japan justified her invasion on the ground of "self defense" which had been recognized as legitimate by treaties between the powers. That stand, he said, was based on lack of room, a food problem. Chinese misrule, to protect China against Russia and on the grounds that China had herself violated the treaty provisions. He was a bit facetious in disposing of the first argument, admitting that Japan was crowded, that he was sorry,—in fact sorry "that there were so many Japs in the world." Dr. Park said this was really a justification of the military lust for power, for "glory in the old sense."

He was forced to admit that Japan could use more raw material, but said that they had never suffered from real hunger, and had never included in their estimate of food resources the fishing grounds which were a huge supply of perhaps the most popular Jap food.

In disposing of the arguments of mis-rule, protection against an advancing communistic Russia and Chinese treaty violation.—Dr. Park maintained that it was not the prerogative of Japan to right these matters, that were it not for the fact that "Japan has hold of the very neck of China," that country would almost rather turn to Russia for help. He said that there was a natural hatred for the Japs on the part of his countrymen that would prevent their accomplishing any lasting political or social good.

Condemns Japan

His constructive remarks were closed with a condemnation of Japan as the aggressor in the invasion of China. "Japan is the aggressor, and will go down in history as one of the greatest. They will be remembered as a disturber of the peace of the entire world."

Minakuchi's first defense argument was a denial that Japan had enough food, and it was here that he called on Dr. Park to admit that his country did not have enough raw material. He further pointed out that the well-to-do and those able to make the change in China were emigrating to Manchuria where they were finding a guarantee of protection and opportunity for livelihood under Japanese rule. When the latter country invaded Manchuria there were 5 or 6 million population.—today there are between 29 and 30 millions. He said that not more than 1,300,000 were combined Japs and Koreans.

Continuing with figures, Minakuchi said that Japan had 15 million acres of arable land—to feed 70 million people. "This," he said, "cannot be done."

The speaker then dropped an actual defense of Japan's action from the eastern standpoint, to admit that Japan perhaps had adopted a few of the old tricks of empire from western countries whose progress in culture and knowledge had carried them past their use to acquire power and territory. But he pointed out that Japan had not reached that evolutionary stage, that they were still in somewhat of a backward age when power and expansion were definite parts of their national program, and that they were only copying the "tricks" learned from their western neighbors.

Many Mistakes.

He concluded, "Japan has made many mistakes and blunders—but show me a nation that has not. As long as a nation admits them, there is still hope for that nation.

"We do not, after all, live by bread alone. We should liberate ourselves from self individualism so that nations may walk together with harmony, peace and fraternity."

Dr. Park, in his rebuttal arguments, denied the assumption that Chinese misrule in its worst form would welcome Japanese interference. "The best way for Japan to help China would be to leave them alone." He also brought the interpretation that the Chinese were populating the richer lands of Manchuria in spite of Japanese rule, not because of it.

In his rebuttal, Minakuchi quoted the opinion of many authorities who believed China would never be united and could never hope to form a self ruling political entity.

In the question session, the following was asked of Minakuchi: "If Japan had known sanctions would have been applied by countries, including the United States, would she have gone into Manchuria in 1931?" The answer was the obvious one, and also ironic, "Yes or no!" He pointed out that the burden of proof was with the questioner since the sanctions were not applied, and the United States, beyond some "propagandic league" pressure, showed no intention of negating trade.

Both men acceded to a request that they speak in their native tongues. The questioning was conducted by Mrs. Hugh Beggs until four o'clock.

Says Women Should Not Enter Business World, Place Is In Home

Dr. No Yong Park speaker at the MacMurray Institute Tuesday was born in Manchuria. After the war, he and several companions wished to complete their education, but were physically and morally unable to do so, due to the chaotic condition of Europe after the World War. For that reason, they came to New York.

In New York, Dr. Park, studied four months in grade school and four months in high school in order to learn English. With that preparation he entered Harvard University. He says, "When I entered Harvard, I couldn't read a newspaper without the constant aid of a dictionary. One day, I could read two lines; maybe the next day I could read three or four. I learned English in this way, and from my college class mates who taught me slang! English is a terrible language to learn—I had an awful time with it."

Questioned about America girls, Dr. Park replied enthusiastically: "They are beautiful, charming and sweet. I have met a number of them at the college and approve of them entirely."

Dr. Park approves absolutely of the co-educational system of education. He calls it good and stimulating. He objects, however, to the unduly exaggerated form of materialism and professionalism evident in American colleges. It is, he claims, undermining the cultural outlook. Women should not, Dr. Park is emphatic in stating, enter the business world. Their hereditary place is in the home and they should not "monkey with" the business world. He does admit, however, that if all men could find jobs, then it would be permissable for women to enter commercial positions. Dr. Park says, "I advise all young women to stay out of business and remain in the home."

WPA Projects Are Halted Because Of No Funds For Men

Road District Work, Greek Bowl Program Stopped Temporarily

The WPA project on Chapin road district Number four used the last of its funds yesterday, leaving 37 men temporarily without work. It was the third project to suspend operation in Morgan county since February 21 when the Greek Bowl laborers were laid off here with about 40 per cent of the program yet to be carried out.

The other suspended project is the Lynnville road district, employing 62 men. Some of these have been transferred to other jobs, but the majority of the 122 workers affected by the lack of funds are making time until further allocations can be made.

City Engineer Kenneth Stapleton said last night that he had been given good assurance that funds to continue the filling in and landscaping the site of the Greek Bowl were on the way and would be available in a short time. This information was the result of a telephone conversation with one of the supervisors in the Peoria office.

The engineer also pointed out that local authorities had anticipated need for a further allocation of funds for the Johnson street sewer. When the present money has been used up, the work will be only half completed. This request has already been made, in an effort to have the money on hand, preventing delay that these three idle projects are now experiencing.

Casting for the next in the series of one act plays presented by the high school Dramatic Club has been completed and regular rehearsals are being held under the direction of Miss Frances Brown. "Finders Keepers" is the title of the piece and it was written by George Kelley. The cast is as follows:

Mrs. Aldrid—Mar Norbury.

Mrs. Hampton—Isabel Stoops.

The date for the production has not been definitely set up to this time, but it probably will be given in the J.H.S. assembly during the early part of March.
